DECODE BIHAR POLL DECIDE

MODI OBLIQUELY ENDORSES NITISH AS BIHAR CHIEF MINISTER CANDIDATE

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday said the National Democratic Alliance under the leadership of Nitish Kumar will script a record win in Bihar polls

PM'S STATEMENT COMES AFTER TEJASHWI JIBE

Modi's statement indirectly endorsing Nitish as the NDA's CM face comes a day after RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav, Opposition INDIA bloc's CM candidate, had claimed that the BJP would not let Nitish become CM again. Modi's stance is different from Union home minister Amit Shah's recent remark that the NDA would decide on CM after the elections | P12

20 YRS OF NDA RULE DID NO GOOD: RJD LEADER

- Modi said people can't expect the RJD-Congress to solve any of their problems. "They (RJD-Cong) are a problem by themselves," he said
- Meanwhile, Tejashwi alleged there is widespread unemployment and rampant corruption. "Despite 20 years of NDA rule in Bihar, the state's per capita income is the lowest and farmers remain poor," he claimed

GROWING METRO

Now, DCM sets the ball rolling for new master plan for city

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

DEPUTY Chief Minister DK Shivakumar on Friday said that he has given directions to the Urban Development Department (UDD) to prepare a new master plan for Bengaluru Urban district, as the area is growing leaps and bounds.

The DCM, after a meeting with stake holders at the Panchayat, City Municipal Council, and Outer areas of GBA, said that road- widening will be the top priority, as construction activity is gaining pace, widening of roads will be a difficult task later on. Shivakumar suggested to conduct a survey of the areas on the outskirts of Bengaluru Urban District, as it will be included in the Greater Bangalore Authority (GBA) jurisdiction in the future.

After the progress review meeting of the local bodies under Bengaluru Urban District, the DCM said, "A meeting of officials of 12 local bodies of Bangalore city district was held. Bangalore will grow in the future. The areas covered by Bangalore Metropolitan Regional Development Authority (BMRDA) will become part of Bangalore city in the coming days," he said. P2

India-US trade deal to be inked very soon: Govt

Talks over, pact now in drafting stage: official

PUSHPITA DEY @New Delhi

DESPITE geopolitical challenges, India and the US are close to concluding a bilateral trade deal, a commerce ministry official said on Friday, adding major differences have been ironed out and both sides are now on the same page. "We are very near as far as the deal is concerned," said the official while disclosing that both countries are now working on the language of the trade deal.

TARIFF TRACKER

Commerce and industry Minister Piyush Goyal, who is in Germany for the Berlin Global Dialogue, had on Thursday said the talks were progressing well with both the sides working towards a deal. Speaking to Doordarshan in Berlin, Goyal said, "We are in dialogue with the US; our teams are engaged. We recently had the commerce secretary visit the US and meet his counterparts. We continue to engage with them and talks are progressing. We hope to work towards a fair and equitable agreement in the near future." However, he reiterated that India "does not do deals with deadlines or with a gun to its head".

India and the US have completed five rounds of talks so far. A team of Indian delegates from led by Commerce Secretary Rajesh Agarwal visited US last week.

After Prime Minister Narendra Modi and US President Donald Trump met in February, a target was set to negotiate a bilateral trade deal by November. However, relations soured after Trump announced a 50% tariff on Indian goods from August onwards as a penalty for buying Russian oil.

The US delegate's visit to India was also cancelled. However, both sides continued talks. The momentum was restored when Brendan Lynch, assistant US trade representative for South and Central Asia, met Indian officials in New Delhi.

The proposed pact aims to double the bilateral trade to $500 billion by 2030.

Maha doctor names cops in palm note, ends life

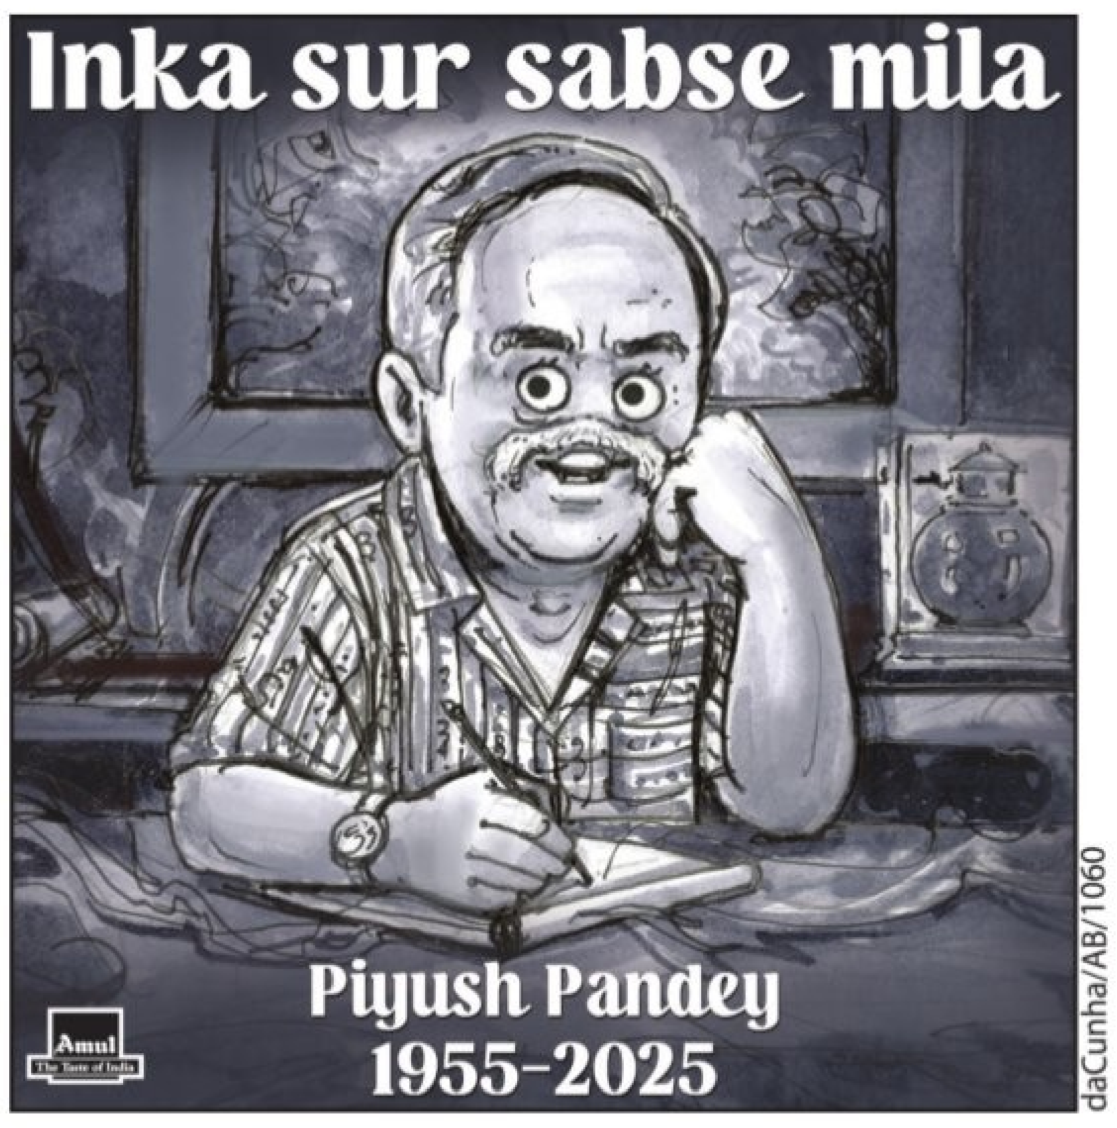
SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

A 28-year old woman doctor working at a government hospital in Phaltan in Satara district of Maharashtra died by suicide late on Thursday night and left a seven-line note on her palm, blaming two police inspectors for her harassment, torture and sexual exploitation.

In the note, the doctor accused police sub-inspector Gopal Badane of raping her five times while police inspector Prashant Bankar harassed and mentally tortured her for four months. The note that was spotted during autopsy has been sent for forensic analysis. The victim had briefed her seniors about the harassment but could not get justice; hence she allegedly hanged herself in a hotel room near the Phaltan hospital.

District police superintendent Tushar Doshi said a case has been registered against Badane and Bankar, and both placed under suspension. They are absconding.

The victim's relatives accused Badane and his associates of pressuring the doctor to alter medical reports on unnatural deaths and modify reports when arrested persons were brought to the hospital for a medical test.



20 killed as B'luru-bound bus catches fire after collision with bike in Kurnool

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kurnool

TWENTY people, including two children and a biker, were charred to death, and several others injuried when an AC sleeper bus travelling from Hyderabad to Bengaluru caught fire after colliding with a two-wheeler in Kurnool district in the early hours of Friday. The incident happened on the National Highway 44 near Chinnatekuru village.

The bus belonging to Vemuri Kaveri Travels caught fire around 3 am after hitting the two-wheeler, and dragged it for some distance, generating sparks which ignited its fuel tank, triggering the blaze.

In all, 46 people, including four children, and two drivers, were in the vehicle. As the flames spread rapidly, passengers were trapped inside the burning vehicle. Locals and police acted swiftly, rescuing several passengers despite the intense blaze, and heavy rain.

Rescue operations continued for hours, and with the joint efforts of fire service personnel, police, revenue, and medical teams, the fire was brought under control.

Home Minister Vangalapudi Anitha said of the 19 victims, six each hailed from Andhra Pradesh and neighbouring Telangana, two each from Tamil Nadu and Karnataka and one each from Odisha and Bihar. The identity of a person, who boarded the ill-fated bus at Aramghar in Hyderabad, is yet to be established. Some of the bodies were charred beyond recognition, prompting officials to deploy forensic teams to collect DNA samples of the deceased. MORE: P7

PM Narendra Modi said he was extremely saddened by the incident, and announced a compensation of ₹2 lakh each for the families of the victims, and ₹50,000 for the injured.

6 from state perish in deadly fire

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

AT least six people with links to Karnataka died in the bus inferno that claimed 19 lives in Andhra Pradesh's Kurnool district in the early hours of Friday.

Officials said Philomen Baby (64) and Kishore Kumar (41), both residents of Karnataka, were killed in the blaze, while four members of a family living in Kammanahalli in Bengaluru were also killed in the fire.

They have been identified as Ramesh (35), his wife Anusha (30) and their children Manish (12) and Manvitha (10). Hailing from Nellore, Ramesh had been working in a private company in Bengaluru for nearly 15 years.

Though there were reports that four more people working in the IT sector in Bengaluru were also killed in the tragedy, no official confirmation was available. CONTINUED ON: P7

Flood alert issued as KRS maintains full reservoir level, outflows increased

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mysuru

WITH the Krishna Raja Sagar (KRS) reservoir continuing to remain at its maximum level of 124.80 feet for over a week, the Cauvery Neeravari Nigam Limited (CNNL) officials are releasing higher amounts of water downstream and issued a flood warning for low-lying areas of Mandya district.

The dam has been receiving sustained inflows because of heavy rainfall in the Cauvery catchment areas in Kodagu and surrounding regions over the past several days. The dam currently holds its maximum capacity of 49.452 tmcft of water.

Officials said that as of Friday, inflow into the dam was around 37,000 cusecs, prompting authorities to increase outflows from 25,000 cusecs to 40,000 cusecs since Thursday night.

CNNL officials said that while there is no report of crop damage so far, precautionary measures have been taken. People residing in low-lying and vulnerable villages along the river have been advised to move to safer places. Authorities, including the district administration and police, have been alerted to be ready for any emergency. P6

EVERYONE'S MAN

Adman who spoke to India in its language

GURBIR SINGH @Mumbai

PIYUSH Pandey was the odd man out at a RedInk Awards panel discussion soon after Prime Minister Modi was voted in for the first time in 2014. As an advertising creative executive, he didn't fit into a panel of popular news anchors Rajdeep Sardesai and Arnab Goswami, and Star chief Uday Shankar.

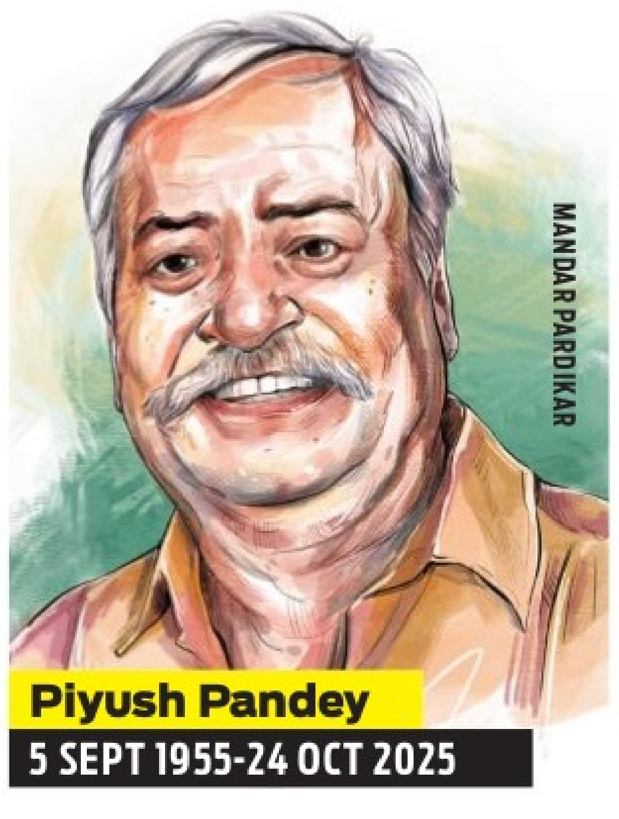
Not surprisingly, he drew fire for his catch line: Aab ki Bar, Modi Sarkar — a slogan that moved the anti-incumbency wave. He laughed it off. "We have to deliver the message of our clients. We have nothing to do with politics."

Pandey's creative campaigns for Ogilvy — the ad agency he started with in 1982 and ended his career and life with at 70 as Chief Creative Officer — grew it to an industry leader even as his creative skills dominated advertising in India for over three decades.

He carried his walrus mustache, his broad grin and infectious sense of humour everywhere; but it was his pioneering effort in changing Indian advertising from borrowed Western idioms to campaigns rooted in the language of our streets and villages that made him a legend.

Remember the Mile Sur Mera Tumhara in 1988? It was a jingle for national integration written by him. It took the country by storm as it worked up a pride for unity in diversity.

He also made some big brands daily, household names. Like his 1993 Cadbury's campaign, Kuch Khaas Hai ham Sabhi Mein, which used local imagery to convince adults there is no sin in enjoying chocolates.



Piyush Pandey
5 SEPT 1955-24 OCT 2025

The power of 'gifting' is another tack Pandey used successfully. He pushed Cadbury (now Mondalez) chocolates as a way to say thank you — Kuch Meetha Ho Jai; as he did with Titan timepieces — 'The Joy of Gifting'.

But who can ever forget Pandey's incredibly creative Hutch (now Vodafone) campaign with the pug ZooZoo from 2010? The pug was used when 'Hutch' was transitioning to 'Vodafone'; and in a quirky, simple manner the dog symbolised loyalty and connection. The pug campaign became so popular that for years the Chinese 'pug' breed became a favourite in India!

For his contribution to advertising, Piyush Pandey was awarded the Padma Shri in 2016. He made his mark in advertising using a simple, storytelling style. As a person, he was never the corporate bigwig. An unkempt, easygoing guy, he was everyone's man.

Cubbon Park walkers to boycott DCM

Officials trying to prevent us from meeting DKS fearing we will expose illegal activities: Assn

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Cubbon Park Walkers' Association has decided to boycott Deputy Chief Minister and Bengaluru Development Minister DK Shivakumar's 'Walk With Citizens' initiative at Cubbon Park this Sunday, as officials have ignored the association, fearing that the members will expose them.

Association president Umesh S says there is a parking mafia, hawkers' mafia and other illegal activities going on in Cubbon Park, and fearing this will be brought up before the DCM, East City Corporation officials have only arranged a meeting of the DCM with some dog lovers.

"We will not take part in such a meeting, as officials are trying to prevent association members from meeting the DCM. There are 3,000 members in the association, and all have been informed about wrongdoing by Central City Corporation officials. After I posted on social media about boycotting the DCM's initiative to meet citizens and hear their concerns firsthand, an official called Ranganath reached out to me and tried to convince me to take part, but we will not take part due to disrespect," said Umesh.

The Association, which has been dedicated to the protection and preservation of Cubbon Park for over 15 years, expressed deep disappointment and dismay over its complete exclusion from event planning and execution.

"We understand that Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar is visiting Cubbon Park on October 26 as part of his 'Walk with Bengaluru' campaign. However, Cubbon Park Walkers' Association, which has been striving to protect the park for over 15 years, has been neither intimated about the event nor consulted by the authorities." Umesh stated in a message to members of the association.

Deputy Director of Bengaluru Central City Corporation, Ranganath, did not respond to calls from TNIE.

₹4cr rebooting of Vengaianakere Lake may ease water woes

MOHAMMED YACOOB @Bengaluru

AFTER Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar's 'Walk With Citizens' initiative, Bengaluru East City Corporation (BECC) has begun to intensify the development of Vengianakere Lake. On October 18, lake development works worth Rs 4 crore were asked to be taken up on priority by the DCM's office. Once developed, the catchment area of 6.57 square kms in KR Puram will see an improvement in ground water table, and apartment complexes that depend on tanker water supply will not face scarcity in summer, according to lake engineers from BECC.

The lake is spread on two survey numbers in Sannathammanahalli (26.23 acres) and KR Puram (38.12 acres), and is part of the South Pennar river.

"Desilting was done months ago, and water storage capacity was increased from 95.40 million liters to 270 million liters. Now, the construction of the outer body fence up to 800 meters is taken up at a cost of Rs 58.46 lakh. Construction of water body fence to 1,568 meters at Rs 71.37 lakh, pathway improvement covering a distance of 2,100 meters costing Rs 54.53 lakh, and construction of a crossover bridge costing Rs 43.08 lakh are also being done. Waste weir, sluice gate with control room and rock fill bund for sedimentation pond at the cost of around Rs 90 lakh is being done, and in the next two months the task will be completed. If everything goes as per the plan, it will be a New Year gift to people residing in the locality," said an engineer.

The issue of encroachment and sewage flow into the lake, however, remain big concerns. Lake activists are keeping the pressure intact against Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board (BWSSB) and Corporation officials to address lake pollution and to reclaim a small portion of encroached land.

"The diversion channel is meant to carry only diluted sewage from the Sewage Treatment Plant to stormwater. But concentrated sewage is entering the water body. The existing 20 MLD capacity of the STP on the east side of the lake should be upgraded to a tertiary treatment plant. The officials appear to be only taking up aeration of sewage and are not doing chlorination. The STPs should be inspected by a team of officials from the Pollution Board and steps should be taken accordingly," said an official.

Now, you can name adopted animal for life

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru:

THE Bannerghatta Biological Park (BBP) management on Friday announced the tweaking of the Animal Adoption Policy to encourage more people to adopt animals and birds in the zoo premises.

BBP Executive Director AV Surya Sen said that while people can adopt an animal/bird for a limited timeframe, they can name the animal/bird for a lifetime. This has been done to encourage more people to adopt animals. Post Covid, there has been a gradual decline in adoption.

As per BBP data, during April-March 2020-21, adoptions to the tune of Rs 58,61,559 were done. This increased to Rs 1,92,27,186 for the same period in 2021-22. It dropped to Rs 78,31,052 in 2022-23, then to Rs 72,51,766 in 2023-24 and to Rs 53,84,156 in 2024-25.

In the last financial year, the adoption amount touched Rs 14,72,501 in February. Similarly, March 2021 saw the highest adoptions worth Rs 20,98,750, similarly in March 2023, adoptions to the tune of Rs 21,45,649 were done.

Sen explained that under the earlier adoption policy, naming rights demanded an additional 25 per cent charge on adoption charges. Further, the adoption was limited for one year. Now, based on the decision taken at the 159th governing council meeting of Zoo Authority of Karnataka, good samaritans can adopt and name animals for years, with one-time payment and no additional christening charges.

Under 80G of the Income Tax rules, there is a 50 per cent exemption on adoption charges. The individual/organisation gets an adoption certificate, the name is displayed near the bird/animal enclosure and they are given complimentary entry passes for five years.

BIG PLANS

All property records to be digitised: DCM

SHIVAKUMAR added, "As outside areas are witnessing development, a master plan will have to be prepared."

Shivakumar's statements come on the backdrop of his tour of the city in outer areas near Anekal and observations on Thursday. "Road widening and other infrastructure development need to be done right away. A proper plan needs to be made for this. The roads are narrow in some areas, including the CMC and the town panchayat. Instead of making it difficult in the future, I have instructed the Public Works Department (PWD) and, Urban Planning Department to work on the master plan," he informed.

Shivakumar instructed the officials to prepare for the conversion of B-khata to A-khata in these areas as well. "I have also instructed to bring uniformity in tax collection in this part, like property value based tax collection in Bengaluru city," he said.

The DCM also instructed the officials to take steps against the construction of illegal buildings, as providing water and other infrastructure will become a challenge in the future.

When asked about the encroachment of the Rajakaluve and the encroachment of government property in Bengaluru city, he said, "All property records will be digitized immediately on the model of Bengaluru city," he said, and added that the area will also have a garbage collection system on the model of Bangalore city."

When asked if the new areas would be included only in Bangalore South City Corporation, he said, "We are planning to include all 12 local bodies in the border area around Bangalore under GBA. First, let the authorities report. Besides, I have been told to discuss with the public, associations, MLAs, and MPs."

Develop Freedom Park for public use, Central City chief to officials

Bengaluru Central City Corporation Commissioner Rajendra Cholan (maroon shirt) and officials inspect Freedom Park on Friday | EXPRESS

BENGALURU Central City Corporation Commissioner Rajendra Cholan directed officials to comprehensively develop Freedom Park. Inspecting Freedom Park on Friday morning, he instructed the authorities to ensure the park has electricity connection, drinking water, a smooth path for pedestrians, and a proper security system.

Senior citizens who go on walks in Freedom Park suggested the construction of a path to make it easier for women and children to walk. During the inspection, Cholan also suggested building a kids' park with play equipment and space for children to ride around.

"For convenience of the public, toilet facilities should be provided, and cleanliness maintained. Plant more saplings and take measures for their nutrition, and clear dry and dangerous trees, twigs and branches," Cholan directed officials.

The Commissioner also inspected the multi-storied parking lot next to the park and suggested that the city corporation generate revenue by using the space on top of the building for the display and sale of goods and other commercial purposes.

During the inspection, he instructed officials to immediately clear waste, iron, gravel, sand and construction material on the road, which is causing traffic problems, and to impose a fine on the building owners.

Deputy Development Commissioner Daljit Kumar, Joint Commissioners Ranganath and Hemant Sharan, Chief Engineers Vijay Kumar Haridas and Suguna, executive engineers and other officials were present.

City continues to suffer as suburban rail lies in limbo

INDRA S @Bengaluru

WHILE Bengaluru's traffic is getting worse by the day, Bengaluru Suburban Rail Project (BSRP), which has the potential to decongest the choked city is in limbo. Nearly two months after Union Minister of State for Railways V Somanna announced that a review would be conducted within 20–25 days to prepare a roadmap for executing all four corridors of the BSRP, no progress or official updates have been released. The delay has raised questions about the project's pace and its fate of completion.

After Larsen and Tubro (L&T) terminated their contract to execute the Corridors 2 and 4 citing the lack of support and issues pertaining to smooth handover of land for track laying, the Minister on August 29 said, "In the next 20–25 days, a survey (review) will be carried out in consultation with the central government to prepare a roadmap for the execution of all four corridors of the project."

The executing body of the project Rail Infrastructure Development Company (Karnataka) Limited (KRIDE) had recently decided to invite fresh tenders for the balance civil works of Corridor-2 of BSRP, also known as the Mallige Line connecting Benniganahalli and Chikkabanawara.

Speaking on the effects of the delay in the project, railway activists say the city will continue to choke if this project is anymore delayed.

Krishna Prasad, a railway activist said, "It's been 40 months, yet not a single suburban rail line is complete. The biggest disadvantage for K-RIDE is the dual control of Centre and State, and the absence of a full-time Managing Director."

Officials in charge, he noted, juggle multiple departments, slowing progress. "The suburban system should have been handled directly by the Railways, as in Mumbai or Chennai," he added, stressing that the Metro and suburban rail should complement each other. "A suburban system carries more passengers, costs less, and is vital for Bengaluru's mobility."

Sanjeev Dyammanavar, another railway activist said, "In the last few months, we've seen the worst of Bengaluru's traffic. Even with the Metro yellow line, congestion remains," he said. "The suburban rail project is very delayed — only bits and pieces of work are happening."

"If delays continue, the city will suffer even more. Citizens are already struggling every day. The Railway Minister, Chief Minister, MPs, and MLAs should hold weekly review meetings to push this project forward and ensure physical progress on the ground," he said.

Air Chief in city, reviews training establishments

Bengaluru: Air Chief Marshal AP Singh, Chief of Air Staff (CAS), presided over the Training Command Commanders' Conference 2025, held at the Headquarters Training Command (HQTC) Bengaluru on Thursday and Friday. At the annual conference, Singh said transformations in military training are vital to ensure that defence forces remain adaptable and efficient during global threats. Commanders of all the training establishments under the training command attended the conference. Discussions on training philosophy, modernisation of infrastructure and alignment of instructional practices with the evolving operational needs of the Indian Air Force were held. Singh commended the notable achievements of the training establishments, and identified areas for improvement. He also awarded trophies to the stations. The Air Force Academy was also awarded the 'Pride of the Training Command' trophy. ENS

A 60-year-old man and his wife were killed, while three others sustained injuries, after the car they were travelling in rammed a lorry from behind near T Begur in the Nelamangala traffic police limits on Friday morning. The deceased have been identified as Shivanalinga Gowda and his wife, Pramila (55). All five members of the family were travelling from Gadag to Bengaluru to visit a hospital

Truck tries to avoid pothole, runs over woman

10 injured on Huskur Road stretch last year

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE poorly maintained Huskur Main Road near Golden Palms Hotel and Resort in Alur near Nelamangala claimed the life of a 26-year-old bank employee on Friday morning.

The incident occurred near Lights Mechanic Company around 10.55 am when her brother was dropping her at the Madavara Metro station. A truck that was going towards APMC Market in Dasanapura was trying to avoid a pothole and swerved sharply right. It brushed against the handle of the bike that was coming from the opposite direction. The rider lost balance and both he and his sister fell on the road. The victim who fell to the right came under the wheels of the truck and died on the spot, while the brother sustained injuries.

The victim, Priyanka Kumari Pooniya, was a resident of Alur BDA Phase 2 on Huskur Main Road near Alur Cricket stadium in Dasanapura. She was riding the pillion with her brother Naresh Kumar, 34, a businessman. Priyanka, who worked near Tin Factory on Old Madras Road, used to be dropped off regularly by her brother. Her father Mahaveer Singh Pooniya is a transporter and vice-president of the Alur BDA Phase 2 Resident Welfare Association.

Naresh told the police that the truck driver swerved right suddenly trying to avoid a crater and touched his bike's handle. That caused him and his sister to fall, leading to Priyanka's death.

> Victim was not wearing helmet. The truck, a Haryana-registered vehicle, was seized and the driver detained. Priyanka's family is from Haryana and has been staying in Alur for the last eight years
>
> Police sources

Shashidhar, Secretary, Resident Welfare Association, said that after the pipe-laying work for the Yettinahole project, the road has not been laid scientifically. Craters have formed as trucks use this road regularly to reach the APMC Market. "Over the last one year, around 10 people from Alur BDA Phase 2 have sustained injuries. Naresh narrowly escaped with minor injuries," he added. "The victim was not wearing a helmet and died on the spot. The truck, a Haryana-registered vehicle, was seized and the driver detained. Priyanka's family is from Haryana and has been staying in Alur for the last eight years," said a police officer.

The body was shifted to the Nelamangala Government Hospital mortuary for postmortem.

The Madanayakanahalli police have registered a case.

ALCOHOL VIOLENCE

Father shoots son after drunken brawl

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A 28-year-old man is battling for life at Victoria Hospital after his father allegedly shot him with a licensed single-barreled muzzle-loading (SBML) gun during a drunken brawl at their house in Marenahalli village, under the Doddaballapura Rural police limits, around 11 pm on Thursday.

The victim, S Harish, who works with a private firm, reportedly questioned his father, Suresh (60), for selling property and spending the money on alcohol. The argument escalated when Harish hit his father with a wooden log, following which Suresh opened fire in a fit of rage, injuring Harish in the face and head.

Neighbours who heard the gunshot rushed to the spot and found Harish lying in a pool of blood. He was taken to a nearby hospital and later shifted to Victoria Hospital.

Police said Suresh, who owns a poultry farm, had a valid gun licence issued in 1986, valid till 2028. He has been detained and was reportedly intoxicated at the time. The Doddaballapura Rural police have registered a case and are investigating further.

Actress Divya Suresh quizzed in hit-and-run case

Bengaluru: Former Bigg Boss Kannada contestant and actress Divya Suresh was questioned in connection with a hit-and-run case after she allegedly hit a bike while driving a car on MM Road near the Byatarayanapura traffic police station. The incident occurred at 1.30 am on October 4 near Jayamma Tea Stall, just a few metres from the police station. Following a complaint filed by G Kiran (25), a resident of Deepanjali Nagar, police traced her through CCTV footage. Kiran said he and his cousins, Anitha and Anusha, were heading to a hospital when stray dogs began chasing their bike, forcing him to swerve, after which a black car driven by a woman hit them and fled.

NLSIU hosts conference on cybersecurity

Bengaluru: Dr Nigam Nuggehalli, Registrar-in-Charge and Professor of Law at National Law School of India University (NLSIU), said, "Personality rights should be seen as equivalent to property rights. Only then can we protect the former". He was speaking at Cyber Vidhi Sangam, bringing together people in law, technology, and cyberdefence, to discuss the future of cybersecurity in a rapidly evolving landscape involving AI. One of the sessions held at the conference was "AI against AI: The Future Between Cyber Defenders and Cyber Criminals". "Previously, malware used to come pre-coded with instructions on how to exploit. But now, with the advent of AI, this has changed; an operator does not need to control malware anymore. It can evolve and adapt without instructions, and can make crucial decisions on its own," rued Rahul Sasi, Co-Founder and Chief Executive Officer at CloudSek, a cybersecurity company.

Tata IISc Medical School to focus on AI, public health, radiology & cardiology

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

The Tata IISc Medical School coming up on the institution's campus will offer dual-degree programmes such as MD-PhD and MD-MTech, enabling clinicians to combine medical training with basic science, engineering and data-driven research, Indian Institute of Science (IISc) Director Professor Govindan Rangarajan said.

Speaking at the inaugural session of Treat-DM 2025, a three-day summit on diabetes and metabolic diseases held at IISc on Friday, he said the medical school's focus areas include radiology, cardiology, bioengineering, AI and public health, with a core emphasis on developing affordable healthcare solutions for India and other developing nations. The initiative is supported by Tata Foundation and the Bakshi-Parthasarathy families, he added.

Highlighting the need for translational research, Professor Rangarajan and conference speakers stressed on bridging the gap between laboratory discoveries and clinical application. Technology Readiness Levels (TRLs) were cited to illustrate the journey from early-stage ideas (TRL 1-4) to industry-ready products (TRL 9-10), with the intermediate 'Valley of Death' (TRL 5-8) requiring focused interdisciplinary collaboration. Bengaluru Rural MP and noted cardiologist Dr CN Manjunath highlighted healthcare challenges, noting that while coronary heart attacks are declining in the US and Europe, they are rising in India — 30% of cases now occur in people under 40. He also emphasized the high cost of immunotherapy drugs in India, ranging from Rs 25-60 lakh per patient, and advocated removing Customs duties, promoting local manufacturing, and integrating clinicians, researchers and biomedical engineers to make advanced treatments more accessible.

The event spotlights emerging therapies in diabetes care, featuring plenary lectures, hands-on workshops and sessions on next-generation therapies, including nano-sensors, advanced glucose monitoring, AI-driven analytics and cellular therapies.

As many as 20,000 former anganwadi workers and helpers are protesting over unpaid gratuity since their retirement in 2011. United Committee of Karnataka State Anganwadi Workers and Helpers Associations general secretary M Jayamma said, "The government has provided gratuity to workers and helpers who retired on April 1, 2023. However, it has not paid gratuity to those who retired from January 1, 2011 to March 31, 2023. We have written to the Department of Women and Child Development and the officials, including Secretary and Director. But we haven't received a positive response from them."

YATHINDRA SPOKE ONLY ON IDEOLOGICAL GROUNDS: SIDDU

DKS says will raise issue with whoever is concerned, hinting at the Congress high command

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @Bengaluru

WITH Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's MLC-son Dr Yathindra stating that PWD Minister Satish Jarkiholi deserves to be the ideological heir to his father, creating ripples in political circles, faultlines have resurfaced in Congress. There is a sense within the ruling party that there could be a major development in mid-November after the Bihar Assembly elections -- either a reshuffle of the Siddaramaiah cabinet or transfer of power -- for which both the CM and Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar camps are going loggerheads.

Siddaramaiah on Friday said, "I asked Yathindra and he clarified that he spoke on the ideological ground and not as to who should become the next CM."

KPCC president Shivakumar, who is hoping to become CM after Siddaramaiah completes two-and-a-half years in office on November 20, 2025, said, "Discipline is priority in our party. I will not speak now, but will do so with whoever is concerned," he said, replying to Yathindra's statement. This means he could speak to AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge, General Secretary (Organisation) KC Venugopal and General Secretary, Karnataka in-charge, Randeep Singh Surjewala.

Yathindra's statement seems to have given Shivakumar an advantage, as the former has gone overboard in this power play. But Shivakumar's loyalist MLAs are worried as they feel Yathindra's utterance indicates that their leader might not get the prime position this year or even in 2018, when the next Assembly elections are held. MLAs Iqbal Hussain from Ramanagara and Basavaraju V Shivaganga of Channagiri have insisted that disciplinary action should be taken against Yathindra. The two have been issued show-cause notices for stating that Shivakumar should become CM.

"Was our statement 'balatkar' (by force), if he (Yathindra) makes 'chamatkar' (magic)," asked Iqbal. "Yathindra's statement is immature. He should not have said it being the son of chief minister. Hope he will mend his ways."

Shivagang said, "Being a former MLA and now an MLC, Yathindra's statement is childish. If the party lets it go, others like me will issue our own statements. It is good if the high command takes action despite his being the CM's son."

Maddur MLA Uday Kadaluru said, "Yathindra has gone crazy. There is no doubt that Shivakumar will become CM as the high command is likely to take a decision."

Shivakumar's brother-in-law and Kunigal MLA Dr Ranganath too hoped that the former will become CM one day. He suggested that Yathindra should not have issued the confusing statement. Former minister KN Rajanna's MLC-son Rajendra defended Yathindra, saying the latter only wished that a member of AHINDA community, Satish Jarkiholi, should become the next CM. "We too are happy if Satish becomes CM. After the Bihar assembly polls, there will be a development," he stated and hoped that his father would be reinducted into the cabinet.

Sagar MLA Belur Gopala Krishna, a cabinet berth aspirant, also hoped for a reshuffle. "I don't belong to any camp. I am a loyalist of the party and see Siddaramaiah, Shivakumar and Satish Jarkiholi equally," he stated. Interestingly, Social Welfare Minister Dr HC Mahadevappa observed that no one is indispensable for Congress. "When former prime minister Indira Gandhi went (died) there was bewilderment as to who would succeed her. Many leaders emerged. There are plenty of leaders committed to the Congress ideology and the high command will take a decision if such a situation arises(change in CM post)," he added.

RSS MARCH

HC orders K'buragi admin to hold peace meet before Oct 28

RAMAKRISHNA BADSESHI @ Kalaburagi

THE Kalaburagi bench of Karnataka High Court, which on Friday commenced its hearing on allowing RSS to hold its Patha Sanchalana (route march) at Chittapur, directed the Kalaburagi district administration to conduct a 'Peace Committee meeting' before October 28 and decided to resume the hearing on October 30.

The bench, chaired by Justice MG Shukure Kamal, heard the arguments by Advocate General Shashikiran Shetty, who appeared through video-conference, and senior advocate Arun Sham, who represented RSS.

Shetty told the court that many organisations have applied for route marches and meetings in Chittapur on November 2, and it would be difficult to give permission for all organisations to hold their events on the same day, same time and same place. He sought two weeks from the court to find a solution.

Sham objected to Shetty's argument, saying the court in its last sitting asked whether the RSS was ready to conduct a route march on November 2. Many organisations may have applied for permission to conduct route marches, but the court should give permission to RSS to conduct its Patha Sanchalana on November 2, he argued.

He said RSS has held route marches in 450 places in the State, and nowhere had law and order problem arisen. If the state government fears such a consequence if the permission is given to RSS, it should ask the Centre to send security forces to Chittapur, he said.

The court asked Shetty whether the district administration can convene the Peace Committee meeting before October 28 as postponing the issue will not solve the problem. Sham pleaded that the district administration should be directed to convene the meeting on Saturday.

Official sources told TNIE that the district administration will convene the meeting on October 28. The march was to be taken out on October 19, but was banned by the Chittapur tahsildar. RSS approached the Kalaburagi bench of the high court, which directed the organisation to apply afresh before the district administration seeking permission to take out the march. RSS applied afresh and sought permission from the district administration for the march on November 2. But Bhim Army and Dalit Panthers too have applied separately before the tahsildar to allow them to conduct the march on November 2.

The Gonda and Kuruba Sangha conveyed to the tahsildar that it would organise a meeting at Chittapur on November 2 to put pressure on the Centre to include Gonda and Kuruba castes in the ST category.

Bhim Army seeks police nod for rally

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Bhim Army's state leadership has formally approached Karnataka Police, seeking permission to hold a public rally on November 2 in Chittapura taluk, Kalaburagi district.

Speaking at a press conference here on Friday, Bhim Army state president Rajgopal DS said, "We have requested permission to carry any three of five specified items during the march — a copy of the Constitution's Preamble, a blue shawl, and either bamboo sticks, khaddas (steel bangle) or licensed firearms."

"We demand permission because the RSS, in our view, is trying to intimidate a Dalit minister here. Instead of supporting social equality, RSS has been creating fear and division. Even after 100 years of existence, the organisation still carries sticks, rather than spreading knowledge or education among the youth," he said. The event, organized in association with the Bharat Ekta Mission, aims to mobilize youth from Dalit, backward, tribal and Muslim communities to promote awareness about India's democratic values, Rajgopal added. "RSS has never once read out or honoured the Constitution written by Dr BR Ambedkar during its marches or meetings. If they can carry sticks, we will carry the Constitution and walk peacefully in a disciplined, constitutional manner. If they are given permission, we should also be given."

If permission is granted, Bhim Army will mobilize at least 1,000 people from each district, numbering over 25,000 participants, he added.

Fixed timelines, single-window project clearance soon, says Patil

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

IN a bid to cut red tape and streamline the clearance process for investors, Chief Secretary Shalini Rajneesh will study and streamline interdepartmental processes to ensure official mandatory permissions are given without undue delays, and submit a detailed report, Industries Minister MB Patil said here on Friday. The report will be discussed at the next Cabinet meeting before formal orders are issued.

He spoke to reporters after the High-Level Project Clearance Committee meeting chaired by Chief Minister Siddaramaiah at Vidhana Soudha on Friday. "We are determined to make Karnataka the top investment destination in the country with ease of doing business. All industrial approvals will have fixed timelines, and violations of these deadlines will invite action," Patil said.

The CM reviewed the approval timelines followed in neighbouring states — Telangana, Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh — for various project-related clearances such as land-use conversion, power supply, tree felling or transplantation permissions, water connections, fire safety certification, industry registration, boiler and lift licences, and more. While some states complete such processes in 7 to 66 days, in Karnataka the same tasks can take anywhere between 20 and 120 days, he added. "The CM has issued strict orders to eliminate these unnecessary delays," Patil said. Investors have repeatedly complained about prolonged clearances, especially from the KSPCB and Fire and Emergency Services. To tackle this, the government has integrated 115 services from 20 departments into a new single-window portal developed by Microsoft.

However, 29 key services -- including the departments of Stamps and Registration, Labour, Fire Services, Revenue, Drug Control, Bangalore Development Authority, Karnataka Industrial Areas Development Board, Pollution Control Board and Bangalore Metropolitan Region Development Authority -- are yet to be onboarded. "We are expediting their inclusion under the single-window system," Patil said.

A live demonstration of the new portal was presented during the meeting. Highlighting the stiff competition from Gujarat, Telangana, Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh, Odisha and Uttar Pradesh, Patil remarked, "For investors, time is money. If we delay approvals, the state loses opportunities. We've resolved to end this unnecessary bottleneck once and for all," he said.

Will make Karnataka the most investor-friendly state, says CM

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, flanked by Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar and Industries Minister MB Patil, chairs the High-Level Project Clearance Committee meeting in Vidhana Soudha on Friday | EXPRESS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

A high-powered meeting chaired by Chief Minister Siddaramaiah at Vidhana Soudha pledged to make Karnataka the country's most investor-friendly destination, slashing red tape and enforcing strict accountability among officials.

At an investment promotion and facilitation meeting, Siddaramaiah directed all departments to cut back 'approval timelines' for industries, including land-use conversion and No Objection Certificates (NOC), warning that "unnecessary delays will not be tolerated". A detailed proposal on reducing clearance timelines has been sought. Siddaramaiah said that despite Karnataka attracting a record Rs 10.27lakh crore by way of investment commitments at the Global Investors' Meet earlier this year, bureaucratic slowdowns continue to hamper implementation.

"Nearly 60 per cent of these investments are already under execution, but we must move faster," he said. Another Rs 1.5 lakh crore worth of proposals are reportedly at various stages of approval. Highlighting frequent delays in approvals from the Pollution Control Board and Fire department, the CM ordered that rules be revised to expedite clearances. "Departments must act in coordination to provide industries with essential infrastructure -- roads, water and power -- without bottlenecks," he emphasised.

Calling Karnataka a "progressive and investment-ready" state, Siddaramaiah cautioned officials against hiding behind excuses such as Supreme Court restrictions. "The same court applies to all states. If others can move ahead, so can we," he said.

Minister Priyank Kharge echoed the urgency, urging officials to act decisively. He noted that Karnataka, despite having only 37 Special Economic Zones (SEZs) compared to Tamil Nadu's 51, contributes a competitive 8.2 per cent to the national SEZ output -- proof of the state's industrial strength. The CM also announced plans to amend laws and policies to strengthen Karnataka's "industry-first" ecosystem, including promoting green energy for industrial power supply and integrating all services under the single-window clearance system. Currently, 29 services remain outside the unified system, which the CM ordered be brought under it.

₹27,607.26 crore of investment proposals cleared

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka State High-Level Clearance Committee, chaired by Chief Minister Siddaramaiah at Vidhana Soudha on Friday, approved 13 investment proposals with a total outlay of Rs 27,607.26 crore. The projects are expected to generate 8,704 direct jobs.

A statement from Industries Minister MB Patil informed that the approvals include 11 new investment proposals and two additional investment proposals. According to Patil, the new proposals involve an investment of Rs 27,228.51 crore, while the expansion proposals account for Rs 378.75 crore.

The new investment proposals include, Vayu Assets Private Limited: Rs 1,251 crore (1,912 jobs); Tejas Networks Limited: Rs 542.19 crore (1,312 jobs); Reliance Consumer Products Limited: Rs 1,622 crore (1,200 jobs); JSW JFE Electrical Steel Private Limited: Rs 7,102 crore (900 jobs); HSS Textile Private Limited: Rs 740 crore (800 jobs); SFX India Mfg. Private Limited: Rs 9,298 crore (806 jobs); Schneider Electric IT Business India Private Limited: Rs 1,520.75 crore (550 jobs); Toyota Industries Engine India Private Limited: Rs 1,330 crore (550 jobs); JSW Steel Limited: Rs 1,300.57 crore (271 jobs); Grasim Industries Limited: Rs 1,386 crore (203 jobs); QPIAI India Private Limited: Rs 1,136 crore (200 jobs).

The additional investment proposals are from Embassy Industrial Park (Rs 80 crore) and Balaji Wafers Private Limited (Rs 298.75 crore), totalling Rs 378.75 crore. Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar, Energy Minister KJ George, IT/BT Minister Priyank Kharge, Higher Education Minister Dr MC Sudhakar, and Labour Minister Santosh Lad attended the meeting.

NONE IN CONGRESS HAS GUTS TO SPEAK AGAINST OTHER FAITHS, SAYS JOSHI

DHARWAD: Irked by Congress MLC BK Hariprasad's recent controversial statement against the RSS, Union minister Pralhad Joshi on Friday said that nobody in the Grand Old Party has the courage to speak about other religions, while speaking against Hindus, owing to their passive nature. And time has come for the Hindus to give a proper response. Speaking on the sidelines of Ramakrishna Vivekananda Ashram's three-day youth, teachers, and devotees convention here, Joshi said Congress leaders have concluded that calling out Hinduism, its culture, and Prime Minister Narendra Modi, would ensure plush positions for them within the party. Further, he alleged that CM Siddaramaiah wants to secure his position, while a few are also ready to occupy the same, by getting him to step down. He is scared of DCM DK Shivakumar, and now he is using other leaders' names to manage his seat. ENS

RAHUL GANDHI MAY LAND IN BENGALURU NEXT MONTH

BENGALURU: Amid murmurs of change in leadership and cabinet reshuffle with CM Siddaramaiah completing two-and-half years in office, there are talks of Leader of Opposition in the Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi visiting Bengaluru on November 19. According to sources, Women and Child Development Minister Laxmi Hebbalkar has invited leaders of the Congress high command, including AICC general secretaries KC Venugopal and state in-charge Randeep Singh Surjewala, for a rally of anganwadi workers, marking the 50th anniversary of anganwadis in Karnataka. Accordingly, Wayanad MP Priyanka Gandhi Vadra and Rahul Gandhi are also likely to be invited, sources added. Meanwhile, Siddaramaiah may visit the national capital on November 15, a day after the Bihar Assembly poll results are announced. He is expected to discuss cabinet reshuffle with the high command. About 10 ministers may be dropped to make way for new faces. Interestingly, Siddaramaiah's close associate and Urban Development Minister Byrathi Suresh, along with the CM's legal advisor, AS Ponnanna, visited New Delhi on Friday, and met legal counsels for a case with the ED. Meanwhile, Forest Minister Eshwar Khandre also visited New Delhi. He is likely to discuss political developments with the high command. Khandre is in the race for the KPCC president's post, and is likely to sacrifice the ministerial berth for it, sources said. ENS

Happy wheels: Golden Chariot to spread its wings to Mumbai, Aurangabad

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA's luxury train, the Golden Chariot, is set to chug along new routes soon. Indian Railways Catering and Tourism Corporation (IRCTC) sources told TNIE that it has plans to start the Bengaluru to Mumbai circuit in the next fiscal. This will include the popular sites of Ajanta and Ellora Caves near Aurangabad.

International and domestic tourists have seen Mysuru, Hampi, Thanjavur, Chettinadu and other such places. IRCTC is redrawing itineraries that will offer a combination of existing places and new ones.

"In the new Mumbai package, the plan is to include Mysuru and Hampi. Discussions to include Goa in this five-nights-six-days itinerary are still on", the source said. "Tour operators have suggested many other circuits, including short ones which cover unique, less-explored places. We have to see logistics, where trains can go and buses can be arranged. Cooperation from private tour operators and government agencies is needed. Partnerships with hotels and travel agencies are also on the cards," the source added.

Officials from IRCTC and KSTDC held a meeting on Friday to discuss plans ahead on operations and breaking even.

KSTDC MD Prashanth Kumar Mishra said this fiscal, Rs 1.20 crore was spent on updating technology and operations inside the train. "Many latest technologies are available on trains nowadays. This one started operations in 2008 and now needs upgradation. For years, it was stationed and chugged off again only post pandemic. There is a lot of scope for renovations," he said.

IRCTC Group General Manager Promila Gupta said that based on stakeholder feedback, it has been decided that no trips will be cancelled henceforth. "Even if there is a loss, the train will run, as per bookings. This year, so far, seven trips have been planned. On January 10, 2026, a trip for delegates from Southeast Asia, organised by the Ministry of External Affairs, is scheduled on the Jewel of the South circuit (covering Bengaluru, Mysuru, Mahabalipuram, Thanjavur, Chettinadu/Karaikudi, Kochi and Kumarakom). Last year, three trips were done and for next year 13 are planned," she said.

"Based on feedbacks obtained, suites for families, honeymoon couples and corporate company heads are being made. Flexible interiors are also planned," Promila said.

25 pvt buses seized at Attibele for tax evasion

Enforcement drive expected to generate nearly Rs 1 crore in fines, based on seat and berth calculations

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

IN a special drive to curb tax evasion by private buses, the Karnataka Transport Department officials seized over 25 buses at Attibele check-post for operating without paying state taxes on Friday morning.

The inspection team was led by Additional Transport Commissioner Omkareshwari, and Joint Transport Commissioners Shobha and Gayathri conducted surprise inspections on the outskirts of Bengaluru, which began at 4 am and went on till 10.30 am.

Omkareshwari said that over 25 buses were detained at checkpoints near the Karnataka border. These vehicles, registered in other states such as Tamil Nadu, Kerala, Nagaland, and Arunachal Pradesh, had only paid their home-state taxes, but were operating commercial services in Karnataka without paying the Karnataka State Road Tax.

She further explained that while these buses hold All India Tourist Permits (AITP), they were violating permit conditions by picking up individual passengers and functioning like stage carriages, instead of operating as tourist contract carriages. Officials also said the ongoing drive follows similar legal precedents set in Tamil Nadu and Kerala, where the respective High Courts directed state transport departments to collect road tax from vehicles registered outside their states, but operating commercially within their territory.

The department estimates that the enforcement drive could generate nearly Rs 1 crore fines from the detained vehicles, based on seat and berth calculations. Officials clarified that the detained passengers were not inconvenienced — BMTC and private buses were arranged to transport them free of cost to their destinations.

Hasanamba fest records all-time high revenue

B R UDAYA KUMAR @Hassan

THE Hasanamba temple festival has recorded its highest-ever revenue of ₹25.59 crore this year through the sale of special entry tickets, hundi collections, and prasadam sales.

The counting of offerings was held on Friday at Terapanth, a religious centre located in front of the temple. Devotees also offered 75.3 gram gold and 1.58 kg silver to Goddess Hasanamba.

An additional ₹15.17 lakh was collected in the hundi of Siddeshwara Temple. Devotees also contributed foreign currencies from Canada, Indonesia, the US, and Maldives, along with a few banned ₹500 and ₹1,000 notes.

The temple doors were open to devotees from October 9 to October 23, during which a record 26.06 lakh devotees visited the shrine.

Deputy Commissioner K S Latha Kumari and temple administrator Maruti supervised the cash counting, assisted by hundreds of revenue officials and Scouts and Guides. Several letters written by devotees, mainly women praying for personal wishes, were also found in the hundi collection box. However, officials declined to disclose their contents.

Latha Kumari said the Hasanamba festivities were conducted smoothly with the cooperation of all sections of society and assured that strategies will be worked out to handle the growing turnout and ensure faster darshan in the coming years.

Rossell Techsys eyes diversification, expands into energy, space, mobility

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

AEROSPACE and defence engineering and manufacturing major Rossell Techsys is charting a diversification path, eyeing promising growth sectors aligned with its core strengths.

"While aerospace and defence will continue to be at the heart of our business, we also see strong potential in adjacent high-reliability sectors such as energy, space, industrial applications, and autonomous mobility solutions. These offer opportunities where our engineering and manufacturing capabilities will add significant value. Our diversification strategy is about building resilience and long-term growth, while staying true to our core strengths," Rossell Techsys Managing Director Rishab Mohan Gupta reiterated.

The company remains upbeat about opportunities in the Indian aerospace and defence market, buoyed by the Centre's push for Atma Nirbharta, rising defence budgets, and the growing presence of global OEMs establishing supply chains in India. Highlighting initiatives such as the Advanced Medium Combat Aircraft (AMCA) as key milestones in the country's indigenisation journey, Gupta acknowledged the opportunities they create for Rossell Techsys.

"The emphasis is clearly on 'Make in India' and building self-reliance, while also integrating with global value chains. As a company, we are creating world-class manufacturing capabilities in the country that serve both domestic and international markets, and by building local talent through our Rossell School of Learning. We are also expanding capacity to meet the increasing demand, showcasing that complex, high-reliability services can be provided in India at global standards of quality and delivery," Gupta told TNIE.

He added, "We are keen to bring this expertise into such strategic programmes through collaborations and partnerships. Our ambition is to be a long-term partner in building India's aerospace future, not just a supplier."

"Our focus is to build strong, long-term relationships not just with customers, but also with suppliers and service partners. On the business front, we have established successful teaming agreements in key geographies, such as the US and Israel... We intend to replicate this model globally," Gupta said.

Rs 97L heist at bizman's house in Belagavi

Belagavi : A major theft rocked the town of Yamkanmardi in Hukkeri taluka of Belagavi after thieves looted property worth nearly Rs 97 lakh from the residence of businessman Ajit Dugani. The incident came to light on Wednesday, spreading fear among local citizens and traders. The thieves reportedly made away with valuables including 128 tolas (1.28 kg) of gold worth Rs 89.60 lakh, 8.5 kg of silver worth Rs 5.95 lakh, and Rs 1.25 lakh in cash, totalling an estimated Rs 96.80 lakh. After looting the gold, silver, and cash from the locker and safe, the intruders ransacked the house before fleeing.

Wild elephants wreak havoc in Khanapur fields

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Belagavi

FEAR and frustration prevail among farmers in Khanapur taluk as herds of wild elephants continue to stray into villages, destroying standing crops and leaving local residents in distress. Farmers allege that forest officials have remained indifferent, despite repeated complaints and appeals for help.

For the past two weeks, elephants have been roaming in Maskenatti, Bhuranaki, Karikatti, Ghastolli, and nearby villages, causing large-scale damage to paddy, maize, and sugarcane fields. Farmers say that after months of hard work, their crops are being destroyed within minutes, leaving them without any means to recover their losses.

"Every year, we suffer the same fate. We file petitions, request compensation, and demand preventive measures, but nothing changes," said a farmer from Maskenatti. "Our livelihoods depend entirely on agriculture, and this destruction pushes us deeper into debt."

The situation turned alarming when a herd entered the outskirts of Maskenatti village in Khanapur taluk on Friday, sparking panic among residents. Villagers attempted to chase the elephants away using firecrackers and loud noises, but were unsuccessful. Many criticised the Forest Department for failing to deploy teams or take effective measures to prevent the recurring menace. Farmers have urged the authorities to set up elephant-proof trenches, solar fencing, and rapid response units.

Areca traders happy as price surges, growers upset

On Friday, a quintal of Rashi arecanut fetched ₹66,669

G SUBHASH CHANDRA
@ Davanagere

MISSING out on the bumper price opportunity that arecanut commands in markets currently is something that growers in Karnataka will chew on for a long time. The traders who have kept their stock dry are now reaping the price dividends. Not anticipating the rise in demand, most farmers had already sold their crop.

On Friday a quintal Rashi arecanut fetched Rs 65,099 in Honnali, Rs 65,390 in Holalkere and Rs 66,669 at Tumcos market in Channagiri. This is the highest price arecanut has hit this season. The price may still go north and then stabilise at Rs 50,000 per quintal, say traders at Bheemasamudra, the largest arecanut market in Karnataka.

The standing crop (without husk) is being quoted around Rs 7,500 per quintal and traders are rushing to plantations to buy it then and there. Low yield and consequent scarcity of produce is the main trigger for the surge in price this season.

Fruit rot and yellow leaf disease have blighted arecanut crop in Shivamogga, Channagiri and other regular growing areas in the state.

Arecanut trade in the state largely depends on markets in Bheemasamudra, Channagiri, Shivamogga and Sirsi. Pan masala companies from north India buy arecanut from these markets. Every year around this time areca from Davanagere and Chitradurga, reach the markets. This season due to excess rain, nut processing has not yet started in these areas. Coupled with this low yield has resulted in shortage of the crop.

With the IMD forecasting more rain in this region, the demand-and-supply situation has sharpened. Stagnation of water in many arecanut plantations has also played its part in decreased yield.

BT Siddesh, a trader from Bheemasamudra, told TNIE that low yield is the key reason for increase in price. He said that some traders are resorting to hoarding to sell for a higher price. The price may still climb up to as high as Rs 80,000 per quintal and then stabilise at Rs 50,000, he said.

Gadigudal Manjunath, a trader from Davanagere, said that very few farmers have stock left with them. He said that fresh yield is likely to be less as farmers are not plucking and processing the crop as heavy rains continue in the region.

Import ban

He, however, said if the import ban on arecanut continues, the prices will stabilise at higher rates and the situation is just like that of the zooming prices of gold.

Krishnamurthy, a farmer from Dodda Siddavvanahalli, said, "I am happy with the current trend in prices. But we have already sold our produce and cannot reap any big gains. Now I am concentrating on stocking the future crops so that I too can get a good price."

The officials at Central Arecanut and Cocoa Marketing and Processing Co-operative Limited (CAMPCO) cited shortage of produce and hoarding by big traders as reasons for surge in prices. They, however, added that this volatile situation will not continue for long and will change soon.

K'taka favours PDPS to help onion farmers

BENGALURU: With the drastic fall in onion prices, the state government is planning to bring the produce under Price Deficiency Payment System (PDPS) to help farmers. It will soon write to the Union government in this regard. APMC Minister Shivanand Patil said on Friday that the prices of onion have crashed in view of damage to the crop due to recent rains in the state. "We will write to the Centre, urging it to procure the produce under PDPS," he added. Onion is cultivated on 2.05 lakh hectares of land in Vijayapura, Chitradurga, Vijayanagara, Belagavi, Dharwad, Koppal and Gadag districts. The state produces 27 lakh tonnes. Patil said the crop was ready for harvest. But untimely rains damaged the bulbs. Prices crashed because of this. At a meeting, some officials favoured onion procurement under the Market Intervention Scheme (MIS), while others preferred PDPS. Hence, it was decided to write to the Centre, he added. ENS

'State needs new Co-operative Societies Act'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

POINTING out the numerous incongruities in the Karnataka Cooperative Societies (KCS) Act, 1959 and Rules, 1960, the Karnataka High Court said that an overhaul of the statute is urgently required.

"A new legislative framework will enable co-operative societies in Karnataka to function democratically and efficiently, free from the recurring litigation that presently engulfs them," said the High Court, directing the registry of the court to forward the copy of this order to the Law Commission of Karnataka to consider the observations and recommendations made in the order.

Justice Suraj Govindaraj passed the order while dismissing the petition filed by one Shankar, contending that the action of Idagundi Vividoddesh Prathamik Grameen Krushi Sahakara Sangha Niyamitha to nominate one Shivaram as a delegate to the DCC Bank in Uttara Kannada was not proper.

The court noted that the KCS Act, 1959 and the KCS Rules, 1960, have been subjected to piecemeal amendments over decades. Unfortunately, while introducing such amendments, the interplay and cascading effect on existing provisions do not appear to have been sufficiently considered. As a result, the statute has become a patchwork of conflicting provisions that are no longer suited to the modern socio-economic environment.

Courts have attempted to apply the principle of harmonious construction, but where reconciliation itself becomes impossible, legislative reform is the only viable solution, the court said.

Footwear in Hampi tank sparks tension

KIRAN BALANNANAVAR @ Hampi

TENSION prevailed at Hampi after a sandal was found floating in the sacred tank of Sri Badavilinga Temple. According to eyewitnesses, unidentified miscreants, believed to be tourists, allegedly threw the sandal into the tank. Enraged, devotees demanded proper security arrangements at the temple. They said this was the third such incident at the temple.

The incident triggered widespread outrage on social media. Locals brought the incident to the notice of the ASI.

A local said the temple was built by the rulers of Vijayanagara Empire in the 15th century. Despite being a protected monument, pujas and other rituals are performed there daily. "We appeal to all visitors, especially tourists, to remove their footwear before entering any temple premises and respect the sanctity of the place," he said.

Harangi fills up for first time in Oct

Water level in Harangi stands at 2,858.09 ft, against its capacity of 2,859 ft on Friday

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Madikeri

FOR the first time, Kodagu's Harangi reservoir has filled up to the brim in October. Following increasing inflow to the dam, over 5,000 cusecs of water is being let out to the rivers. The catchment areas in the district are receiving heavy rainfall every day, and the reservoir is filled to its full capacity for the first time in a non-monsoon month.

"In the wake of heavy rainfall in the Harangi basin for the past one week, additional water is being released into the river for the dam's safety," said Harangi Irrigation Department Executive Engineer IK Puttaswamy.

He confirmed that the inflow into the dam has been increasing day by day for the last five months. The water level as of Friday stood at 2,858.09 feet against its full capacity of 2,859 feet.

Kodagu district has been facing monsoon showers since May this year, and the district continued to receive heavy rainfall every day. Several parts of the district have already received more than 7,600 mm of rainfall this year. The district recorded 2,998.59 mm of rainfall this year from January.

Teams watch water levels

RESIDENTS of Srirangapatna, Arakere, Belagola and other nearby villages have been advised not to venture close to the river as water levels are expected to rise further due to enhanced outflows. The Mandya district administration has asked farmers and fishermen to avoid entering flooded fields or streams.The authorities have deployed monitoring teams to keep a close watch on water levels and ensure round-the-clock communication between the dam control room and district disaster management units.

The dam, the lifeline for the agrarian districts of Mandya, Mysuru and parts of Tamil Nadu, has been receiving steady inflows as rain persists in catchment areas. Officials maintained that water discharge will be adjusted based on inflows.

Bus converted into sleeper coach illegally

Highly flammable rexine, excess use of plastic, lack of fire extinguisher mechanism to be blamed for tragedy

A view of the charred bus at Kurnool on Friday | EXPRES

PHANINDRA PAPASANI
@ Vijayawada

THE bus belonging to Vemuri Kaveri Travels owned by Vemuri Vinod Kumar, which met with a horrific accident near Chinnatekur village in Kurnool district in the early hours of Friday, had flouted several transport regulations. The bus was converted into a sleeper coach without proper authorisation, and it was also being operated across States under questionable documentation, official sources said.

The bus bearing registration number DD01 N9490 was owned by Vemuri Vinod Kumar. It was originally purchased on May 2, 2018, and registered in the Union Territory of Daman and Diu. On April 29, 2025, the registration was transferred to the Rayagada RTO in Odisha under the name of G Bijaya Laxmi, mentioning what officials suspect to be an unverified address.

Further scrutiny revealed that the base (tourist) permit issued by Odisha authorities is valid from May 1, 2025, to April 30, 2030, while the fitness certificate issued by Silvassa (Daman and Diu) officials remains valid up to March 31, 2027. Despite having valid documents such as insurance, fitness, and road tax, officials had failed to identify that the bus was originally registered as a seater coach, which was later modified into a sleeper without following prescribed safety and design protocols.

When contacted, Rayagada RTA officials, who reportedly approved the vehicle's 'alteration' under the guise of seating configuration modification, claimed ignorance. They stated that they were 'unaware of the bus conversion into a sleeper coach', and maintained that the approval process was done as per records. Other factors in the mishap are the use of substandard body building material such as highly flammable rexine, excess use of plastic inside the bus, poor fire insulation and lack of fire extinguisher mechanism, he said.

According to APSRTC Vice-Chairman and Managing Director Ch Dwaraka Tirumala Rao, bus body building involves a scientific process that must follow specific engineering parameters. Operators are not supposed to alter seating or sleeping arrangements on their own. Every design must adhere to safety standards, including weight distribution, structural balance, emergency exits, fire safety system, and passenger comfort.

Compared to APSRTC buses, most private vehicles reduce space between seats, and add extra berths or rows, violating the original design specifications to increase passenger capacity and revenue. "Passenger safety is being traded for money. Many private operators employ unqualified drivers, and collude with RTA officials to obtain approvals for illegally modified buses. These unauthorised designs make the vehicles structurally unstable, and increase the risk of fatalities in accidents," said an official on the condition of anonymity.

Bus had all valid documents: Owner

Kurnool: The management of Vemuri Kaveri Travels has finally responded to the bus accident near Chinnatekuru in Kurnool district on Friday. In a statement, owner Vemuri Venkateswarlu clarified that the bus possessed all valid fitness certificates. He stated that 40 passengers were travelling on board and confirmed that all passengers were covered under travel insurance provided by the agency. Expressing deep sorrow over the loss of lives, the management conveyed heartfelt condolences to the bereaved families and assured full cooperation with the ongoing investigation. ENS

Karnataka asks AP to conduct high-level probe

Bengaluru: Karnataka Deputy CM DK Shivakumar said that the state government has asked the Andhra Pradesh government to conduct a high-level investigation into the tragedy. "The incident is tragic and unfortunate. There was another such incident involving a green line bus recently. 20 medical students in the bus escaped unhurt as our president of Raichur Congress alerted the bus driver. The Andhra Pradesh police had not taken any action then. We are also telling the Home Minister and Transport Minister to take necessary precautions in Karnataka too", he told reporters. "There is visible negligence, hence an probe is needed," he said. ENS

Bus inferno on NH 44 renews focus on road

Kurnool: The place where the accident took place has the legacy of fatal accidents along National Highway-44. On May 13, 2019, a catastrophic collision at Veldurthi claimed 16 lives, with investigations later citing faulty road design by the NHAI as a major cause of repeated accidents on that stretch. Earlier, on December 29, 2016, three painters from Uttar Pradesh were burnt to death when their vehicle caught fire near Pododdi village. Official data show that Kurnool records an average of 1,500 accidents and 650 deaths every year. ENS

I was unable to save anybody, says survivor

FIVE others from the state - Harika and Mohammed Khaizar from Bengaluru, Shiva from Ballari, and Pankaj and Akash from Bidar - had a narrow escape. Some of them are being treated for injuries.

Deceased Rani and Chandana

Survivors who spoke to the media in Bengaluru described terrifying moments. Akash, a salesman in a paint manufacturing company, who was travelling to the city from Hyderabad, said he managed to escape in five seconds. "I was unable to save anybody. I get shivers thinking of the inferno. I boarded the bus around 10.30 pm. A co-passenger woke most of us," he narrated.

"We heard a loud thud that comes from an accident. None of us were aware that the bus driver had hit a bike rider. Left side door and the front portion of the bus was on fire as diesel had spilt on the road. Both the driver and his assistant were trying to douse the blaze by throwing water. If the driver had alerted the passengers, all of us would have been alive. I jumped after breaking the glass window of the driver's door. Three others followed me. Just 5-10 seconds after we came out, the entire bus caught fire. We could not fathom what was happening. We could not help anybody as the entire bus was on fire," he narrated.

He said, "From the back emergency exit around 12 passengers must have escaped. I feel terrible that I could not help others. I was returning to Bengaluru after celebrating Deepavali. It was a rebirth for me." Another survivor, Venu Gunda, a techie from Chittoor in Andhra Pradesh, said, "I could not break the glass, while another passenger did and we both jumped out of it."

He said, "There was no emergency hammer. Since it was an air conditioned bus, all the glasses were sealed and most passengers were stuck inside. Some passengers were seen lying on the road as they were unable to move because of burns. It started raining at the same time. At the time of the fire, there were two big explosions. The driver of another bus allowed me to board the vehicle and he dropped me in Bengaluru," Gunda told. Khaizar, who is in hospital, is being treated for injuries in his shoulders and feet as he hurt himself while escaping, one of his relatives said.

Nellore passenger blames driver, files plaint

One of the survivors of the Kurnool bus fire tragedy, N Ramesh (37) from Dutturu mandal in Nellore district, has lodged a police complaint demanding strict action against the driver. Ramesh, who works as a sales manager at Hindustan Unilever in Bengaluru, was traveling with his wife, two children, and his brother's family. According to his statement, the bus hit a motorcycle due to the driver's overspeeding and negligence. The bike got stuck under the bus, causing sparks and a massive fire that engulfed the vehicle. Ramesh managed to escape with his family through a broken window but suffered injuries. He alleged that his brother's family and several others were trapped inside and perished in the flames. ENS

SIR to begin in a week in TN: ECI tells Madras HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chennai

THE Election Commission of India on Friday informed the Madras High Court that the special intensive revision (SIR) of electoral rolls will begin in a week's time in Tamil Nadu.

The submission was made by advocate Niranjan Rajagopalan, representing the ECI, before the first bench of Chief Justice Manindra Mohan Shrivastava and Justice G Arul Murugan when a petition filed by former AIADMK MLA B Sathyanarayanan alleging deletion of AIADMK members from the rolls in T Nagar Assembly segment came up for hearing.

The counsel assured that the grievance of the petitioner would be addressed during the SIR drive. The bench adjourned the hearing by a week.

The petitioner stated that a door to door verification in 229 booths in T Nagar constituency revealed duplicate, double-entries, inclusion of non-resident voters and deceased voters in 100 booths. Blaming the booth-level officers of filing reports without conducting field verification, the former MLA said that the authorities concerned did not take adequate steps to purge the rolls of such anomalies despite handing them proof.

He alleged that the negligence on the part of the booth-level officers amounted to serious dereliction of duty, and not just inefficiency, which would result in compromising the integrity of the final electoral rolls impacting the fairness of the Assembly polls.

Such negligent actions of the ECI is contrary to the provisions of the Representation of the People's Act, 1950 and against the right to vote which is guaranteed under Article 326 of the Constitution.

Sathyanarayanan stated that he had lost the 2021 polls by a narrow margin of 137 votes due to mass deletion of genuine voters from the rolls.

1 dead, 3 missing after students swept away in Swarnamukhi river near Tirupati

Tirupati: One student died and three others went missing on Friday evening after being swept away by strong currents in the Swarnamukhi River near Vedantapuram village in Tirupati Rural mandal. Seven students from Agraharam village had gone swimming and playing on the river's sandbanks when the water level suddenly rose, sweeping away four of them. Locals rescued three youths, while authorities recovered the body of 16-year-old Balu. The remaining missing students are Prakash (17), Chinna (15), and Teju (19). Tirupati District Collector S Venkateswar expressed deep shock over the incident and immediately alerted all concerned departments. ENS

CPM leader found dead at party office in Kochi

Kochi: A local CPM leader was found dead at the party office at Nadakkavu near Udayamperoor on Friday. The deceased was identified as T S Pankajakshan, 65, who had served as secretary of the CPM Udayamperoor North local committee. According to police, Pankajakshan was found hanging from a ceiling fan in the reading room of the party office around 6 am. The body was first discovered by a newspaper delivery boy, who alerted local party leaders. The Udayamperoor police suspect it to be a case of suicide. "A case of unnatural death has been registered based on a complaint filed by his son. Preliminary probe has found that he was under heavy financial burden. We will record detailed statements from the relatives to ascertain the exact reason behind the death," police said. ENS

AP on high alert for cyclone, orange alert issued

Motorists wade through a waterlogged road in Madurai on Friday | EXPRESS

COASTAL districts of Andhra Pradesh have been placed on high alert as a low-pressure area over the southeast Bay of Bengal is expected to intensify into a cyclone by Monday.

According to Andhra Pradesh Disaster Management Authority (APDMA) Managing Director Prakhar Jain, the system has been moving slowly northwestward and is likely to evolve into a depression by Saturday, a deep depression by Sunday, and a severe cyclonic storm over the southwest and adjoining west-central Bay of Bengal by early Monday.

The cyclone is expected to bring heavy rainfall to several districts starting Saturday, with very heavy to extremely heavy rains forecasted for Sunday and Monday. Coastal areas may experience gusty winds ranging from 50 to 70 kmph. Farmers have been advised to take necessary precautions in agricultural activities, and residents in low-lying areas are urged to remain indoors during the storm.

In anticipation of the cyclone, Home Minister T Anitha emphasised the importance of real-time updates to both officials and the public, and instructed the deployment of State Disaster Response Force (SDRF) and National Disaster Response Force (NDRF) teams for relief operations.

District-wise forecasts indicate moderate to heavy rainfall in Konaseema, Krishna, Bapatla, Prakasam, Nellore, and Tirupati on Saturday. On Sunday, heavy showers are likely in Guntur, Bapatla, Prakasam, Nellore, and Tirupati, with widespread rainfall across other districts. By Monday, extremely heavy rainfall is expected in Kakinada, Konaseema, Krishna, NTR, Guntur, Palnadu, Prakasam, Nellore, Nandyal, Kadapa, Annamayya, Chittoor, and Tirupati.

Low-pressure over Bay of Bengal spurs rain across North TN

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chennai

A new low-pressure area that developed over the southeast Bay of Bengal and the adjoining south Andaman Sea early on Friday has triggered a fresh spell of northeast monsoon showers across north coastal Tamil Nadu, including Chennai. According to the Regional Meteorological Centre (RMC), the system, which formed under the influence of an upper air cyclonic circulation, is likely to move west-northwestwards and become more marked within the next 24 hours.

An orange alert has been issued for Chennai, Kancheepuram, and Tiruvallur districts on October 27, warning of heavy rainfall accompanied by thunderstorms and lightning. Chengalpattu and Ranipet districts are also expected to experience intense spells during the same period. The IMD's five-day forecast indicated that heavy rain is likely over Chennai and neighbouring districts till October 28, with the possibility of waterlogging in low-lying areas.

Chennai Corporation officials said field teams have been put on alert to clear stormwater drains and ensure the swift discharge of excess water ahead of the weekend rains. Fishermen have been advised against venturing into the sea, as strong winds are likely to prevail along the Tamil Nadu and south Andhra coasts in the coming days.

With the northeast monsoon now active, IMD officials cautioned that intense rainfall episodes may persist through next week, particularly over the northern coastal districts.

Illegal surrogacy racket thrives behind social media adverts

P RAMDAS @ Kochi

THE social media advertisement promised to 'Find your surrogate mother in 7 days!' with the tagline 'Speed and precision to match you with the surrogate.' But, as it turns out, behind the polished online posts and promises lurks a network that preys on poor, illiterate women -- luring them with offers of quick money to become egg donors and surrogates.

The recent busting of a ring linked to a fertility clinic in Kochi has exposed an illegal assisted reproductive technology (ART) racket flourishing in Kerala. In the police action on MamaMia Life Solutions Pvt Ltd in Edappally, five women from West Bengal and a mother and her child from Tamil Nadu were rescued and placed in protective custody. The women, all around 25 years old, were reportedly brought to Kerala and persuaded to become either surrogate mothers or egg donors, lured purely by the promise of money. Illegal clinics had promised them between Rs 30,000-40,000, but once they arrived they were paid only a meagre sum, Kalamassery police said.

Despite stringent regulations, unlicensed operators exploit loopholes in the system. Authorities have so far received four major complaints, resulting in showcause notices and the cancellation of the licence of MamaMia Life.

The police raid followed a complaint filed by the additional secretary of the department of health and family welfare.

Mysuru silk in global demand, focus on quality production: Min Shobha

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

As the demand for silk is growing globally, including Mysuru Silk, silk production must be improved without compromising on quality, said Union Minister of State for Labour and Employment and MSMEs, Shobha Karandlaje, on Friday. She also said that it should be increased through collaboration between scientists and farmers.

"While in many sectors, India is self-reliant, we continue to import silk, pulses and edible oils. The demand for silk fabric is 45,000 metric tonnes, but only 41,000 metric tonnes of silk is produced in India; the rest is being imported from China. This needs to be reduced. China takes cocoons and other raw materials from India. Farmers and entrepreneurs need to break this chain and become self-sufficient," she said.

She was speaking at the Golden Jubilee celebrations of the Central Silk Board (CSB)- National Silkworm Seed Organisation (NSSO). Details of the innovative technologies were also showcased.

"A lot of developmental works are being seen in regions where silk production is high, including Ramanagara, Bidadi and Anekal, Member of Parliament Dr CN Manjunath noted.

Manjunath said the Chinese model of development should be adopted, where vertical growth is emphasised in small land parcels, and the rest of the area should be utilised for farming.

"Today, where people are getting salaries once in three months or farmers are stressed and suffering losses due to poor returns, sericulture farming is showing profits. Silk is gold for farmers, and a stable monthly income is guaranteed. Interestingly, 60% of this waste is exported, and byproducts are imported," he said.

Minister Shobha Karandlaje observes the cocoon-silkworm separating device at NIMHANS Convention Centre | KEVIN NASHON

Dr S Manithra Moorthy, CSB-NSSO director, said that a national silk museum showcasing soil to silk fabric is planned to be set up in Mysuru. A dedicated silk chain corridor is also planned by the Central government. The CSB is working to cap the import of Bivoltine silk by increasing production by 10,000 metric tonnes, under the National Silkworm Seed Project.

AMERICAN SANCTIONS ON RUSSIAN OIL MAJORS A HARD BLOW TO PARRY

THE US's sanctions on two Russian oil companies—Rosneft and Lukoil—have dealt a blow to India's energy security in the near term. The two firms account for almost 60 percent of Russian oil exports and have been major sources of cheaper oil for India in the recent past. Any transaction with these companies may now invite civil or criminal penalties in the US. The UK also sanctioned the two oil giants earlier this week. The EU has been piling pressure on buyers of Russian oil through other trade tools like price caps.

The impact on India is direct, as Russia is now the largest supplier of crude oil accounting for about 35 percent of the total imports. Two private Indian refiners—Reliance Industries and Nayara Energy—have direct links with Rosneft, which alone is responsible for nearly half of Russia's oil production. Reliance signed a long-term deal to purchase 500,000 barrels of crude per day from Rosneft last year, and the Russian company holds just under 50 percent of Nayara's stakes. India ramped up Russian oil imports after April 2022, benefitting significantly from its discounted crude; various unofficial estimates suggest India has saved roughly $15 billion by doing so. The discount, which was initially as high as $18-20 per barrel, has recently narrowed to around $5.

India had thus far refused to bow to the mounting pressure from the US and Europe to stop buying Russian crude, maintaining it would prioritise its own energy security first. This stance led to the US imposing an additional 25 percent duty on Indian merchandise exports. While the earlier bullying by the Trump administration had failed to break India's resolve, the latest sanctions pose a more complex challenge. Indian companies—particularly Reliance—will find it difficult to ignore these measures, as doing so could make it directly liable to penalties. Late on Friday, Reliance stated it was assessing the implications of the new regulatory frameworks and would comply with the Indian government's 'guidance' on the matter. State-owned oil marketers, while maintaining there has been no directive from the government, have begun reducing their purchases from Russia. India may now have to rely more on its traditional suppliers in West Asia and increase purchases from the US. Caution is required, as the broader trade relations with the US and Europe hang in balance.

DON'T CRITICISE CITIZENS DEMANDING BETTER INFRA

THE acrimonious exchange between Karnataka's top political and corporate leaders over Bengaluru's failing infrastructure has only served to highlight the reality that has become the city's identity—cratered roads, traffic bottlenecks, and garbage piles. Biocon founder Kiran Mazumdar Shaw was not off the mark when she said these pain points would lead to a loss of investment. She and other industrialists including former Infosys CFO T V Mohandas Pai have called out civic deficiencies no matter which party is at the helm. Yet, what followed this time was amusing retaliation from Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, Deputy CM D K Shivakumar and Industries Minister M B Patil, accusing those who had made their fortunes in Bengaluru of "kicking the ladder" they used to climb up. Shivakumar reminded the business community that the city had contributed land and resources for their companies. It was the reaction of a helpless government running on a shoestring budget. Oblique questions on what tech giants were doing for the city with their corporate social responsibility funds indicated that money was a big factor. Better sense prevailed after a chorus from citizens, jolting the CM into allocating ₹1.2 lakh crore for Bengaluru's development and road repairs. For now, Bengalureans can live on hope.

A number of factors need to be taken into account: the steady influx of migrant workers, overburdened infrastructure, and development not keeping apace the growing city. The government is also hamstrung by its own welfare schemes and reduced devolution of central funds. Considering Karnataka is third in terms of state GDP and GST contribution to the country, it's unfortunate that Bengaluru fails to look like a snazzy tech capital.

The blowback by citizens should awaken the Congress government. Instead of shooting the messenger, leaders should harness technology for workable solutions, and crack down on corruption and errant contractors. Garbage management needs cooperation from all sections of society. Business leaders who have stepped forward to protect the city's heritage can question the government on infrastructure as major tax contributors. The Congress should remember that 16 assembly seats in Bengaluru are with BJP and only 12 with the Congress. If the ruling party hopes to implement its Greater Bengaluru Authority idea smoothly, it should start by fixing the city's infra issues before it heads into the civic elections.

QUICK TAKE

C'EST LA RÉALITÉ

THE decadence of late capitalism is peaking. Thieves recently stole some Napoleonic era jewellery from the Louvre in Paris. Gaining entry through a first-floor balcony with the help of an electric ladder, the burglars made away with eight exquisite pieces worth about $100 million. This is not the first time the Louvre was burgled, but ads mocking the museum's security are a first. German lift manufacturer Böcker published a picture of the lift next to the balcony with the line: 'When things have to be done quickly.' Fevicol simply put its name next to a picture of the stolen emerald necklace and earrings Napoleon had gifted his second wife. Maybe Louvre itself should use the opportunity. Any punchline in mind?

After decades in exile, Thuingaleng Muivah returned to a warm welcome. But with Naga underground politics fragmented, he does not command the overwhelming support of all Nagas anymore

THE LONG ROAD BACK HOME FOR THE REBEL

PRADIP PHANJOUBAM

Editor, Imphal Review of Arts and Politics

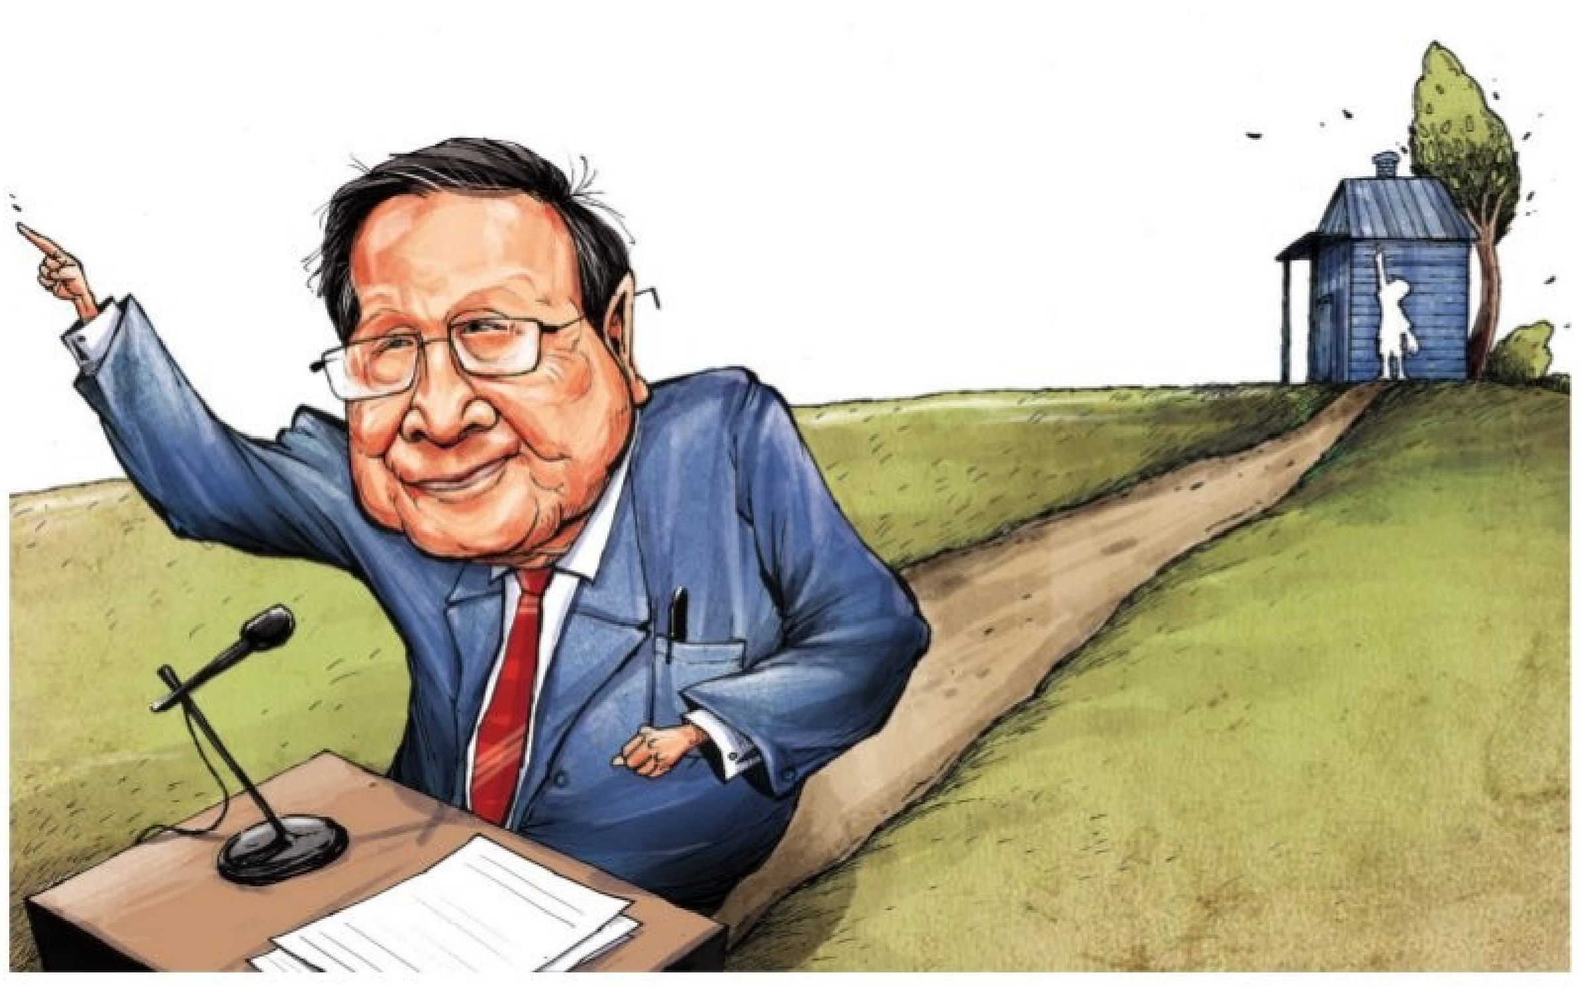
THERE has been much speculation on the strategic significance of Thuingaleng Muivah's visit to his home village Somdal in the Ukhrul district of Manipur. From the official point of view, Muivah is the chief hurdle before a resolution to the Naga problem, for it is only he who continues to insist on two conditions deemed outside the purview of the Indian Constitution—a separate constitution and a flag for Nagas—as a precondition for a settlement.

This, however, is probably an overreading. Muivah is now 91 and not in good health. His abiding wish, hence, is probably to see his birthplace he left 61 years ago, not knowing if this would be his last chance. He is revered among Manipur Nagas, especially his tribe—the Tangkhul, for whom he is a father figure, an avakharar. As with anybody who has led an armed movement and has had to exercise brute coercive force to silence oppositions, there are also his detractors. On the eve of his home visit, the Zeliangrong United Front of the Zeliangrong Nagas, for instance, called for an apology from him for alleged atrocities inflicted on their tribesmen.

Naga underground politics too has become more complex, and Muivah does not command overwhelming support of all Nagas anymore, especially among Nagaland's Nagas. The tremendous love and affection shown to him during his home visit, therefore, may not easily transform into the kind of political energy capable of lifting the Naga issue out of its present stalemate.

Most Nagas today have arguably reconciled to a solution within India. This has ironically complicated the matter further. The lofty ideal of Naga sovereignty, even if impossibly elusive, once provided an advocacy platform for a united Naga struggle. Acceptance of a settlement within India has meant the splintering of even the idea of a solution package between myriad emerging interest groups. Naga movement, too, had correspondingly fragmented unrecognisably.

Muivah joined the militant Naga National Council (NNC) led by A Z Phizo in 1964. From his testimony and those of other rebel colleagues published in Nandita Haksar and Sebastian M Hongray's Kuknalim: Naga Armed Resistance, he earned respect for his commitment, determination and intelligence. He was also among the first Naga rebels to slip into China's Yunnan province to get training as well as to woo international support for the Naga cause.



SOURAV ROY

It was during one of his trips to China that a faction of NNC entered into the Shillong Accord in 1975 to resolve the Naga issue within the Indian Constitution. Muivah rejected this accord as a betrayal and together with Isak Chishi Swu and S S Khaplang left the NNC to create the National Socialist Council of Nagaland (NSCN) in 1980.

Perhaps it is the recoil from this rejection that is inhibiting Muivah now from accepting another peace deal within the Constitution. If he did, the troubling question would be whether the additional 50 years of trauma for Nagas after his rejection of the Shillong Accord was meaningless.

The NSCN split in 1988 when Khaplang, a Hemi Naga from Burma, violently parted ways—an eventuality anticipated by Bertil Lintner in his book Land of Jade: A journey from Indian through northern Burma to China after having stayed in the NSCN headquarters in Burma in the mid-1980s. This split was broadly between the more backward Naga tribes, most of whom were in Burma, and Nagas from India.

The NSCN faction of Isak and Muivah (NSCN-IM) is still the most powerful and well-organised among the two dozen or so splinter groups of the original NSCN, most of which are under a federal conglomeration styled as Naga National Political Group. Almost all of them are united in their opposition to NSCN-IM.

The seeds of rebellion were evident even before the British left India. For instance, the Naga Club, which in 1946 morphed and radicalised into the NNC, made it clear in its memorandum to the Simon Commission in 1929 that Nagas were not Indians and would like to be left unaffiliated to India when the British leave.

The First World War was a game-changer in the consolidation of Naga identity. Disparate and often mutually hostile Naga tribes and villages came to be enlisted in the British Labour Corps, to be transported to Europe in the war effort. Exposure to the outside world and the realisation that they were treated as a category different from the rest—even other Indian soldiers—made the Nagas realise their common destiny.

It is no coincidence that the Naga Club, the seminal organisation that fostered a new Naga nationalism, was formed by war veterans with assistance of some British officials sympathetic to their predicament.

After the British formally annexed Assam at the end of the First Anglo-Burmese War in 1826, not just the Naga Hills, but the entire stretch of mountainous territories surrounding the Assam plains were left 'unadministered', although claimed as British territory. The Government of India Act, 1919 redesignated these 'unadministered' territories as 'excluded areas'. The 1935 GoI Act upgraded some of these 'excluded areas' to 'partially-excluded areas'.

When India's independence became a certainty, there were four British proposals to leave these excluded and partially excluded areas as a separate 'crown colony' as David R Syiemlieh writes in On the Edge of Empire: Four British Plans for Northeast India. The best known among these is by Robert Reid, a former governor of Assam. In a 22-page note in 1941, he contended the people of the region were alien to India's nationhood and would be best left separate. The idea was ultimately dropped as other British officials felt such a place would be ungovernable.

This foreboding, however, proved somewhat prophetic and several separatist insurgencies were spawned in this region in postcolonial India; the Nagas were the first to revolt. Muivah's heroic struggle and tragic failure in this way is a poignant portrayal of both the historical logics as well as the futility of rigidified rebellions, stubbornly hanging on to slogans made redundant by lapsed decades. Maybe it is also a pointer towards what a constructivist approach to a win-win solution can be to this problem endemic to the Northeast region.

POWER OF EDUCATION DIPLOMACY

MADHAVAN NARAYANAN

Senior journalist

REVERSE SWING

CAN you imagine that on a metro ride in Bengaluru, Delhi, or Chennai, you might be sitting next to a foreign student who would one day turn out to be a head of government? If it comes to pass, the student's experiences in India may well turn out to be significant for his or her country's foreign relations someday.

My countless rides on Delhi University's special buses came flooding into memory as I read of the visit by Sri Lankan Prime Minister Harini Amarasuriya to her alma mater, Hindu College, where she recalled her days at the institution. Amarasuriya was a sociology student admitted in 1991 on an Indian government scholarship, as her own country was ravaged by violence and strikes. She remembered teachers who had encouraged her to think critically.

Sushila Karki, who was named Nepal's first woman prime minister this year as head of an interim government after having served as the chief justice of her country, received a master's degree in political science from Banaras Hindu University in 1975. The university was also the place where she met her future husband, Durga Prasad Subedi.

Amarasuriya and Karki are no oddball exceptions, though it might seem so to Indians who have grown up reading about their own leaders being educated in the West. Jawaharlal Nehru and Manmohan Singh went to Cambridge, and Mahatma Gandhi to University College London, while Sardar Patel studied law at Middle Temple. Bhimrao Ambedkar received a doctorate in economics from Columbia University and another from the LSE.

Even leaders associated with rugged socialism were adorned with Western degrees. Jayaprakash Narayan hopped through Iowa, Wisconsin, Ohio, and California's Berkeley as a university student. Ram Manohar Lohia held a PhD from Berlin's Humboldt University before turning into a pioneering ideologue for India's backward castes.

While colonialism made many of India's aspiring young men and women look to the West in those days, things changed after independence, when India emerged as an affordable, often inviting, education hub for those who could sense in the country the prospects of a reverse swing from the colonial era.

Like Amarasuriya, Myanmarese opposition leader and Nobel Peace Prize winner Aung San Suu Kyi made headlines when she visited her alma mater, Delhi's Lady Shri Ram College, 48 years after graduation. She credited the college for giving her self-confidence as she described herself as "partly a citizen of India".

Hamid Karzai visited Shimla in 2006 as president of Afghanistan, 23 years after he took a master's degree in political science from Himachal Pradesh University. He had arrived as an exchange student in 1979, the very year that Soviet forces entered his country, and learnt English from the young women of a family he was staying with. The university awarded him an honorary doctorate in 2003, shortly before he became president.

PTI

The recent visit of Sri Lankan PM Harini Amarasuriya to her alma mater Hindu College reminded us that 'Educated in India' can be a diplomatic tool too. Generations of leaders from nations near and far have that link with India

The list of India-educated leaders is long but often goes unnoticed. Two former Nepali prime ministers, Girija Prasad Koirala and Bishweshwar Prasad Koirala, also studied at BHU like Karki, while Baburam Bhattarai studied architecture in Delhi.

The current prime minister of the Pacific island nation of Fiji, Sitiveni Rabuka, controversial as an instigator of two coups but now a democratically elected coalition leader, graduated from the picturesque Defence Services Staff College at Wellington in Tamil Nadu's Ooty Hills. Though he acquired some notoriety for his stance against ethnic Indians in the multi-cultural nation, Rabuka, a much-decorated soldier who rose to be a major general in Fiji's army, also received a master's degree in science from the University of Madras in 1979.

Being educated in India is, of course, no guarantee that the person would be a friend of India's as a leader. Pakistan's Gen Zia-ul-Haq studied at Delhi's St Stephen's College, while Ayub Khan and Liaquat Ali Khan studied at Aligarh Muslim University—though all of that was in colonial India.

Bhutan's King Jigme Khesar Namgyel Wangchuck studied at the National Defence College in New Delhi, while Olusegun Obasanjo, who served as Nigeria's president from 1999 to 2007, is also a Wellington DSSC product like Rabuka.

I only recently learnt that my own claim to reflect alumnus glory rests with Bingu Wa Mutharika, former president of Africa's Malawi, who studied at Delhi's Shri Ram College of Commerce and later at the Delhi School of Economics.

What is abundantly clear is that India's role as an education centre is somewhat overwhelmed by Western institutions, even though there are plenty of MBAs and IITians from India leading global companies. Our universities and colleges also serve as instruments of soft power alongside fusion jazz and Bollywood movies, as we can see in the case of Karzai and Amarasuriya, who arrived in India as part of what one might call education diplomacy.

Apart from state-run universities, India's new private universities are also attracting foreign students, aided by memorandums of understanding with overseas educational institutions.

All that should not surprise us. After all, Nalanda and Takshashila were renowned centres of higher learning in ancient India. Given the UGC's recent policy for collaboration and twin degrees with foreign universities, we may well expect more foreign students in India—and maybe some nostalgia mixed with diplomacy. (Views are personal)

Rajnath takes stock of Bhairav battalion in Raj forward areas

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

DEFENCE Minister Rajnath Singh on Friday reviewed the operational preparedness and security situation of the Indian Army during the Army Commanders' Conference in Jaisalmer. During his visit, he inspected forward areas in Tanot and Longewala and witnessed exercises involving both legacy systems and modern units, including the Bhairav Battalion and Ashni Platoons.

The Defence Ministry said Singh observed a "Capability Demonstration Exercise" showcasing integrated operations by new formations like the Bhairav Battalion and Ashni Platoons, along with the latest technological assets inducted into the Indian Army. "The display symbolised the seamless blend of legacy and innovation, highlighting the Indian Army's thrust on capability development and force modernization," the ministry said.

The conference brought together senior leadership, including Chief of Defence Staff General Anil Chauhan, Army Chief General Upendra Dwivedi, Defence Secretary Rajesh Kumar Singh, and Vice Chief Lieutenant General Pushpendra Singh, as well as all Army Commanders. Detailed discussions were held on key areas, including Grey Zone Warfare, the roadmap for joint operations, Aatmanirbharta (self-reliance), and innovation.

As previously reported by this newspaper, 25 Bhairav Battalions will be raised over the next six months. These units are designed for rapid, high-impact operations along India's borders with China and Pakistan. The Ashni Platoons, now operational across around 380 infantry units, are equipped with drones for intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance (ISR) and loitering munitions, giving troops advanced operational capabilities.

Addressing the conference, the Defence Minister spoke at length about Operation Sindoor, describing it as an embodiment of India's military strength and national character. "Operation Sindoor will go down in history as not just a military operation, but also a symbol of the nation's courage and restraint. The action taken by our forces against terrorists was in keeping with both policy precision and human dignity. The operation isn't over. Our mission for peace will continue as long as even a single terrorist mindset remains alive."

Singh said the operation has led to a new strategic approach, in which India responds to terrorist threats on its own terms. "This is new India's Defence Doctrine, which embodies both resolve and courage," he said. He also expressed gratitude to soldiers for standing guard 24x7 to protect the nation and urged them to remain alert and never underestimate adversaries.

On the situation along the Northern border, Singh said ongoing talks reflect India's balanced and firm foreign policy. "Our policy is clear: there will be dialogue, and our readiness on the border will remain intact," he said.

As part of the conference, the Defence Minister virtually inaugurated Technology Enablers, including the Edge Data Centres for the Konark and Fire & Fury Corps, with plans to expand such centers across all Corps by next year. At Longewala, Singh laid a wreath at the iconic battlefield.

Jaishankar snubs UN over Pak terror, says 'all not well'

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

EXTERNAL Affairs Minister Dr S Jaishankar on Friday said that "all is not well with the UN" and pointed out that a "sitting member" of the Security Council of shielding a terror organisation responsible for the recent Pahalgam attack. "Few examples are more telling about the challenges facing the UN than its response to terrorism," Jaishankar said at an event marking the 80th anniversary of the UN, where he unveiled a commemorative postage stamp.

"When a sitting Security Council member openly protects the very organisation that claims responsibility for barbaric terror attacks such as at Pahalgam, what does it do to the credibility of multilateralism?" he asked, questioning the UN's moral and institutional relevance in today's security landscape.

The External Affairs Minister's remarks came in the wake of the deadly Pahalgam terror attack in April, in which 26 civilians were killed. The group that claimed responsibility for the attack is known to operate from Pakistani soil, but UN efforts to sanction its leadership have repeatedly been blocked at the Security Council by Pakistan. Though Jaishankar stopped short of naming Pakistan, his target was unmistakable. His comments were clearly directed at Islamabad's role in shielding terror outfits linked to the Pahalgam attack in Jammu and Kashmir.

"Similarly, if victims and perpetrators of terrorism are equated in the name of global strategy, how much more cynical can the world get? When self-proclaimed terrorists are shielded from the sanctioning process, what does it say for the sincerity of those involved?" Jaishankar said, in a reference to the UN's inability to act against terror groups operating from Pakistan. Pakistan currently holds a seat on the United Nations Security Council (UNSC) as a non-permanent member. The Council consists of 15 members five permanent (China, France, Russia, the United Kingdom, and the United States) and ten non-permanent members elected for two-year terms.

The Resistance Front (TRF), a proxy of the Lashkar-e-Taiba (LeT), had claimed responsibility for the deadly Pahalgam terror attack that killed 26 civilians in April. The group was named in a July UNSC report for its role in the incident. However, officials revealed that Pakistan had lobbied to remove references to TRF from the Security Council's press statement condemning the attack.

In his first overseas visit since assuming office, Vice-President C P Radhakrishnan will travel to Seychelles to attend the swearing-in ceremony of President-elect Dr. Patrick Herminie, the External Affairs Ministry announced on Friday. The visit, the MEA said, highlights India's "deep commitment" to strengthening its partnership with the island nation.

Cong slams Centre over official maps of Great Nicobar Island

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Congress slammed the Centre on Friday over a media report claiming that official maps of Great Nicobar Island were altered to remove corals. The party said this was not an ecological update but a "bureaucratic rewrite" designed to bypass environmental safeguards.

The opposition party alleged that when reality stands in the way of corporate ambition, the Narendra Modi government simply redraws it. Congress general secretary in charge of communications, Jairam Ramesh, shared on X a media report claiming that between 2020 and 2021, corals vanished from the maps of the Great Nicobar island's coastline, while vital green zones were dramatically reduced in size.

"Another day, another revelation of how the Modi government has bulldozed the Great Nicobar Mega Infra Project through due process. Now we learn that official maps of the island have been airbrushed to remove corals from the map," said Ramesh.

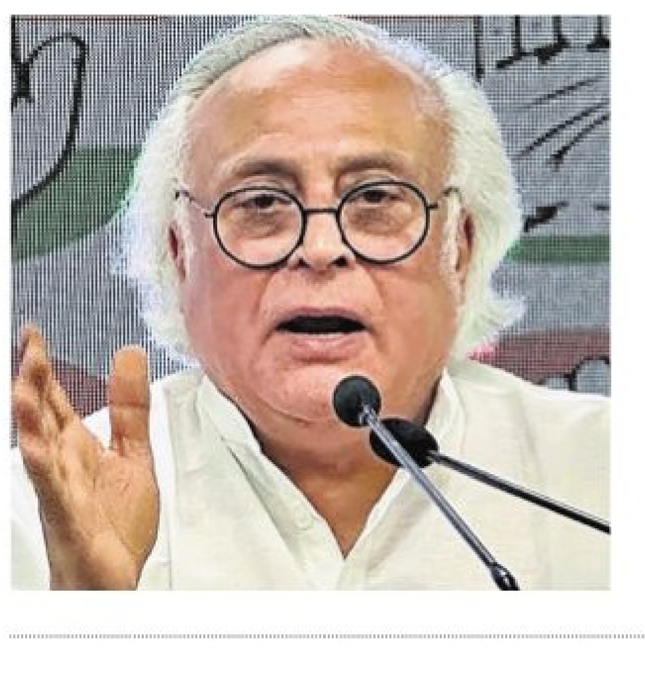
According to the report he shared, in the 2020 map, the southern and western coasts of the island, including Galathea Bay—where a proposed international container transshipment terminal is planned—were marked as having extensive coral reefs.

"By 2021, the revised government map moved these reefs mid-sea, where it is biologically impossible for coral reefs to exist. But the shift in the reef's location on the map conveniently paved the way for the mega-project," Ramesh claimed.

In 2020, nearly the entire island was marked as CRZ-IA, meaning construction of ports was entirely prohibited. By 2021, Galathea Bay was no longer classified under CRZ-IA, effectively allowing development. This "re-categorisation" enables the development of the project area, he added.

"This is not an ecological update, but a bureaucratic rewrite to bypass environmental safeguards. When reality stands in the way of corporate ambition, the Modi government simply redraws it," Ramesh said.

In an article in an English daily, Congress Parliamentary Party chairperson Sonia Gandhi had termed the ₹72,000 crore Great Nicobar Mega Infra Project a "planned misadventure" that threatens the survival of the Shompen and Nicobarese tribes, destroys one of the world's most unique ecosystems.



2021 map no longer shows Galathea Bay

Jairam Ramesh, shared a media report on X and said that in 2020, the maps showed nearly the entire island as CRZ-IA, adding that this means that the construction of ports is entirely prohibited there. The 2021 map "magically" no longer shows Galathea Bay as falling under CRZ-IA, the Congress leader said.

India on alert as polio cases rise in Pak, Afghan

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

DESPITE being officially certified as polio-free in 2014, India remains at risk of polio reinfection due to vaccine-derived poliovirus (VDPV), its proximity to endemic countries, Pakistan and Afghanistan, and potential gaps in immunity, experts said here on the occasion of World Polio Day on Friday.

Deepak Kapur, Chairman, Rotary International's India National PolioPlus Committee (RI-INPPC), told this newspaper, "India was officially declared polio-free in 2014, but the battle against the virus is still ongoing." As surveillance is a key to India maintaining its polio-free status, he said, strong immunisation and surveillance programmes is critical.

"As the world nears complete polio eradication, the importance of highly sensitive surveillance remains paramount. In the post-eradication era, surveillance will continue to be a priority for monitoring the cessation of vaccine virus circulation and confirming eradication for certification purposes. It is an essential and ongoing investment," said Kapur, who was instrumental in signing an MoU with the Union Health Ministry in 2017 to provide support and accelerate the efforts under the Polio Eradication Programme, Routine Immunisation, including Mission Indradhanush, and Intensified Mission Indradhanush.

India's last reported polio case was on January 13, 2011, in West Bengal. After that, India managed to keep the virus at bay through large-scale vaccination programmes and careful monitoring.

However, Kapur, who has been chairman of RI-INPPC for more than two decades, said the danger is still close due to neighbouring countries like Pakistan and Afghanistan, which share their borders with India and continue to experience polio outbreaks, making it easier for the virus to cross over if the surveillance is less attentive.

He said India has made this long journey towards progress by adopting highly sensitive surveillance systems as a form of national and global health security insurance.

Highlighting that India recorded over 9 lakh children who received no vaccines last year or missed even one vaccine under the regular immunisation programme, could help the virus hide and spread, Dr. Anand Narayanan, Associate Consultant, Paediatrics, Sarvodaya Hospital, Faridabad, added that India must sustain strong polio surveillance as neighbouring countries remain endemic.

"Detecting and stopping any importation early is of utmost importance, failing which we face the risk of new polio cases in our country," he said.

Kapur further said that the only way to prevent the virus from returning is to ensure that every child receives all scheduled doses of the oral polio vaccine (OPV), and parents should not miss any immunisation round, because even one missed dose can break the protective chain that has kept the country safe for 14 years.

Remarking on India's journey in ending polio, Union Health Minister JP Nadda said, "As we observe World Polio Day, it reminds us of India's remarkable journey in eliminating polio, a milestone achieved through unwavering national efforts and strong public participation."

Yeast can survive Martian environment: IISc

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

YEAST, an indispensable ingredient in making bread, beer, and biotech products, has the resilience to withstand harsh conditions found in the Martian environment, a new study by researchers from the Department of Biochemistry, Indian Institute of Science (IISc), and collaborators at the Physical Research Laboratory (PRL), Ahmedabad, have found.

The team exposed yeast cells to high-intensity shock waves – similar to those produced by meteorite impacts on Mars – and perchlorate salts, which are toxic chemicals found in Martian soil. Using a High-Intensity Shock Tube for Astrochemistry (HISTA) in Bhalamurugan Sivaraman's lab at PRL, they simulated shock waves reaching Mach 5.6 intensity. The team also treated yeast cells with 100 millimolar, or mM (a unit of concentration), sodium perchlorate either in isolation or in combination with the shockwaves, according to IISc on Friday.

"One of the biggest hurdles was setting up the HISTA tube to expose live yeast cells to shock waves – something that has not been attempted before – and then recovering yeast with minimum contamination for downstream experiments," said author Riya Dhage, a project assistant in the lab of Purusharth I Rajyaguru, Associate Professor in IISc's Department of Biochemistry.

The researchers found that yeast cells survived when treated with shock waves and perchlorate, individually and in combination, although the cells' growth slowed down. The likely key to their resilience lies in their ability to produce ribonucleoprotein (RNP) condensates – tiny, membrane-less structures that help protect and reorganise mRNA when the cells are under stress. Shock waves triggered the assembly of two types of RNPs called stress granules and P-bodies, while perchlorate exposure led to the generation of P-bodies alone. Yeast mutants that were unable to form these structures were far less likely to survive.

The results show how RNP condensates may act as biomarkers for cellular stress under extraterrestrial conditions.

"What makes this work unique is the integration of shock wave physics and chemical biology with molecular cell biology to probe how life might cope with such Mars-like stressors," says Dhage.

The findings underscore how baker's yeast could serve as an excellent model for India's efforts in astrobiology research. Understanding how such cells reorganise their RNA and proteins under mechanical and chemical stress can provide insights into the survival of life forms beyond Earth. Crucially, such insights could guide the design of stress-resilient extraterrestrial biological systems.

The scientific name for baker's yeast is Saccharomyces cerevisiae. This is a single-celled fungus, also known as brewer's yeast, and used in baking, brewing, and winemaking due to its ability to ferment sugars into CO2 and alcohol.

Baker's yeast is also a single-cell microorganism found on and around the human body. Baker's yeast is available in a number of different forms, the main differences being the moisture contents.

Tiny, membrane-less structures key to resilience

The researchers found that yeast cells survived when treated with shock waves and perchlorate, individually and in combination, although the cells' growth slowed down. The likely key to their resilience lies in their ability to produce ribonucleoprotein condensates—tiny, membrane-less structures that help protect and reorganise mRNA when the cells are under stress.

Ease of travel: Civil aviation ministry firms up winter schedule of all airlines

S LALITHA @ New Delhi

THE Ministry of Civil Aviation on Friday announced the winter schedule of all scheduled domestic airlines that will come into effect from October 26. A total of 26,495 flight departures per week across 126 airports in the country have been approved by the ministry.

Indigo has been allotted the maximum departures of 15,014, while Air India and Vistara combinedly will be responsible for 4,277 departures. This marks an improvement of 5.85% over the winter schedule of 2024.

An official release from the Civil Aviation Ministry said that when compared with the summer schedule, the winter schedule will have 1,000 additional departures. "There are 26,495 departures per week which have been finalised to/from 126 airports as per Winter Schedule (WS) S25 compared to 25,610 departures per week from 129 airports in the Summer Schedule 2025."

This schedule will be in place till March 28, 2026. The new airports which will make their debut this winter are Amravati, Hissar, Purnia and Rupsi. The airports that have been suspended from operations are those in Aligarh, Moradabad, Chitrakoot, Bhavnagar, Ludhiana, Pakyong and Shravasti.

"The Winter Schedule 2025 of the scheduled domestic airlines has been finalised after the slot conference meeting held in September. The final slots clearances have been received from respective airport operators," it added.

Indigo will have a 6.05% growth over its summer schedule while Spicejet will have a 26.45% increase. Star Air with 538 departures will have a 6.53% growth.

Air India will have a dip of 0.77% while Air India Express will go down by 6.04% dip. FlyBig will have the maximum impact with a 67.05% negative growth in departures with just 58 flight departures while Fly91 will have a 59.35% dip. Akasa Air 's departures will go down by 5.69%.

'Nayi raftar': Endorsement echo in Modi's praise for Nitish leadership

RAMASHANKAR @Patna

PM Narendra Modi and CM Nitish Kumar during a rally in Samastipur on Friday | PTI

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Friday signalled what many see as a de facto endorsement of Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar as the NDA's chief ministerial face, asserting that the ruling alliance, under Nitish's leadership, is poised to achieve a record-breaking victory in the upcoming assembly elections.

Speaking to packed crowds during back-to-back rallies in Samastipur and Begusarai, Modi highlighted the NDA's development agenda and governance record, and asserted: "I can now say with full confidence that under Nitish's leadership, NDA will break its own record in Bihar and secure the biggest mandate ever."

The timing of Modi's remarks added weight, coming just a day after the Opposition INDIA bloc announced RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav as its chief ministerial candidate. Some days ago, Union Home Minister Amit Shah had only increased the suspense by saying the legislature party leaders would decide the alliance's CM candidate after the polls.

Modi was unequivocal in his praise. "Nayi raftar se chalega Bihar, phir jab aayegi NDA sarkar," he said, emphasising that Bihar's growth would accelerate under NDA governance. Modi credited Nitish Kumar with ending what he repeatedly called the "jungle raj" of the RJD years, saying, "For 20 years, Nitish Kumar struggled to take Bihar out of 'jungle raj' as Opposition RJD-Congress created obstacles."

He projected Bihar as a state poised for investment and innovation, adding, "Bihar is now an attractive destination for investments where every district will see startups of local youths in the days to come." He also drew a sharp contrast with the Opposition, asserting, "Law and order could not exist where a party like the RJD was in power."

The PM also aimed at the Opposition alliance, dismissing the INDIA bloc as a "mahalathbandhan," or coalition that fights among itself. He criticised the bloc's leaders as "corrupt and currently out on bail". while alleging that their arrogance had led them to ignore smaller allies like Jharkhand Mukti Morcha and Mukesh Sahani's VIP, despite promising a deputy CM post.

He recalled the Congress's past treatment of its own leaders, citing former party president Sitaram Kesri, saying, "It's no secret how a family in the Congress misbehaved with him. This is the true face of those who claim to fight for social justice," while calling the party "anti-Dalit".

Before addressing the crowds, Modi visited the ancestral house of socialist icon and former Bihar chief minister Karpoori Thakur in Karpoorigram to pay tribute and interact with his family. The visit carried symbolic weight, following the posthumous awarding of the Bharat Ratna to Thakur, a move widely read as part of the NDA's effort to consolidate support among the state's Extremely Backward Classes, who constitute over a third of Bihar's population. "Now they (the Opposition) are trying to steal 'Jannayak' from the departed leader," Modi said in Begusarai, referring to Thakur's popular epithet and accusing the RJD of political opportunism.

Ending on a lighter note, he asked the crowd to "switch off their mobile phones," before adding, "When there is so much light, is there a need for a lantern?"—a pointed reference to the RJD's election symbol.

EC asks parties to label AI content used for campaign

In an advisory to parties, the Election Commission on Friday directed them to ensure prominent labelling of AI-generated and synthetic content shared for campaigning during the Assembly elections. The poll panel said the campaigners "will need to include disclaimers in advertisements and promotional content disseminated online".

Tejashwi promises to weed out graft, says give him a chance to prove himself

RAMASHANKAR @Patna

TEJASHWI Prasad Yadav, the INDIA bloc's choice for Bihar chief minister, on Friday launched his election campaign, appealing to voters to give him one chance to prove himself. Addressing a rally in Simri Bakhtiyarpur in Saharsa district, he pledged to make Bihar "number one" and promised a corruption-free government if the Opposition alliance came to power.

He told the gathering that he would present a government that listens to people's grievances and ensures affordable medicines and jobs. Sharpening his attack on Chief Minister Nitish Kumar, the RJD leader said, "Nitish chacha has been running the state for 20 years. The time has come to change the government."

Tejashwi highlighted the migration of Biharis to other states for livelihood, education, and healthcare, adding, "I will stop all these things in five years that the NDA government could not do in 20 years. I need just one chance to prove myself."

Acknowledging his youth, he said, "Though I might be 'kaccha' (immature) in age, I am 'sachha' (true) in keeping my promises. Tejashwi jo bolta hai use kar ke dikahata hai".

He reiterated his dream of making Bihar "number one", saying, "Bihar deserves a government that delivers on education, healthcare, employment, irrigation, takes action, and listens to people's grievances. We want a Bihar where nobody has to go elsewhere for a job and health facilities."

Tejashwi also promised communal harmony, declaring, "If the INDIA bloc comes to power and I become the CM, I will ensure there will be no crime. There will be no 'communal violence'. There will be peace and coordination among people of all religious faiths."

Shah hits out at RJD's 'jungle raj' in rallies

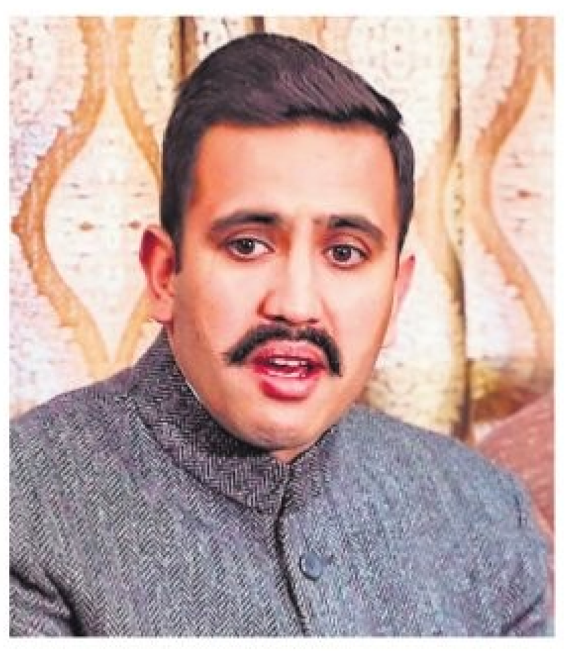
Vikramaditya rejects royal titles for himself

Reflecting changing times, Himachal Pradesh PWD Minister Vikramaditya Singh, scion of the Bushahr royal family and son of former six-time chief minister, the late Virbhadra Singh, has appealed to the public to stop addressing him as ₹₹Raja Ji" or Tikka Ji". In a social media post, he wrote,₹"many people call me ₹raja ji' or ₹tikka ji' with affection and respect. I am grateful to you for this affection, but over time, society's thinking has moved forward. Such addresses are certainly part of our glorious history, but in today's age, they are not needed. My only humble wish is that you all call me by my name."



Union minister counters AAP flak on flood relief

While countering Punjab's AAP government's criticism on flood relief, Union Agriculture Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan, who was in Ludhiana recently to attend the programme at the Indian Institute of Maize Research, made a pointed remark that his visits to Punjab were not for tourism purposes, but to bring relief from the Centre for the state's flood-hit areas. He recalled his earlier visit to Punjab when floods ravaged farms and houses. "At that time, Prime Minister Narendra Modi immediately directed his ministers to visit the state and assess the ground situation," he said, adding that Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann should "rise above politics".

Haryana DGP flags excessive screen time

Haryana's new DGP O P Singh recently converted a late-night accidental call from a child into a statewide public-safety advisory, broadening the policing lens to include the silent epidemic of digital addiction among children. He personally verified the caller's well-being and also spoke briefly with the family. He then posted a short account of the interaction on X, using the moment to warn parents about excessive screen time. ₹₹ Let kids grow with mud on hands, not glass in palms," he wrote, emphasising the importance of outdoor play and real-world social interaction instead of addiction to digital devices, which "disrupt sleep".

SIT to get CCTV footage from S'pore in 10 days

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

THE Special Investigation Team (SIT) probing music icon Zubeen Garg's mysterious death is hoping to get CCTV footage and witness statements from Singapore Police within the next 10 days.

SIT chief Special DGP (CID) Munna Prasad Gupta, who led a two-member team to Singapore and returned on Thursday, told media persons on Friday that their visit as well as the meeting with a five-member high-level team of Singapore Police held on October 21 was "fruitful."

Stating that information on the ongoing investigation was exchanged, he said the report of post-mortem, conducted in Singapore, was shared with the SIT through the Indian High Commission. "We told Singapore Police that as we want to complete our investigation within a timeframe, we need their legal assistance. They said they would provide the assistance by staying within Singapore's visa legal system," Gupta said.

The SIT visited several cites connected to the case and conducted other legal works.

Madrasa under probe for demanding 'virginity test' for 13-yr-old in Moradabad

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

A man has alleged that the management of a madrasa in UP's Moradabad demanded a virginity certificate from his daughter, a Class 7 student at the institution. He also claimed that the management threatened to expel the student by giving her a transfer certificate if she did not comply.

Moradabad Superimtendent of Police (city) Ran Vijay Singh confirmed that the police have received a complaint against the madrasa in Lodhipur in Pakbara police station area. "A person from Chandigarh has complained that the madrasa management made objectionable comments about the character of his daughter, who studies in the madrasa," said the SP. "We are investigating the matter. Action will be taken as per the probe findings," he added. Police sources, however, said that after submitting the first complaint, the 13-year-old girl's family members have not been coming forward.

According to the madrasa management, the girl's mother brought her to the madrasa for admission in Class 8. "When the mother brought the daughter to school, the madrassa management said that as per their information, girl's father Mohammad Yusuf used to behave inappropriately with his daughter. On this basis, the school refused to readmit his daughter," a member of the management said.

After refusal of admission to his daughter, Yusuf released a video saying: "I live in Chandigarh. Serious allegations have been made against the management of Jamia Asanul Girls College located near Lodhepur Pakbara in Moradabad." The video further said, "The school put a condition of a medical examination for the daughter. Moreover, they also took ₹500 in the name of giving a transfer certificate)."

'Threatened to expel her if she refused to comply'

A madrasa in UP's Moradabad allegedly demanded a virginity certificate from a girl studying in Class 7. According to her father, the management threatened to expel her by issuing a transfer certificate if she did not comply. The Moradabad SP (City) has said the matter is being investigated.

THE Opposition BJP on Friday pulled off an unexpected victory in one of the four Rajya Sabha seats from J&K due to cross-voting by at least four legislators, while the ruling National Conference (NC) won the remaining three seats.

BJP's J&K chief Sat Pal Sharma emerged victorious from Seat No.4, securing 32 votes—four more than the party's strength of 28 in the 88-member Assembly. His NC rival Imran Nabi Dar managed only 21 votes. The NC won the other three contests, with Chowdhury Ramzan defeating BJP's Ali Mohammed Mir by securing 56 votes, while Sajjad Kichloo defeated BJP's Rakesh Mahajan with 54 votes. In the third seat, NC's Shammi Oberoi won by securing 31 votes.

Senior NC leader and former Deputy Speaker Nazir Gurezi said besides four cross votes in favour of Sat Sharma, four more votes were invalidated.

Gurezi ruled out cross-voting by NC MLAs, saying that the party agent was present in the polling station and the party members showed the voter slip to him before casting the vote.

"All JKNC votes remained intact, as witnessed by our election agent. There was no cross-voting from any of our MLAs so the questions arise—where did the 4 extra votes of the BJP come from..." CM Omar Abdullah posted on X.

Taliban plans to build dam across Kunar River to limit water to Pakistan

JAYANTH JACOB @New Delhi

IN a move that could have far-reaching consequences for Pakistan's already strained water and energy security, Afghanistan's Taliban government has said it will build a series of dams on the Kunar River.

Taliban's announcement comes on the heels of India's decision in April to suspend the Indus Waters Treaty with Pakistan following the Pahalgam terror attack and signals Kabul's determination to assert its 'water sovereignty'.

According to Afghanistan's Ministry of Information, Taliban Supreme Leader Mawlawi Hibatullah Akhundzada has ordered the Ministry of Water and Energy to begin dam construction on Kunar "as fast as possible" and award contracts to domestic firms.

"The directive reflects Afghanistan's right to manage its natural resources for the benefit of its people," Deputy Minister of Information Muhajer Farahi said in a post on X.

The decision comes just weeks after deadly clashes along the Durand Line between Afghan and Pakistani border forces, which left several dead and heightened diplomatic friction. Relations between the two countries deteriorated in recent months, with Islamabad accusing Kabul of harbouring Tehrik-i-Taliban Pakistan militants.

The Kunar River, known as the Chitral in Pakistan, originates from the Chiantar glacier near the Gilgit-Baltistan-Chitral border. It flows into Afghanistan at Arandu before merging with the Kabul River in Nangarhar Province, which eventually joins the Indus River near Attock in Pakistan.

This network is vital for irrigation, hydropower, and drinking water across Pakistan's Khyber Pakhtunkhwa and Punjab provinces. Any reduction in flow could have cascading effects across Pakistan's agricultural and energy sectors.

If Kabul walks the talk, Pakistan could face a squeeze on its rivers from India in the east and Afghanistan in the west.

Senapati decked up to greet & honour Muivah

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

AHEAD of NSCN-IM leader Thuingaleng Muivah's visit to Senapati in Manipur on October 29, the Nagas have declared a 'Genna' in his honour.

In Naga culture and traditions, Genna relates to restrictions during the observance of a national holiday or community important day. The United Naga Council (UNC), which is Manipur's apex Naga organisation, said all educational institutions and shops would remain closed on that day as a mark of respect to Muivah. People would also abstain from all other forms of economic and commercial activities.

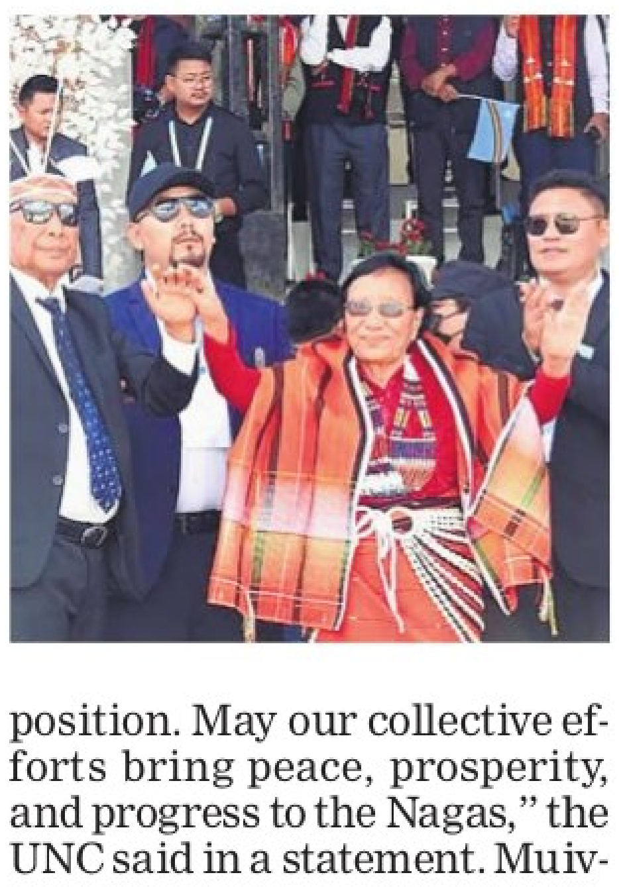
The UNC urged people to participate in the community gatherings and programmes to celebrate the occasion, and uphold the spirit of unity and solidarity. "Let this Genna be a symbol of unity, strength, and commitment in a quest for self-determination based on the (Nagas') unique history and position. May our collective efforts bring peace, prosperity, and progress to the Nagas," the UNC said in a statement. Muivah (91) is currently at his birthplace Somdal in Manipur's Ukhrul district. He returned to the picturesque village 61 years after he had left home in 1964 to join the Naga movement. On October 22, he had two back-to-back public events in Ukhrul town and Somdal.

He will leave Somdal on October 29 to attend the event at Senapati, another Naga-majority district, and then fly to Dimapur in adjoining Nagaland. The NSCN-IM's central headquarters Camp Hebron is located 45 km from Dimapur.

He had made an attempt in 2010 to visit his birthplace with Centre's approval—13 years after NSCN-IM signed a ceasefire agreement – but the then Okram Ibobi Singh-led Congress government in Manipur thwarted it, ostensibly because the outfit was viewed a threat to the state's territorial integrity. The NSCN-IM envisaged a greater Naga homeland through the integration of the Naga areas of Northeast. When Muivah arrived in Manipur on Wednesday, the visit was not opposed by other communities. After all, issues and the political situations have since changed.

Meanwhile, his Ukhrul speech was read out by NSCN-IM leader VS Atem. Muivah recalled that his revolutionary journey began six decades ago from Ukhrul. "I thank the Lord God Almighty for preserving me and making it possible for me to return to my birthplace Somdal today. But many people who I knew and who loved me are missing. Generation comes and goes, but nation stays," he had said.

He mentioned that the "historic national decision" for a "sovereign Nagalim" had been defended and consolidated from the battlefield to the negotiating table. "We shall defend the sovereign national decisions of Nagalim to the last, come what may," Muivah declared.



UNC declares Genna for NSCN-IM leader's visit

In Naga culture and traditions, Genna relates to restrictions during the observance of a national holiday or community important day. The United Naga Council (UNC), which is Manipur's apex Naga organisation, said all educational institutions and shops would remain closed on the day of Muivah's visit, October 29, as a mark of respect for him.

US ends Canada trade talks over Reagan tariff ad

Anti-tariff advertisement campaign featuring former president irks Trump

WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump on Friday doubled down on ending trade talks with Canada over an anti-tariff advertising campaign, as Prime Minister Mark Carney sought to downplay the sudden rupture. On his Truth Social network, Trump said he had "terminated" all talks and vented fury at what he called a "fake" ad that he said misquoted former president Ronald Reagan discussing tariff policy.

Trump said the campaign—produced by the Canadian province of Ontario for US television—was designed to "interfere with the decision of the US Supreme Court," which is due to rule on his sweeping global tariffs. "CANADA CHEATED AND GOT CAUGHT!!!" he posted Friday. "Canada has long cheated on Tariffs, charging our farmers as much as 400%. Now they, and other countries, can't take advantage of the US."

Canada did not directly respond to Trump's move, instead only saying recent talks had made progress "and we stand ready to pick up on that progress and build on that progress when the Americans are ready."

Trump wrote that "the Ronald Reagan Foundation has just announced that Canada has fraudulently used an advertisement, which is FAKE, featuring Ronald Reagan speaking negatively about Tariffs."

He reiterated that in his Friday post, writing that Reagan "LOVED TARIFFS FOR OUR COUNTRY, AND ITS NATIONAL SECURITY."

The foundation wrote on X that the Ontario government had used "selective audio and video" from a radio address on trade that Reagan delivered in 1987. It said the ad misrepresented what the former president said, adding that it was "reviewing its legal options".

The ad used quotes from Reagan's speech, in which he warned against ramifications that he said high tariffs on foreign imports could have on the US economy. It cited Reagan as saying "high tariffs inevitably lead to retaliation by foreign countries and the triggering of fierce trade wars," a quote that matches a transcript of his speech on Reagan Presidential Library's website. AFP

Will continue talks when US is ready: Canada

Canadian Prime Minister Mark Carney said on Friday that Canada was ready for further trade talks whenever the United States is ready, after President Donald Trump announced he was ending negotiations over an anti-tariff advertising campaign. Carney stressed that Canada has "to focus on what we can control, and realise what we cannot control".

UK PM calls on allies to send missiles to Ukraine after Zelenskyy meeting

LONDON

BRITISH Prime Minister Keir Starmer told Ukraine's President Volodymyr Zelenskyy during a meeting in London on Friday that there was more that Western allies could do to bolster Kyiv's long-range missile capability.

Starmer hosted Zelenskyy at his Downing Street residence ahead of an in-person and virtual get-together of Ukraine's key backers in the UK capital. "I think there's further we can do on capability, particularly... long-range capability, and of course, the vital work for coalition of the willing when it comes to the security guarantees that are necessary," the UK leader said.

Kyiv's Western allies have raised pressure on Moscow as the war enters its fourth winter, with the United States and European Union both announcing new sanctions this week on Russian energy aimed at crippling its war economy.

EU leaders also took steps towards funding Ukraine's defence for another two years, although they stopped short of greenlighting a mammoth "reparations loan" backed by frozen Russian assets.

Starmer hugged Zelenskyy as the Ukrainian president arrived in Downing Street for initial one-to-one discussions ahead of the so-called "coalition of the willing" meeting, telling him this week had seen "huge steps forward". NATO Secretary General Mark Rutte, Denmark's PM Mette Frederiksen and the Netherlands PM Dick Schoof were set to attend the London summit.

Weighing impact of US ban on Russian oil: RIL

Company says it has consistently aligned itself with the objectives of ensuring India's energy security

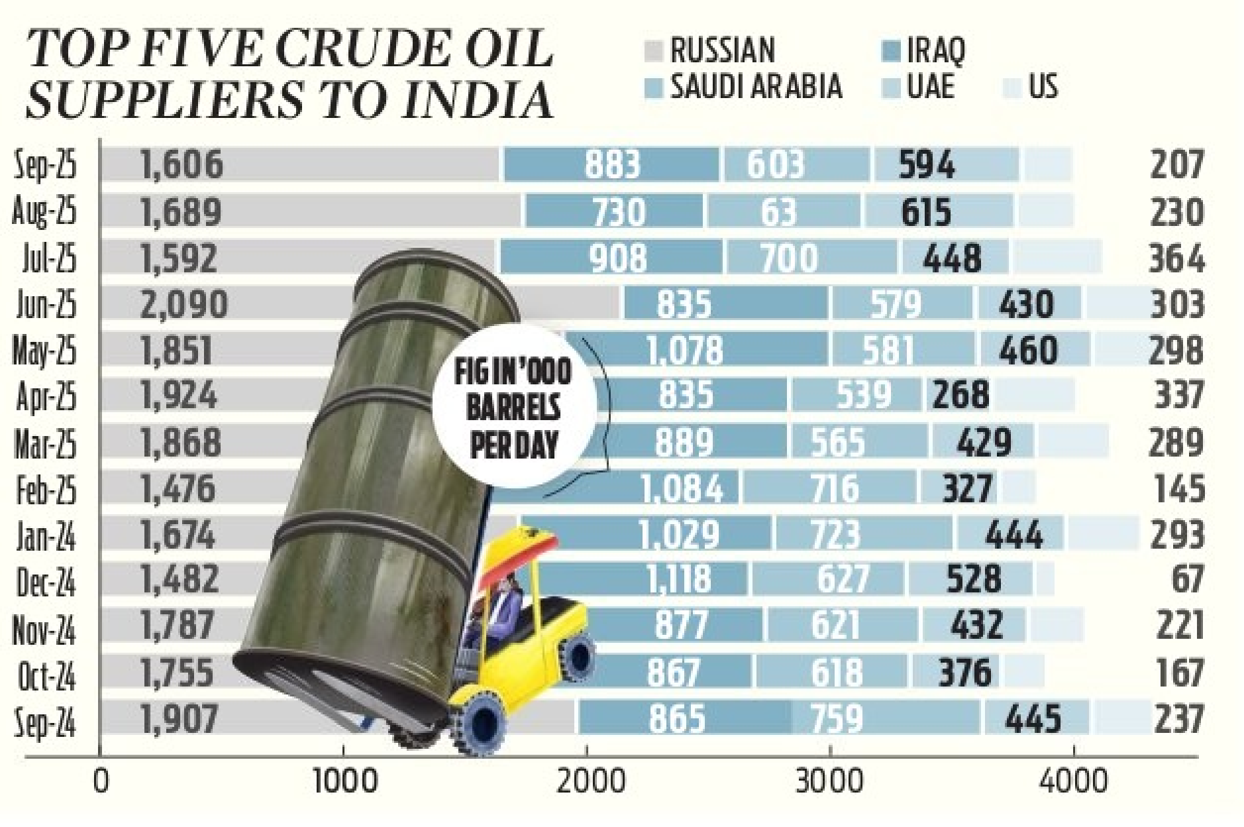
RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

RELIANCE Industries, which owns India's largest refinery complex in Jamnagar, said it is currently assessing the implications of sanctions announced by the European Union, the United Kingdom, and the United States on crude oil imports from Russia.

Reliance, which has a 25-year term contract with Russia's Rosneft to buy up to 500,000 barrels per day of crude, also stated that it will comply with the EU's guidelines on the import of refined products into Europe.

According to data, Russia currently supplies about 35% of India's total crude imports, most of which are purchased by private refiners Reliance Industries Ltd and Nayara Energy.

"We have noted the recent restrictions announced by the European Union, United Kingdom and the United States on crude oil imports from Russia and export of refined products to Europe. Reliance is currently assessing the implications, including the new compliance requirements. We will comply with the EU's guidelines on the import of refined products into Europe. Whenever there is any guidance from the Indian Government in this respect, as always, we will be complying fully. Reliance has consistently aligned itself with the objectives of ensuring India's energy security," said a spokesperson for Reliance Industries Limited.



TOP FIVE CRUDE OIL SUPPLIERS TO INDIA

The US government, on October 22, imposed sanctions on Russia's two largest crude oil producers, Rosneft and Lukoil, in an effort to compel Moscow to end the war in Ukraine. The move follows similar actions by the United Kingdom, which sanctioned the same two Russian oil giants earlier in the week.

The European Union has also approved its 19th package of sanctions against Russia, including a ban on imports of Russian liquefied natural gas (LNG) starting January 2027.

The company said Reliance remains confident that its time-tested and diversified crude sourcing strategy will continue to ensure stability and reliability in refinery operations, enabling it to meet both domestic and export requirements, including those to Europe.

"The company remains fully committed to maintaining its longstanding and impeccable record of adherence to applicable sanctions and regulatory frameworks and will be adapting the refinery operations to meet the compliance requirements," said the spokesperson.

In the past, India has avoided importing oil from countries such as Iran and Venezuela after the US imposed sanctions on them. The latest sanctions mean that companies and financial institutions engaging in transactions with Rosneft and Lukoil risk attracting secondary sanctions from the US.

Sebi bars MFs from investing in pre-IPO placement

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

IN a move that seeks to strengthen the investor protection mechanism, capital markets watchdog Sebi has barred mutual funds from investing in the pre-IPO placements. The Sebi allowed them to invest only in the anchor investor portion of primary issues.

On the back of a banner year show in 2024, setting new records in capital raising an unprecedented ₹1.8 trillion from 317 public offerings, a 2.6x the previous year's, so far this year companies have collected more than ₹2 trillion by selling shares and much more are in the pipeline for the reminder of the year. In 2024, according to JP-Morgan, India led the world in IPO volumes for the first time and second-largest IPO market globally in terms of funds raised, behind only the US.

Notable IPOs in 2025 include Tata Capital (₹15,512 crore), LG Electronics India (₹11,607 crore), and Hexaware Technologies (₹8,000 crore) and those in the pipeline include Groww, Phonepe, Pine Labs, Avaada Energy among 150 others totalling nearly ₹3 trillion and is in course to collect more than $20 billion this year. So far 230 companies went public by October so far. The move has taken aback the fund house and the overall capital markets as Sebi has been known for long making regulatory changes through a consultative process.

In a letter to the industry body Association of Mutual Funds (Amfi), Sebi has "it is clarified that in case of IPOs of equity shares and equity-related instruments, schemes of MFs can only participate in the anchor investor portion or in the public issue". While an Amfi official said the management is still on Diwali holidays and so can comment only next week when they resume work, a mutual fund house official who has seen the Sebi letter confirmed the development to TNIE.

"Because, if the MF schemes are allowed to participate in pre-IPO placements, they may end up holding unlisted equity shares in case the issue or listing cannot be concluded for any reason, which would not be in compliance with the said Sebi norms," the letter said.

TAXPAYERS

FM urges GST officers to be empathetic, swift

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

FINANCE minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Friday urged tax officials of the goods and services taxes (GST) to deal with honest taxpayers with empathy and politeness, and assured that stringent actions will be taken against the officials involved in any wring-doing while collecting the taxes.

She instructed the officials to undertake trade facilitation measures. Speaking at the inauguration of the Central GST (CGST) building in Ghaziabad, she said tax officials should facilitate trade and avoid creating hurdles. "There is no iron wall between you and trader, there is thin air. You can understand where the difficulty is, rather than muddy it up any further," she said.

Sitharaman underlined that the tax department's ultimate goal is to make compliance easier for honest taxpayers, even as those attempting evasion will face strict action. "If there are people who are bad sheep among taxpayers, follow the protocol to get hold of them. But don't look at everybody with suspicion," she said. Emphasising accountability within the Central Board of Indirect Taxes and Customs (CBIC), the minister called for timely conclusion of disciplinary proceedings against erring officers.

Blackstone acquires 9.99% stake in Federal Bank

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

Warrant to carry right to subscribe paid-up shares

The Kochi-based bank said each warrant will carry right to subscribe to one fully paid-up equity share of face value ₹2 at a price of ₹227 a share, including a premium of ₹225. The proposed issue comprises up to 27.3 crore warrants, which, on full conversion, will result in Asia II Topco XIII holding about 9.99% of the bank's paid-up equity share capital.

THE largest and oldest private sector bank in Kerala, Federal Bank, on Friday said global private equity major Blackstone has agreed to pick up 9.99% stake in it for ₹6,196.5 crore.

The investment will come through subscribing to a preferential issue of warrants worth ₹6,196.5 crore to Asia II Topco XIII, a group entity of the global private equity giant.

The warrants will be issued on a private placement basis, subject to shareholders' and regulatory approvals, the bank said in an exchange filing on Friday. The announcement comes within a week of smaller peer RBL Bank announcing the biggest-ever foreign equity participation in domestic banking by issuing 60% stake worth of preferential shares to the UAE-based Emirates NBD for ₹26,853 crore or $3 billion. The deal involves Arab bank taking another 26% through an open offer.

FEDERAL BANK

The Kochi-based bank said each warrant will carry right to subscribe to one fully paid-up equity share of face value ₹2 at a price of ₹227 a share, including a premium of ₹225. The proposed issue comprises up to 27.3 crore warrants, which, on full conversion, will result in Asia II Topco XIII holding about 9.99% of the bank's paid-up equity share capital.

The warrants will have a tenor of 18 months from the date of allotment and may be exercised in one or more tranches. The investor will pay 25% of the issue price at the time of subscription, with the balance 75% payable on conversion into equity shares. Any unexercised warrants at the end of the tenure will lapse, and the amount paid on them will be forfeited. Federal Bank said its board has also approved granting a special right to the investor to nominate one non-executive director on its board, once all warrants are exercised and the investor continues to hold at least 5% of equity. The nomination right will be subject to shareholder approval under listing obligations and disclosure requirements regulations of the market regulator Sebi. The bank has called an extraordinary general meeting on November 19 to seek approvals for the preferential issue and the grant of the board nomination right.

Radhakishan Damani invests ₹90 cr in Lenskart ahead of public offer

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

BILLIONAIRE investor and the founder of Avenue Supermarts (DMart) Radhakishan Damani has invested around Rs 90 crore in eyewear retailer Lenskart Solutions in a pre-IPO (initial public offering) funding round, according to sources aware of the development.

The investment comes ahead of Lenskart's much-awaited IPO which is expected to open for public subscription next week. The eyewear brand is looking to raise 2,150 crore through fresh issuance of equity shares; besides, promoters and investors would offload 13.22 crore equity shares, according to the Draft Red Herring Prospectus (DRHP). As a part of the OFS, promoters Peyush Bansal, Neha Bansal, Amit Chaudhary and Sumeet Kapahi; and investors SVF II Lightbulb (Cayman) Ltd, Schroders Capital Private Equity Asia Mauritius Ltd, PI Opportunities Fund – II, Macritchie Investments Pte. Ltd., Kedaara Capital Fund II LLP, and Alpha Wave Ventures LP would offload shares.

Lenskart proposes to utilise the proceeds from the IPO for various strategic initiatives, including capital expenditure for setting up new company-operated, company-owned (CoCo) stores in India; payments related to lease, rent, and license agreements for these CoCo stores; investments in technology and cloud infrastructure; brand marketing and business promotion to enhance brand awareness; potential unidentified inorganic acquisitions; and general corporate purposes.

The company turned profitable in the financial year 225, posting a net profit of Rs 297.3 crore as against a net loss of Rs 10.1 crore in the same period last year. Lenskart's operating revenue jumped 22.5% to ₹6,652.5 crore during the year from Rs 5,427.7 crore in FY24, as per its DRHP.

Founded in 2008, Lenskart started as an online eyewear platform in 2010 and opened its first physical store in New Delhi in 2013. Over the years, it has evolved into one of the country's most prominent consumer brands in the eyewear category. The company has a presence across metro, Tier-1, and Tier-2 cities, along with international operations in Southeast Asia and the Middle East.

Gold rally lifts forex reserves by $4.5 billion

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

THE record rally in gold prices, which scaled past $4,300/ounce mark in the reporting week, have lifted the overall forex reserves by $4.5 billion to near the record level it had scaled in September when it was near $705 billion.

The reserves closed the reporting week of October 17 at $702.28 billion. This is significant as the Reserve Bank has regularly been in the market as the rupee was bleeding and hit a nadir of 88.80. The biggest push for the accretion was the significant $6.181-billion jump in the value of the gold reserves, which top 880 tonne by September. This has taken the overall value of the yellow metal reserves to $108.546 billion during the week.

ASIANOMICS

CHINA

TO RAISE HOUSEHOLD CONSUMPTION

China will increase the proportion of government investment and raise percentage of household consumption of GDP over the next five years, as per a Reuters report citing officials on Friday. The comments came after China unveiled its outline for economic and other policy goals for 2026-2030 on Thursday, which showed the leadership prioritised manufacturing and technology-reliance over consumption. The country's tech-focused STAR50 index rose 3% on Friday morning, responding to the outline. President Xi Jinping said the integrated development of education, science and technology talent should be promoted. While the plan further tilts toward tech innovation and industrial upgrades, policymakers promised more efforts to boost domestic consumption. China's household consumption lags global averages by about 20 percentage points of GDP, while debt-driven investment is roughly 20 points ahead.

JAPAN

FACTORY ACTIVITY SHRINKS TO 19-MTH LOW IN OCT: PMI

Japanese manufacturing activity shrank more than expected in October, contracting at the fastest pace in 19 months as new orders declined, purchasing managers index data showed on Friday. Service sector activity remained strong and largely offset a downturn in manufacturing, although overall Japanese business activity still grew at its slowest pace in six months. The S&P Global Flash Japan Manufacturing PMI fell to 48.3 in the first three weeks of October, missing expectations of 48.6 and retreating from the 48.5 seen in the prior month. The reading was lowest since March 2024, where a print below 50 indicates contraction in the sector. Japanese manufacturing activity has steadily declined this year, pressured by softer exports as high U.S. trade tariffs weighed on overseas demand. Automobiles and steel were among the worst hit by higher tariffs.

SINGAPORE

CORE INFLATION RISES TO 0.4% IN SEPT

Singapore's core inflation rate increased to 0.4% in September from a year earlier, according to official data released Thursday. The core inflation figure, which excludes private road transport and accommodation costs, exceeded economists' expectations of 0.2% and rose from August's reading of 0.3%. Headline inflation reached 0.7% in annual terms for September, also surpassing forecasts of 0.6%. The Monetary Authority of Singapore has projected core inflation to average 0.5% for the full year 2025, while headline inflation is expected to range between 0.5% and 1.0% for the year. Singapore had reported core inflation at 0.3% for August as services costs eased, which is the softest rise since February 2021. The figure – which strips out prices of private transport and accommodation – was lower than the 0.5% expected by economists polled by Reuters, and lower than the 0.5% seen in the month before.

Q2 FY26 RESULTS

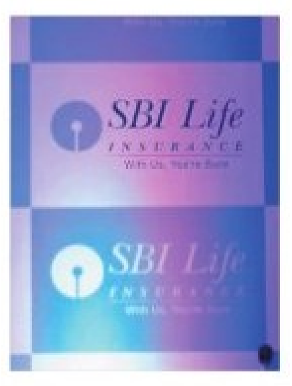
SBI Life profit falls 6.6% despite rise in premium income

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

SBI Life Insurance on Friday reported a 6.6% year-on-year fall in net income to ₹494.6 crore in the September quarter, despite the largest private sector life insurer saw its premium income growing by 22.6%.

The company said the bottomline was helped by a ₹322.33 crore earnings from investments under the shareholders' account during the quarter, higher than ₹282.57 crore a year earlier. The company said its premium income for the second quarter grew 22.6% YoY to ₹24,848.3 crore, aided by stronger performance in both first-year and renewal premia. First-year premium rose to ₹5,289.5 crore while renewal premium increased to ₹1,400.28 crore. The statement did not offer any reason for the fall in net income, though a part of which could be attributed to the abolition of the GST on retail premium which also ended the input tax credit, which normally comes in the 2.5-4% range, depending on the product.

The company said its new business premium rose to ₹18,349 crore for the period from ₹15,725 crore a year ago, while regular premium has increased by 10%. Establishing a clear focus on protection, protection new business premium stood at ₹2,211 crore, marking a growth of 29%. Within in this individual protection premium rose to ₹371 crore, taking the total to ₹12,175 crore.



Rise in biz premium

The company said its new business premium rose to ₹18,349 crore for the period from ₹15,725 crore a year ago, while regular premium rose by 10%. Establishing a clear focus on protection, protection new business premium stood at ₹2,211 crore.

Dr Reddy's net profit rises by 14.5% to ₹1,437 crore

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Chennai

DRUG manufacturer Dr Reddy's Laboratories reported a 14.5% rise in its net profit at ₹1,437 crore in September quarter in the current financial year compared to ₹1255 crore during the same period last year.

Operational revenue rose 9.8% from ₹8,016 crore to ₹8,805 crore YoY. Dr Reddy's said in a statement growth was broad-based across key markets, except for North America generics, which saw higher price erosion in select products and lower lenalidomide sales. The acquired consumer healthcare portfolio in nicotine replacement therapy (NRT) also contributed to overall performance.

Dr.Reddy's
Good Health Can't Wait.

The company's North America sell fell by 13% to ₹3,240 crore YoY in September 2025 against ₹3,728 crore due to rising price erosion in key products, including Lenalidomide, partly offset by favourable forex and contribution from new products launches.

The company launched seven new products in Q2 and 12 new products were launched in the last six months. The company's research & development expenses were ₹620 crore, a decline of 15% from ₹727 crore.

Shanthi Gears reports 16% drop in profit

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Chennai

GEAR manufacturing company Shanthi Gears Limited, a subsidiary of Tube Investments of India Limited – a Murugappa Group – reported a 16% drop in net profit from ₹25.63 crore in September 2024 to ₹21.51 crore in Q2 FY26.

The Tamil Nadu-based company's revenue was at ₹130.71 crore in Q2 FY26 against ₹154.54 crore in Q2FY25. Its profit before tax for the quarter was ₹28.67 crore against ₹34.34 crore in September 2024. It achieved return on average invested capital (ROIC) of 46% in Q2 FY26 and generated free cash flow of ₹12.68 crore during the period. It booked orders worth of Rs 138 crore, a rise of 7%.

ITC Hotels targets 1k keys under Epiq Collection

Net profit rises 74% to ₹133 cr

ITC Hotels on Friday reported a net profit of ₹133 crore in Q2FY26, up 74% YoY. Revenue from operations rose 8% YoY.

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

LUXURY hotel giant ITC Hotels is aiming to add about 1,000 keys under its newly launched premium brand - Epiq Collection - over the medium term. The initial Epiq Collection projects are under development in Puri and Tirupati, marking the brand's debut in culturally rich destinations.

Epiq Collection Puri, the company's owned hotel with 118 rooms, and Epiq Collection Tirupati, a managed hotel with 201 rooms, will open and join the CLUB ITC rewards programme in the next two years. ITC said that this strategic addition to its portfolio is designed to accelerate its premiumization journey by focusing on the conversion of high-quality hotels with new owned and managed properties. Currently, ITC Hotels has a portfolio of 207 hotels with 146 operational and 61 in the pipeline. The company reiterated its plans to have 220-plus hotels and 20,000-plus keys by 2030.

Pakistan pull out of Jr Hockey World Cup

The International Hockey Federation (FIH) confirmed on Friday that Pakistan has pulled out of the Junior Hockey World Cup to be held in India in November-December. Interestingly, PHF has expressed willingness to compete in the tournament at a neutral venue. This comes after the cross-border tensions which took place in April-May.

Stars aligning for opener Pratika

Dreams coming true for India batter and father Pradeep, who has been a rock in her career

GOMESH S @Navi Mumbai

Pratika Rawal played a key role in India's win on Thursday | AP

ON Thursday, just as Pratika Rawal worked around New Zealand's Rosemary Mair to bring up her second ODI century at the DY Patil Stadium, a small banner was unfurled in one of the hospitality stands above the Indian dressing room. It read — 100 — Pratika Rawal: Proud Moment of Father — with Pradeep Rawal, her dad, on his feet, applauding the milestone moment of his daughter.

Pratika removed her helmet to acknowledge the crowd and her father. After all, much like it has been for Smriti Mandhana, 2025 has been a record year for Pratika too. She is the second leading run-scorer this year behind Mandhana and on Thursday, she went past Belinda Clark's previous record (970) for most runs in the calendar year as well.

This tournament, however, had not gone very well for Pratika until Thursday. With Mandhana not getting starts, oftentimes Pratika was holding the innings together and batting with Harleen Deol.

It led to a bit of a stagnation at times. The lack of conversion and the losses meant pressure was piling on Pratika. And when she got a chance to break free against New Zealand, the Delhi batter made the most of it. When the century came along, she let out a sigh of relief and looked at her dad, who has been with her every step of the way. "It feels great. I mean, my dad has come to every international game that I've played. The support from his side has been amazing, and it feels great to score a century in front of him. Winning matches for India, playing in that blue jersey, that has always been the dream for me and for him as well. So, it's actually very great," she said in the press conference.

As Pratika said, it was a shared dream with her father, who played cricket as an all-rounder at the university level. Once a medium-pacer, Pradeep became a BCCI Level I umpire and started taking Pratika for matches. From the moment they decided she would pursue cricket, Pradeep has been with her from day one. During lockdown, he converted the terrace into nets so that she could practice. "She asked me 'Where to practice? I couldn't eat or sleep'. So, I went to West Patel Nagar and bought a terrace flat. I put a green carpet on it and made a net, and she used it to practise day and night. I used to give her at least 500 balls daily," Pradeep recalls in a conversation with this daily. All the hard work and sacrifice came to fruition as she made her India debut against the West Indies in December 2024. However, Pradeep was still anxious about the World Cup. He knows that it is the biggest stage. "Every player dreams of playing in the World Cup. So many players play 100 matches but do not get a place in the World Cup. The charm of the World Cup is like that, as it is the biggest trophy. It is a matter of pride to be named in it for the first time," says Pradeep, beaming with pride.

WC: SL vs Pak abandoned

The match between Sri Lanka and Pakistan was abandoned due to rain on Friday. Pakistan were 18/0 in 4.2 overs. It was also the fifth washout out of 11 matches at this venue.

Alyssa Healy has started training, but it has not been decided yet whether she will be taking part in the contest or not. Australia will proceed with caution, considering what is at stake in the knockouts before risking Healy's fitness.

PROTEAS SEEK PERFECTION

In the last year T20 World Cup, South Africa knocked Australia out in the semifinals. However, this is a different format. For them to beat the defending champions, they need a perfect performance from every single member of the team.

BIG INFLUENCE

It's impossible to tell the story of Bangladesh women's cricket without talking about Pinky. That's the effect the batter has had on the national side. Gomesh S caught up with the 32-year-old to listen to her journey over the last two decades

B'DESH'S STEEL

"I don't know," smiles Bangladesh's Fargana Hoque Pinky.

The Bangladesh cricketer is sitting on a chair at the ACA-VDCA Stadium in Visakhapatnam. The question was about their first official WODI. It had come on November 26, 2011, against Ireland during a World Cup qualifier. Did she remember the number on the cap that was given to her?

It was a historic day for Bangladesh. Having secured their qualification status after beating the USA, all 11 members of the team made their official debuts against Ireland, even though they had been playing for a few years. "At that time," she says, "we did not know because all 11 players made their debuts. There was no feeling of how to debut or what it means. Back then, it was all about participation and not much interest in anything else. We understood the importance of the debut and cap only a few years later."

That was just one of the many firsts for the Bangladesh women's cricket team and Pinky. She was a part of the first official T20I they played against Ireland in August 2012, their first-ever T20I World Cup match in 2014, when they qualified as the hosts of the tournament and the team that beat India to win the Asia Cup in 2018. She scored the first-ever ODI World Cup fifty when they made their tournament debut in 2022. First to score an ODI century, at home and overseas… the list goes on. In many ways, Pinky has been Bangladesh's forever No. 1 as she gave her blood, sweat and toil to the sport.

Her journey began in the Gaibandha district of Northern Bangladesh. Growing up in a sports obsessed family, all Pinky dreamt of was batting. "If you don't dream, you can't do anything," Pinky's eyes light up talking about her love for batting. "From my childhood, when I studied, when I hung out with my friends, I always had a bat. I kept it close to me. I thought someone would take my bat. I kept it close to me like this (imitates holding a bat). My only goal was batting. I was always thinking that if you don't practice, you can't do anything. These things made me feel that I am different from others." However, her road towards that dream had some significant obstacles. There were restrictions from the family and people around her growing up when she wanted to become a cricketer. It was her grandmother, Tahiragh, who stood up for Pinky. She sits up with a rush of happiness whilst talking about her grandmother. "She used to fight with my father, saying, 'no one should disturb her, nothing doing. She has potential, and you are stopping her. You just push her to grow'. At the time, she was younger, stronger.

She used to come to the ground and watch me train, fight with people who talked about me. She supported me so much. Nobody loves like this. She always saw the big picture and believed in me, even today. I love her so much, I have no words to explain (what she means)," says Pinky.

Fargana Hoque Pinky

It did not take long for her to go up the ranks after getting selected at Bangladesh Krira Shikkha Protishtan (BKSP). Not long after, she moved to Dhaka. Understanding the potential, her family stood behind her at a time when there were not enough monetary benefits in the women's game. For Pinky, it did not matter. She loved the sport and wanted to play cricket every single day. While she continued to try and do that in every game, lack of exposure and international matches growth wasn't always linear.

During this phase, the senior players, including Pinky, led the transformation.

She watched and learnt from the best of the Asian stalwarts whom she had access to at the time. The more she watched, played and trained, the better she understood the sport and her own game. There were challenges, lots of ups and downs, but Pinky persisted with the support of her family — first her parents, and then her husband Rafiq Hasan Mishon (a textile engineer) since 2017. "I feel it's not my sole efforts but also my parents' and husband's support that has brought me to this stage today. My husband cares so much for my cricket. He always supports me, encourages me. Even my in-laws, who live in Dhaka, trust me and allow me to put 100 per cent every time I am busy with my cricket. Our journey is not a cakewalk; it is actually very tough, but then I am trying to enjoy this in bits and pieces," she says.

The bits and pieces of enjoyment she refers to are the small milestones — the first WC fifty, first ODI hundred and so on. However, even as Pinky and Bangladesh cricket grew in confidence over the last five years or so, the sport itself has evolved and grown at a rapid pace. To sustain, adapt and keep improving to compete at the highest level has not been easy. In striving to adapt and be the best version of herself, Pinky, 32 now, looks up to the likes of Alyssa Healy and Ellyse Perry.

"I like them a lot. In Asia, there is a perception about players who are 30-plus with regard to their fitness, running and cricket. Unlike England and Australia, in Asian countries, age is not looked at positively. The Healys and Perrys are dominating (in mid-30s). They get support from their cricket board and take this as a challenge. I also want that, basically, not only in our country, but in Asia. Yes, definitely, fitness, practice, and performance are very important. But negotiating with them, if we can reduce it a bit. These cricketers, who are 30+, are good. They will fail at times, but if we support them, they can win many matches for the country." This World Cup, however, has not gone in her favour, scoring 47 runs in 4 matches. But Pinky is proud of the next generation of talent coming through. Marufa Akter has raised eyebrows. So has Rabeya Khan. Pinky feels they, along with Sumaiya Akter, Shorna Akter, and Sobhana Mostary, are promising talents for the future.

India look to avoid whitewash

India have the chance to salvage something from the series before the T20Is commence in Australia. A look at the third and final ODI.

Eyes on Kohli

Virat Kohli's returns of 0 and 0 has set the tongues wagging. Even if the BCCI have explicitly stated that their returns in a single series won't determine the No. 3's short-term future, he needs runs. And quickly.

Hosts' plethora of options

If the visitors have struggled with their assorted all-rounders, the hosts have nailed it with theirs. The likes of Cooper Connolly, Matt Short and Mitch Owen have made telling contributions.

Focus on Hazlewood

If he does play, Josh Hazlewood's magic at the top will be appointment viewing. India have not only lost early wickets but have also struggled for momentum because of the pacer's understanding of the conditions.

Playing after five-month-long wait not ideal, says Chennaiyin coach

CHANDRA PRABHU @Chennai

Players training in Goa ahead of their Super Cup group stage tie on Saturday | CFC

FINALLY, after much brouhaha, court battles and controversies, the domestic football season for most of the Indian Super League teams is set to kick off on Saturday. With ISL's fate still in the limbo (new tendering process is on), the All India Football Federation (AIFF) Super Cup will serve as season openers for those clubs who missed out on Durand Cup in August.

Understandably, some clubs are not too amused. The last five months, pre-season time to be precise, were spent in anxiety with a few of the clubs even resorting to salary-cuts and freeze in signing of new players. There have been no friendlies or warm-up matches either.

Chennaiyin FC is one such club. New coach and former India midfielder Clifford Miranda put a concerned face over the impending challenge — three matches in six days — after five months of inactivity. He was quite vocal because clubs like Chennaiyin, which have put their pre-season plans on the back-burner, now have little time to prepare for matches against teams that have had match fitness.

Chennaiyin are grouped with ISL champions Mohun Bagan Super Giant, East Bengal FC and Dempo SC in Group A of the tournament. Miranda's all-Indian squad will have a stern test against MBSG on Saturday, who have had played matches during the Durand Cup as well as at the AFC Cup. East Bengal FC also appeared in the Durand Cup that concluded in late August. Incidentally, both Kolkata teams also featured in this year's IFA Shield, which Bagan won 2-1. "Not having to train around five months and then to play three games in six days is crazy, but I believe this how we need to adapt sometimes," he said in a press conference on the eve of the opening round of the match. After Saturday's tie, Chennai will face East Bengal on October 28 and then face Dempo SC on October 31.

Clubs postponed pre-season training due to uncertainty over the start of the ISL season. The AIFF and Football Sports Development Limited (FSDL) did not come to an agreement over extending the expiring Master Rights Agreement (MRA) to organise the league.

This prompted the national football body to search for a new commercial partner to run the league. The search for the same will begin in early November.

In September, the AIFF confirmed that the Super Cup would take place from October after which both the leagues will begin. Saturday's opponents will have more match fitness, and Miranda admitted that it is a concern. "In terms of the physical condition (of the players) it is not enough. You can not compensate five months' inactivity as a team to just 12 days of preparation.

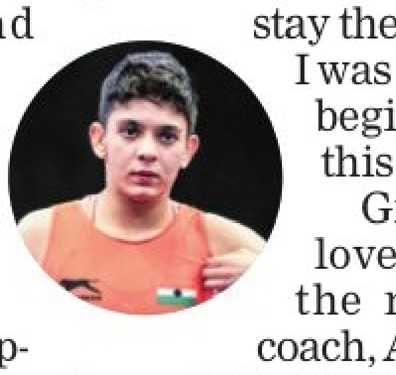
Milkman's daughter Hansika storms into U23 wrestling World C'ships final

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai



HISAR resident Ashok Lamba's day begins in the wee hours as he heads for nearby villages at around 3.30am to buy milk. He then delivers the milk to his regular customers in and around the city. The day ends for the milkman at around 11 at night.

Despite the torturous schedule, which can take a toll on anybody's health, Ashok was more than happy to add yet another chore to his schedule — dropping and picking up his daughter Hansika from the wrestling academy. It was in 2018 Hansika, who was 12 then, developed an interest in wrestling. Already good at studies, Ashok was apprehensive when Hansika told him that she wanted to stay in the hostel and pursue wrestling. "She trains under coach Jasbir Singh at the Sushil Kumar Academy. The facility has a hostel for women wrestlers but letting Hansika stay there was not easy and I was apprehensive in the beginning," Ashok told this daily.

Given her daughter's love for the sport and the reputation of the coach, Ashok finally relented. But it added yet another job to his already frantic routine — delivering milk and other products to his daughter every morning. All that hard work paid dividends on Friday as Hansika stormed into the final of the 53kg weight category at the ongoing U23 World Championships in Novi Sad, Serbia confirming a medal for self and the country. She will face Haruna Morikawa of Japan in the final on Saturday. "Her grandmother brought her to the academy in 2018," the coach said.

Apart from Hansika, Sarika also entered the 59kg final where she will be up against Japan's Ruka Natami on Saturday. It turned out to be a good day for Indian women wrestlers as Nishu and Neha won a bronze medal each in the 55kg and 57kg respectively while Savita (62kg) earned a shot at the third place finish via repechage. Priya (76kg), Pulkit (65kg) and Srishti (68kg) too bagged a bronze medal each.

RANJI ROUND—UP

Karnataka aim for maximum points vs Goa

ENS @Shivamogga

SELECT MATCHES

GROUP A
At Vizianagaram: Andhra vs Baroda; At Kanpur: Uttar Pradesh vs Odisha; At Bengaluru: Nagaland vs Tamil Nadu

GROUP B
At Shivamogga: Karnataka vs Goa; At New Chandigarh: Punjab vs Kerala

GROUP D
At Puducherry: Pondicherry vs Hyderabad; At New Delhi: Delhi vs Himachal Pradesh

AFTER squandering a golden chance to garner three points against Saurashtra, Karnataka will be looking to pocket as many points as possible against a confident Goa in their Ranji Trophy match starting at Shivamogga on Saturday.

Andhra eye better show

Vizianagaram: Andhra almost secured the crucial first innings lead against hosts Uttar Pradesh but Rinku Singh bailed his team out. The Ricky Bhui-led side has a tough task ahead as they meet Baroda, who won their first match.

Odisha face UP

KANPUR: After losing their season opener against Baroda, Odisha will face Uttar Pradesh in their next match in Kanpur. The hosts needed a special innings from Rinku Singh (165 not out) to take a slender one-run lead against Andhra and collect three points.

TN seek comeback

BENGALURU: Tamil Nadu lost by an innings against Jharkhand to start their campaign. They now play Nagaland and nothing less than a win could serve their purpose.

Punjab test for Kerala

NEW CHANDIGARH: Kerala and Punjab drew their first matches respectively and also conceded a first innings lead. They will be up against each other at New Chandigarh facility eyeing first win.

Hyd meet Pondicherry

PUDUCHERRY: Their captain Tilak Varma could not open his account in their game against Delhi but Hyderabad will look to better their show when they take on hosts Pondicherry even in absence of the India international, who has left for Australia for national duties.

Delhi favourites

NEW DELHI: Both Delhi and Himachal Pradesh got three points from their opening fixture. Arun Jaitley Stadium isn't known for hosting Ranji games in October so the flat and slow deck, that is expected to be on offer, promises to be a run-feast just like the hosts' opening match in Hyderabad where Sanat Sangwan and debutant Ayush Doseja scored double hundreds.

KERALA'S TIDE OF TROUBLE

SV KRISHNA CHAITANYA @ Ernakulam (Kerala)

EZHIKKARA, a low-lying panchayat on the northern edge of Ernakulam's backwaters, is drowning slowly — not in rainwater, but in the tides. "Every day, between November and May, we check when the tide will come in," says MS Ratheesh, president of the Ezhikkara gram panchayat in Paravur taluk. "The water rises from within the land, not from the seaside anymore. Salinity is close to 30 ppt — almost equal to seawater. Nothing grows here now."

In this cluster of estuarine villages ringed by the Vembanad Lake — a Ramsar wetland and India's longest backwater stretch — saline water now seeps into homes, fields, and wells for half the year. What were once fertile Pokkali paddies, known for their salt-tolerant rice and prawn farming system, have turned barren. Of the 400 hectares of Pokkali fields Ezhikkara once cultivated, only about 70 remain active today.

"This is the panchayat with the highest youth migration in the district," Ratheesh says bluntly to TNIE. "People are leaving. You can't fight the tide with bare hands."

Ezhikkara's geography defines its fate. The panchayat—barely 350 meters wide in parts—is cradled by Vembanad on three sides, with the Arabian Sea just 5 km further west, separated only by Vypin island. Here, the lake behaves like a living lung: inhaling saltwater during the dry months and exhaling fresh monsoon flows through 10 rivers that descend from the Western Ghats.

"This region is a biodiversity jewel," explains CG Madhusoodhanan, chief executive officer of Kochi-based EQUINOCT, alongside KD Vincent, chair of the panchayat planning committee and a long-time community leader. "The Chalakudy river alone has 140 species of fish, more than the Ganga. Ten rivers drain into Vembanad, enriching it with freshwater and silt. But decades of sand mining, dredging, and urban encroachment have changed everything. The depth that was once 8 meters is now barely 2 in many stretches. The lake is fast losing its ability to sustain life." As the sediment builds up, tidal energy pushes farther inland. The delicate rhythm between the kadal, kayal and kandal — the sea, backwater, and mangrove ecosystem — is collapsing. In Ezhikkara, even the palms along the shore are dying. "The salt now climbs the roots," Ratheesh says, pointing to a row of skeletal coconut trees. "They were never affected before, not even when salinity touched 20 ppt. Now it's touching 30 and above." In response to the creeping crisis, local researchers and communities have taken mapping and prediction into their own hands. Since 2022, EQUINOCT Community Sourced Modelling Solutions and the Community Resource Centre Puthenvelikkara have co-developed a web-based tidal flood forecasting application called "Seasight" that places local observation at the centre of early warning.

Residents were given printed "tidal calendars" to record the time and depth of water entering their homes each day. "We distributed 10,000 calendars across coastal Ernakulam," said Madhusoodhanan. "Every 5 cm rise in tide level was mapped against its real-world impacts —how many houses, roads, or fields get inundated."

The data, cross-checked with elevation maps, feed into a digital dashboard. "It allows us to predict which areas will flood when the tide hits 1.6 metres or 2 metres," Madhusoodhanan explains. "It's a community-sourced early warning system that merges science with lived experience." The dashboard is designed to send alerts to panchayats so residents can move belongings, protect livestock, or temporarily relocate when a high-tide event is forecast. It is cost-effective and can be easily replicated in all the coastal districts, if the government wishes, he told TNIE.

Marine biologists call the Vembanad backwaters the nursery of the sea — where juvenile fish, prawns and crabs once thrived. "That nursery is gone," says Vincent. "Fishers tell us their Chinese nets stay empty for weeks. Invasive jellyfish have taken over; they indicate low oxygen and poor water quality." It's not just the ecosystem that's choking. "The livelihoods of more than a lakh people depended on these waters — fishers, Pokkali farmers, and small traders," Vincent says. "Now, even the fish are migrating elsewhere before the temperature rises due to low depth." Sumitra Nair, a doctoral scholar in sociology and anthropology at Ashoka University, has been documenting the social fallout of these changes. She calls the crisis a "collision of natural and human-made vulnerabilities."

Local villagers building a sluice gate manually at Ezhikkara

"The problem is not just sea-level rise — it's the sum of dredging for ports, sand mining, unplanned urban expansion, and the loss of mangrove buffers," she explains. "These anthropogenic pressures have accelerated what might have been a gradual process. In less than 20 years, a resilient wetland ecosystem has become a slow-motion disaster zone."

The Pokkali system — a heritage farming model unique to coastal Kerala — is both an agricultural and ecological innovation. During the monsoon, farmers cultivate tall salt-tolerant rice varieties in flooded fields; after harvest, the same fields are opened to the tides for prawn and fish farming.

"It's a dance between the moon and the monsoon," says Vincent, who comes from a Pokkali-farming family. "The sluice gates are opened not by machines, but by the rhythm of the tides. The fields need the sea, but only in balance."

That balance is now broken. "Salinity stays too high for too long," says Ratheesh. "We used to get freshwater from the rivers during rains — now even that flow is blocked or delayed by upstream dams. Without that dilution, the soil has become sterile."

Farmers who once grew vegetables and millets on the higher garden lands around the paddies have given up. "Everything wilts now," Ratheesh says. "Kerala imports most of its vegetables from Tamil Nadu, even though this land was fertile just 20 years ago." Ezhikkara's plight mirrors the wider crisis of the Vembanad ecosystem. Covering 100 kilometres and stretching across Ernakulam, Alappuzha and Kottayam districts, the lake is India's third National Waterway and a hub of economic activity. Its shores are lined with ports, shipyards, industries and tourism infrastructure.

"The dredging of navigation channels for port access has deepened the estuaries, removing natural sandbars that once acted as buffers," Nair notes. "This allows more seawater to rush in during high tides."

Data collected by EQUINOCT shows that tidal flooding has intensified rapidly since 2018, when Kerala's devastating monsoon floods altered the region's hydro-morphology. "The highs are higher now," says Madhusoodhanan. "Sea-level rise explains part of it, but the human alterations have multiplied the impact."

Despite the data and community mapping, the state has yet to officially recognise tidal flooding as a natural disaster. "We've prepared a detailed project report and submitted it to the government," Ratheesh says. "It's been five years — no one has even visited." The report pegs the cost of essential mitigation works, including embankment strengthening and flood regulators, at over ₹320 crore for the panchayat alone.

For Vincent, the lack of action reflects a deeper problem: "The system sees disasters only when they are fast and visible — a cyclone, a landslide. But tidal flooding is slow and invisible. It doesn't break suddenly; it seeps." Ezhikkara's future now hinges on restoring that lost equilibrium — by reviving Pokkali farming, regulating dredging, and letting the community's own flood maps guide decisions. The mapping work led by EQUINOCT, combined with the voices of local leaders and scholars, is already changing how people perceive risk: not as a distant policy problem but as a lived, charted and shared reality.

WHAT IS TIDAL FLOODING

- Tidal flooding (or high-tide flooding) happens when sea level rises above a certain threshold and saltwater intrudes inland through river mouths and estuaries
- It is distinct from monsoon or rain flooding — it occurs without rainfall, driven instead by lunar cycles, tidal surges, and sea-level rise
- Once known locally as Vrishchika Veliyettam, it traditionally coincided with new and full moon tides in November–December but has now extended for months, submerging villages and farmlands
- In Kerala, it's most visible in estuarine villages around Kochi, Paravur, and Vypin, where saline backflow from the Arabian Sea enters inland through the Vembanad Lake and connected rivers

WHY IT HAPPENS?

SEA-LEVEL RISE AND OCEAN WARMING

The Indian Ocean is rising at 3.3 mm/year, among the fastest globally

Warmer seas expand and elevate mean sea level, pushing saline water further inland during high tides

ALTERED HYDRO-MORPHOLOGY OF RIVERS

Decades of sand mining, dredging, and reclamation have deepened riverbeds and removed natural sandbars that once blocked saline ingress

Many riverbeds now lie below mean sea level up to 10 km inland, allowing tidal water to flow freely during high tides

MOMS MAKE IT BATTER

Beyond its current exhibit 'Calorie', Science Gallery Bengaluru is grabbing eyeballs for its mom-run food truck serving up traditional, healthy food, which recently got billionaire Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw's nod

MAHIMA NAGARAJU

WITHIN the premises of Science Gallery Bengaluru (SGB) on Bellary Road is a shiny stainless steel capsule that looks like it lost its way out of a science fiction film. You might expect aliens with probes to step out of this UFO on wheels, but what you get is even better – a team of moms ready to serve up fresh plates of 'mane oota' (home food) with a touch of mom magic. This is ScCuXe (pronounced Scoo-zee) by Henchu, a cute-looking truck-cafe that's buzzing over social media with investor of SGB Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw recently called it 'an innovative startup created by moms as a food lab' on platform X.

"I've been cooking for 35 years, and my children always said there's so much love, affection and energy in your cooking. Why don't you start something like that?" says Gayathri Mruthyunjaya, the 63-year-old force behind this venture, which started in early August this year, recalling the suggestion that kicked off her cafe. Collaborating with her son, Karthik Aradhya M, she brought together a team of 10 mothers and two men to make this dream a reality. "There are so many other women who have this hidden talent in cooking, and according to me, cooking is an art," she adds.

Her team of mothers is made up of close friends and relatives aged 32 and above, each with their own expertise, and Mruthyunjaya's mission is to let each one shine. A new lunch menu each day, featuring traditional food from Karnataka, is how she does it. "One mother makes holige, the other mother makes dosae well, another makes pulav well, and yet another makes gojju avalakki. Each mother gets the opportunity to present their dishes," she says. Apart from traditional Karnataka fare, they also serve up delicious homemade cakes, buns, and a few North Indian dishes.

With the cafe finding a home on the campus, the menu priced from ₹20 onwards is not just about taste and heritage but also health and nutrition. As Aradhya explains, "ScCuXe stands for science, culture and experiment. And this aligns with the way mothers make our food intuitively, and how the science gallery's 'Calorie' exhibit functions too, revolving around food culture." Mruthyunjaya adds, "When moms make any food, we try to make it with the right proportion of carbohydrates, proteins, vitamins, minerals, and fibre – so that it's a balanced meal. We do this at home, but here, we are more conscious of it."

This is one of the reasons Jahnavi Phalkey, the gallery's director, was drawn to and has grown fond of the place. She says, "Our mission is to bring science back into culture. We want people to make considered and informed choices in every aspect of their lives, from careers to the food they eat. Henchu stood out for us because of their commitment to local cuisine, appropriate scale, and the experimental nature of their work: almost a start-up run by a mother-son duo. We have been proved right by the enthusiasm generated around their offering." Her favourite? A classic Karnataka meal that she says is 'healthy, tasty and something you will not find in a restaurant – jowar roti, brinjals, greens, jhunka, salad, buttermilk and so on.'

With all the attention following a few popular Instagram reels and now Mazumdar-Shaw's praise, Mruthyunjaya says she is 'truly blessed'. "When you cook at home, our children say it's good, and that's it. But when we present the food to others and they say so, it was a great surprise."

An unexpected outcome has come from this, too, Mruthyunjaya says, "Many ladies have started messaging us on social media saying they have a passion for cooking and want to join. So we want to make a big team!" Aradhya fondly concludes, "The vision is to take our home-cooked food to the world."

B'luru doctor-turned-actor Aditi Sanwal on stepping into the legacy of Kyunki Saas Bhi Kabhi Bahu Thi, finding inspiration working alongside former minister Smriti Irani and being part of the show's collaboration with the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation

Serially Iconic

SRUTHI HEMACHANDRAN

THE door opens and nostalgia walks right in. Nearly 25 years later, Smriti Irani's Tulsi made a comeback to television screens with the second instalment of Kyunki Saas Bhi Kabhi Bahu Thi, transporting millions back to the world of Virani family. As expected, the iconic show opened to nostalgic responses with the reboot being a memory and emotion, all reborn in high definition.

For doctor Aditi Sanwal, who plays the roles of Mitali, potential daughter-in-law of Tulsi, stepping into this legacy feels nothing short of surreal. "When the team approached me, I was excited to be associated with the show that's not just a brand but also a fond memory for the entire nation," she says. Best known for her roles in Kasautii Zindagii Kay 2 and the later instalments of Baalveer, Sanwal brings a fresh dimension to the reboot.

Playing Mitali, a character with a hint of mischief and moral ambiguity, she says, "This is my first time portraying a grey character. I was clear that I didn't want Mitali to come across as purely negative. She is mischievous, but she's doing things for love. I wanted her to feel real, not theatrical." Off-screen, Sanwal's journey is just as layered as her on-screen roles. She completed her MBBS from MS Ramaiah Medical College in Bengaluru, balancing theatre, ads and shoots alongside her studies. "The city helped me find myself and pursue my dreams. I still come back often," she shares, adding, "Ever since I was a kid, I dreamed of becoming an actor, though I didn't realise it back then. Growing up in Jhansi, a small town with limited opportunities, I never thought it could actually happen. While studying medicine, I joined theatre to explore my passion, and that's when I knew acting was what I truly wanted."

Working with Irani has been a learning experience in itself, as Sanwal adds, "I really look up to women who've made a mark for themselves. And Smriti ma'am is definitely a stellar example of it, balancing family, politics, and acting. She has achieved so much that there's no need to be working so hard, but she continues to put in the same passion in every scene. She is one person I really observe on set. Watching her manage everything while giving her best really motivates me."

Recently, Sakshi Tanwar, as Parvati from Kahaani Ghar Ghar Kii, made a special cameo on the show, leaving fans of the two senior actors enthralled. "There was a scene featuring Tulsi and Parvati, and it felt like I was sitting and watching live television. It transported me straight back to my childhood," shares Sanwal, who had the rare opportunity to watch the crossover live on the sets.

While nostalgia anchors the show, Kyunki 2 doesn't shy away from modern conversations. From body image and ageing to maternal health and malnutrition, the reboot threads in topics rarely explored on prime-time television. In a historic first, the show has been associated with the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation, using its platform to raise awareness on health and social issues, particularly maternal and newborn health. The collaboration, reportedly for the show's three episodes, highlights how storytelling can have a social impact that extends beyond entertainment. A recent teaser dropped by Balaji Telefilms, led by Ekta Kapoor who produces the show, sent fans into a frenzy with Bill Gates virtually greeting Irani with a warm 'Jai Shri Krishna'. The moment playfully bridged tradition and global relevance, showing how television can engage with real-world issues in unexpected ways.

Sanwal is particularly happy about the collaboration. "It's amazing that a show like Kyunki can highlight topics like maternal and newborn health, malnutrition and overall well-being while still being engaging," she adds. She also appreciates the energy and pace of the reboot, noting that it is realistic, fast-moving and relevant today. "Some fans prefer me in positive roles, but they understand that I need to explore different kinds of roles," says Sanwal.

THE FIBRE FIX: THE MISSING LINK IN MOST MODERN DIETS

In conversations about nutrition, protein and vitamins often take centre stage while fibre quietly gets overlooked. Yet, this unassuming nutrient plays one of the most powerful roles in maintaining long-term health, from supporting digestion to regulating blood sugar and cholesterol. In fact, low fibre intake is one of the biggest dietary gaps in modern urban lifestyles.

WHY FIBRE MATTERS SO MUCH

Fibre is the part of plant foods that the body can't fully digest, but that's exactly what makes it so useful. It adds bulk to meals, keeps the digestive tract moving, and feeds beneficial gut bacteria. Soluble fibre (found in oats, apples, and beans) forms a gel-like substance that slows sugar absorption, helping stabilise blood glucose and lower cholesterol. Insoluble fibre (in whole grains, vegetables, and nuts) aids regularity and prevents constipation. Together, they keep digestion efficient and metabolism steady.

HEALTH BENEFITS BEYOND DIGESTION

Fibre-rich diets are linked to lower risks of heart disease, stroke and type 2 diabetes. They improve satiety, helping control appetite, and support weight management. Fibre also nurtures the gut microbiome – the colony of good bacteria that influences immunity, mental health, and hormone balance. In women, adequate fibre may even help balance oestrogen levels and reduce PMS symptoms.

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN YOU DON'T GET ENOUGH

A low-fibre diet can cause bloating, irregular digestion, and sugar cravings. Over time, it may increase the risk of high cholesterol, fatty liver, and colon issues. Since most processed and refined foods strip away the fibre naturally found in grains, fruits, and vegetables, the average intake today is often less than half of what the body needs.

HOW TO ADD MORE FIBRE

Most adults need about 25-30 grams of fibre daily. Simple changes help: start your day with fruit instead of juice, switch to brown rice or millets, and include vegetables in every meal. Gradually increase fibre to prevent bloating, and drink enough water to help it move smoothly through the system.

In addition to aiding digestion, fibre also supports heart health, blood sugar balance and hormonal stability. It remains one of the simplest yet most effective ways to build true health.

Rubi Chakravarti

Writer, actor and funny girl

THIS is a time when traditions come to the fore. The season is rife with pujas, parties and pretentiousness. Of course, the truly elegant mix tradition with festivities, family and friends-like-family. They come home to greet, meet and play some fun card games. I think I was born old! I really felt bored at big Deepavali bashes and by 10pm I was ready to call it a night like a true-blue party-pooper. Whereas, my sister loves the Deepavali night celebrations (mostly thrown in her massive home) with music, bar-tenders, dancing and the works. Invariably, the 'men-in-brown' would stop by, pick up some gratuity and move on. No one was none the wiser and the 'Deepavali-cheer' went about being just that…cheerful.

This year, my birthday and the Deepavali dhamakas more or less coincided with each other. My daughter and her family (plus nanny) were all down from Mumbai after a long time. I was delirious with joy. I couldn't have asked for more! A big contingent of my sister's family and mine celebrated a raucous birthday lunch in the private dining area of Royal China (a fave place even in Mumbai to dine in), where we bumped into half the 'pretties' of Bangalore. We had ourselves a great time, and as a mother, 'glamma', sister, and wife, I couldn't be more complete.

Abhijit and Shruti Saha

My 'munchkin', all of three and a full-fledged 'threenager' was with me for a glorious ten days. I wanted to pack every experience into those days. Show her who her 'glamma' was as a person, the aquarium, the train-park, the older side of Bangalore, the traditions of doing the rituals at home, how to draw rangoli, the meaning and story behind the festival and I even managed to show her the Kole Basava, an old folk practice in Karnataka when a highly-decorated bull accompanied by gypsies or nomads blesses people in exchange for alms. This will probably be an extinct art form by the time she grows up and I wanted her to have memories of her 'nani's' home like we all have.

My fortnight has flown by in a meaningful blur where we only met and interacted with close friends and family. No 'shoo' and no 'shaa' and no social media hype. Having been through the whole roller coaster for the last two decades, I don't sit in judgment, but I know I never ever let all the outside noise take precedence over family.

Speaking of family, my 'bondhu', the masterchef Abhijit Saha and his lovely wife Shruti, opened up a beautiful and intimate Neapolitan pizzeria and trattoria at Carlton Towers, called 'Rosmarino.' We sat on charming tables outside, and gorged on genuine wood-fired oven pizzas, devilled prawns, cannelloni, and other Puglia inspired delicacies. I could only wonder how life has taken a full circle. I first met chef Saha when he opened up the first Italian restaurant at The Park Hotel over two decades ago. We became fast friends and I was awestruck at how many ardent fans he has who have followed his culinary journey from Italia, Caperberry, Fava and now Rosmarino! Viva chef Saha!

Susan Fernandes turned a milestone birthday into a crazy party with aplomb. One of the OG families from Bangalore, her party was full of song, great food and everlasting love. Never play a clown in someone else's circus…IYKYK!

THE STORY OF GUMMADI NARSAIAH IS EXTRAORDINARY: SHIVARAJKUMAR

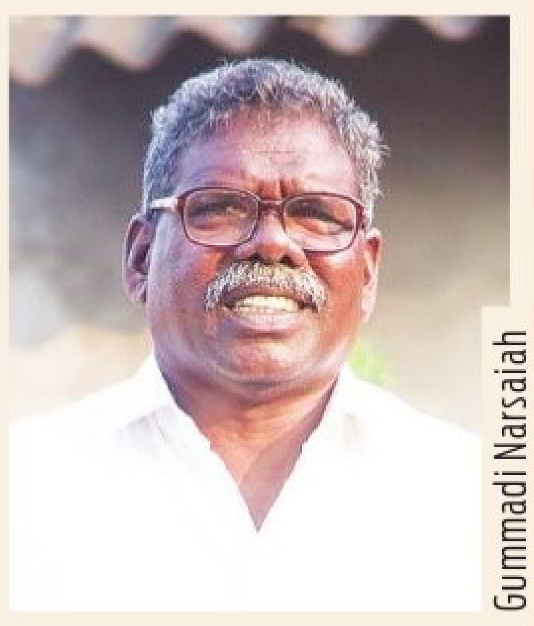
The actor talks about stepping into the shoes of a people's man, a stalwart of grassroots politics, and why such stories deserve to be told

CE FEATURES

SHIVARAJKUMAR, who has been entertaining audiences with roles ranging from mass entertainers to family dramas and gritty underworld sagas, is stepping into uncharted territory. His next venture, Gummadi Narsaiah, a biopic of the legendary politician, promises to illuminate the life of a man who became the true voice of the people. Narsaiah served as the MLA for Yellandu across multiple terms between 1983–1994 and 1999–2009, often triumphing as an Independent candidate, earning a reputation as a stalwart of grassroots politics.

Directed by debutant Parameshwar Hivrale and produced by N Suresh Reddy under Pravallika Arts Creations, the film's first look immediately conveys Narsaiah's grounded persona. Shivarajkumar appears in a simple white kurta-pyjama with a red scarf, strolling alongside a bicycle against the Assembly's backdrop. A red flag bearing the hammer and sickle underscores his leftist ideology, while books tied to the bicycle subtly reveal the politician's intellectual depth and lifelong commitment to knowledge.



Gummadi Narsaiah

Speaking exclusively to The New Indian Express, Shivanna elaborated on the role's appeal, "When I heard of Gummadi Narsaiah and his works, I wondered, does such a person really exist today? The love people have for him, the values he embodies, it touched me deeply." He recalled the serendipitous way the project found him: "I asked the director why he wanted me for this role. He said he could only imagine my face bringing this person's life to the screen, and that made me happy. Learning more about Gummadi Narsaiah only deepened my excitement. Not that I want to enter politics, but his story is human and extraordinary. Even today, he travels by bus and dedicates himself to serving people."

Shivanna's inspiration also harks back to his father, Dr. Rajkumar, who often said that true living meant contributing to others. "My father never lived for himself. He always wanted his language, culture, and people to flourish. Cinema is not just about films; it's about touching lives. Gummadi Narsaiah's story deserves to be told."

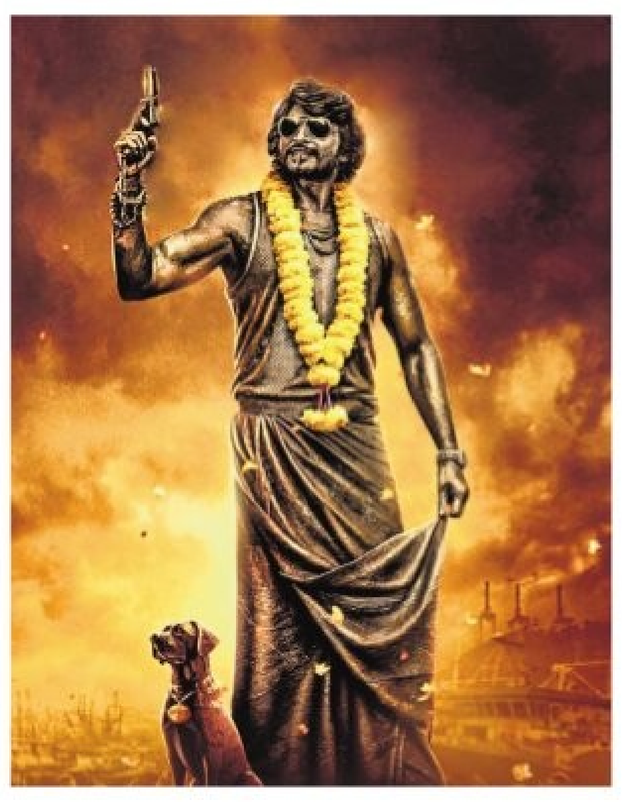
The actor will start with a brief shoot in December, followed by the full schedule in January. "This is a full-fledged role in a Telugu film releasing in multiple languages. It's a dedication to a remarkable person. Irrespective of language, it should inspire everyone, especially politicians and citizens alike, to find joy in serving others. It's never about ambition, he serves, whether or not he holds office."

The film assembles a strong technical team: Satish Mutyala on cinematography, Suresh Bobbili scoring the music, and Satya Giduturi editing. Set for a Pan-India release in Telugu, Kannada, Tamil, Malayalam, and Hindi, Gummadi Narsaiah aims to celebrate integrity, service, and sacrifice with a moving, respectful portrayal. Meanwhile, Shivanna, gearing up for the release of 45, remains fully engaged with multiple projects including DAD, Pavan Wadeyar's upcoming venture, Peddi, and Jailer 2.

Halka Don gets a star-studded launch

CE FEATURES

At the muhurath of Halka Don



KP Sreekanth, the producer behind hits like Tagaru and Salaga, officially unveiled his next big project on Friday. Titled Halka Don, the film made under the Venus Enterrtainers banner, marked its muhurat ceremony with a star-studded celebration that brought together Kannada cinema's finest. Shivarajkumar and Geetha, Sudeep, producer Shylaja Nag, Duniya Vijay, Rachita Ram, Vinay Rajkumar, and director R. Chandru graced the event. Legendary actor Sai Kumar, celebrating fifty years in cinema, was honoured by the team during the occasion.

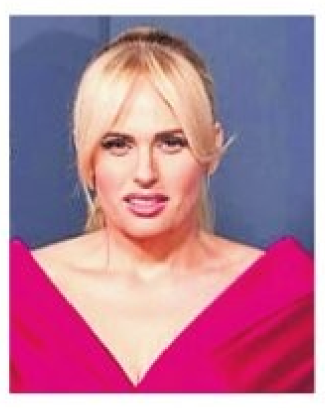
The launch was a lively affair, with Sudeep clapping the first shot, Geetha and Rachita Ram rolling the camera, and Shivarajkumar calling the first 'action cut' Lead actors Pramod and Amrutha Iyengar were formally introduced. Supporting actors Ramesh Indira and Jyothi Rai complete the ensemble.

Duniya Vijay shared his excitement, saying, "This production house gave me a new lease of life after Salaga and Bheema. The combination in Halka Don is stellar. I will never forget the contributions from Satya Hegde, Suri, and Harikrishna's superhit music. I wish the team all the success."

Producer KP Sreekanth added, "Seeing the muhurat energy today, I am confident this film will be special." Meanwhile, Pramod, making a strong statement, said, "I've never felt this much tension for any debut. Shivarajkumar and Sudeep's appreciation motivates me. I trust this film will support my journey."

Directed by Chala, Halka Don is being shot simultaneously in Kannada and Telugu. The mass entertainer will have cinematography by Satya Hegde and music by V Harikrishna.

Jennifer Coolidge and Nicole Scherzinger on board Girl Group



CE FEATURES

ACTOR Jennifer Coolidge and actor-singer Nicole Scherzinger are joining the cast of Girl Group. The comedy is the directorial debut of actor Rebel Wilson. Wilson, who is known for her performances in Bridesmaids and the Pitch Perfect trilogy, is also writing and producing Girl Group. Matt Williams is also producing the film alongside Wilson. Camp Sugar, Future Artists Entertainment, and Live Nation Studios are backing the film, which is currently in production.

Also starring Wilson, the cast of Girl Group includes Randall Park, Sheridan Smith, Jamie Lee O'Donnell, Guz Khan, Jolene Blalock, Ashley Roberts, Melanie Chisholm, Shaznay Lewis, and Loren Gray. The film follows the story of a popstar (Rebel Wilson), who trains a group of unruly teenage girls for an audition for a big record label, after she was kicked out of the reunion tour of her own girl group. Coolidge was recently seen in The Minecraft Movie. Meanwhile, Scherzinger returned to voice the role of Moana's mother in Moana 2.

ROBERT DOWNEY JR TO BACK WEATHER GIRL

CE FEATURES

ROBERT Downey Jr and Susan Downey will develop a new series, Weather Girl, under their Team Downey banner, along with Netflix and A24. This series is the second joint production between Team Downey and A24 after The Sympathizer (2024).

Weather Girl is based on the play of the same name by Brian Watkins, who serves as the showrunner of the series. He will also serve as a writer and the director of the first episode. Julia McDermott, who led the cast of the play at the Edinburgh Fringe festival, will reprise her role for the series. McDermott will also serve as an executive producer along with Watkins, Robert Downey Jr, Susan Downey, and Amanda Burrell. McDermott stars as Stacey, a weather reporter who puts up a professional image on the small screen, even though she is deeply saddened by the destruction of her hometown in California, USA, by wildfires. When Stacey reports from a burning home, which houses a family of five, she begins to drift away from reality.

Fear comes alive in this mind-bending thriller

A SHARADHAA

GREEN
Director: Raaj Vijay
Cast: Gopal Krishna Deshpande, Balaji Manohar, Dimpy Fadhya, RJ Vikki, Viswanth Mandalika, Shiv Manju, and Girish MN

FROM the first frame, Green pulls the viewer into a world where the mind is a battlefield. Raaj Vijay begins with a haunting image, a glowing egg half-buried in tangled roots, with lights flickering in a seemingly alive forest. This is not just a story about monsters in the woods; it explores the human mind, examining fear, trauma, and the quiet darkness that controls our thoughts.

Mayanna (Gopal Krishna Deshpande) is a man struggling with paranoid schizophrenia. He is haunted by hallucinations and memories of a childhood monster. His reality is fractured. The forest he navigates is both real and symbolic, reflecting the cycles of fear and illusion that fill his mind. The director turns what could be a complicated, mind-bending psychological story into a clear and intense look at human fragility, resilience, and the internal struggles that often go unheard.

As the story unfolds, the inner monster tightens its grip, pushing Mayanna into confusion, fear, and isolation. The horror is never just outside; it mirrors the mind. Every rustle of leaves, flicker of light, and faint whistle pulses with the human psyche, turning the forest into a living presence. The "rotten seeds" of trauma lie beneath the surface, invisible yet shaping every choice and thought until they erupt into full-blown terror.

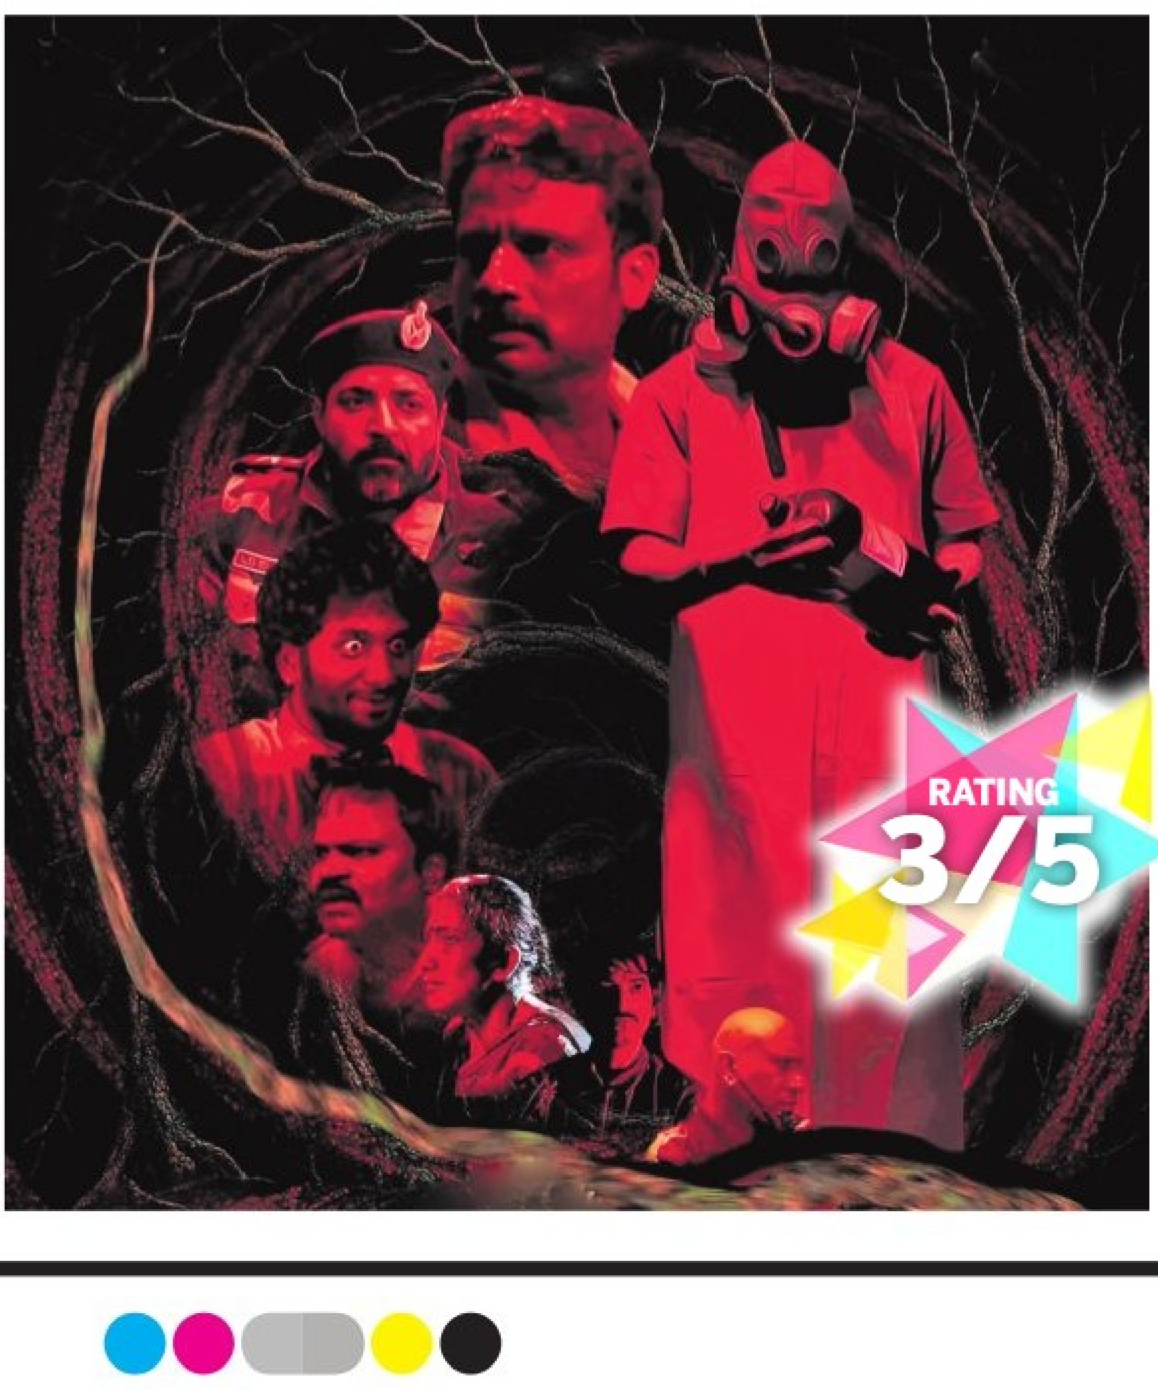
Visually, Green is meticulous. Cinematographer Madhusudhan K frames the forest with precision, making every shadow meaningful. Dolls hang from branches, bodies lie buried with ritualistic care, and light filters through the foliage with purpose. The sound design raises the tension from the snap of twigs to distant whispers, immersing viewers in the protagonist's paranoia. Every technical detail ensures that each element serves the story of human fear rather than merely creating spectacle.

The performances are equally attentive. Gopal Krishna Deshpande grounds the film with restrained intensity, expressing fear, control, and silent torment. Balaji Manohar portrays authority convincingly, while Vikki as Rajeeva is frightening yet subtly vulnerable, embodying obsession. Savitri, played by Dimple Fadhya, is the soul who roots the monster in Mayanna's mind. Vishwanath Mandalika, Shiv Manju, and Girish MN lend support. Even the masked figure, part ritual and part horror, carries symbolic weight in every movement.

Green does not offer easy resolutions. The tension arises not from jump scares but from the constant questioning of perception and reality. Courage is measured not by the absence of fear but by the choice to face it despite overwhelming odds. By the second half, the "rotten seeds" planted earlier begin to grow, revealing cycles of trauma, survival, and reflection. The forest, the mind, and the inner monster are interconnected, showing how unspoken fears shape our choices and relationships.

Raaj Vijay as a writer has come up with a seemingly simple question, but the direction appears complicated, and poses deep questions: which fears are imposed by the world and which come from within? Which shadows can we confront and which consume us if ignored? The terror in Green lingers not just in the forest but in the hidden corners of the mind and the thoughts we avoid.

Green is a unique psychological thriller, gripping, unsettling, and introspective. It is intelligent and crafted for everyone willing to engage with its depth. Its horror is symbolic, its scares internal, and its impact lasting. Precise direction combined with performances rich in metaphor and subtlety makes this film a meditation on fear, trauma, and the resilience of the human spirit. Green does not just depict monsters; it encourages us to look within.



RATING 3/5

RATING 3/5

CINEMA has long chased perfection. Heroes are chiselled, heroines glow, and flaws exist only to be corrected. Every now and then, a film appears that quietly challenges that lens. Bilichukki Hallihakki is one such film, a subtle rebellion by a man who carries his scars as truth rather than shame.

Mahesh Gowda, who writes, directs, produces, and stars in the film, builds the story around vitiligo, a condition he knows intimately. Yet the film never feels like an autobiography. It watches, waits, and lets life speak, asking the audience to look beyond skin without preaching. His skin becomes a starting point for conversation, not sympathy.

Shiva (Mahesh Gowda), is a man from a small village who has learned to move through a world that scrutinises him at every turn. Since childhood, he has faced whispers, uneasy glances, and quiet talks with his mother, Lakshmi Siddhaiah, about the white patches spreading on his skin. His strength lies in the ordinariness of his life. He laughs, hopes, adjusts, and carries on. That calm acceptance becomes his quiet defiance. Even under scrutiny, he moves with dignity, finding small moments of humour and hope.

His life shifts when his family finds a match for him in Kavitha (Kaajal Kunder). To Shiva's family, the alliance feels extraordinary. For Shiva, disbelief outweighs excitement. Why would someone considered flawless choose someone society views as blemished? That single question forms the emotional pulse of the film, simmering without ever being spelled out.

Early sequences are quietly provocative, like when the bride's mother wonders aloud why a man with a limp is acceptable but vitiligo is not. These grounded moments reveal contradictions that sit uncomfortably close to the truth.

As Shiva and Kavitha begin their marital life, the story moves beyond romance to explore how they build a relationship. Kavitha defies her mother to marry Shiva, but acceptance does not come easily. Generations of superstition whisper in her ears that vitiligo is contagious, brings misfortune, or marks impurity. These myths, along with an emotional unease, test her genuine love for her husband, creating a tension Mahesh captures with quiet precision.

There is no melodrama. No shouting matches or teary monologues. Discomfort lives in gestures: Kavitha first hesitates when Shiva removes his shirt, the smiles she wears for others, the silences that lengthen between them. Shiva believes she is adjusting, but she carries fears he cannot see, which is kept as suspense. The film thrives in these unspoken spaces, letting subtlety carry the weight.

Mahesh Gowda delivers a performance that feels lived rather than acted. His pauses, half-smiles, his feelings, and the way he moves from half-sleeves to full-sleeves, even when he eventually bares his skin, says a lot. As someone portraying a condition he knows intimately, his dignity radiates through the frame. Kajal Kunder, too, is quietly effective. She understands Kavitha deeply, and her internal conflict feels raw and honest, especially in moments where empathy and hesitation collide. Together, they create genuine chemistry built less on conversation and more on understanding.

Jahangeer as Ranga brings in earthy humour, acting as a reminder of the old matchmaking mindset, practical, judgmental, yet oddly sincere. His lines about finding the right groom are both funny and revealing, showing how tradition continues to measure human worth. Veena Sunder, Lakshmi Siddaiah, and Ravi Bhat also make their presence felt, grounding the film in familiarity and warmth.

Technically, Bilichukki Hallihakki doesn't aim for visual flamboyance. The cinematography is understated, with natural frames, and an unhurried pace that complements the film's realism, and so is the film's compositions.

The title itself, meaning white spot, becomes a recurring metaphor. Like the moon's craters that don't diminish its glow, Bilichukki Hallihakki argues that imperfection is not the absence of beauty but proof of it.

Overall, Bilichukki Hallihakki becomes a reflection on quiet endurance, the strength of those who live with difference. The film isn't flawless. Its pacing wavers in the middle, and a few supporting arcs feel incomplete. But its intention to humanise, not dramatise, remains intact. Its simplicity becomes its language, its silence becomes its protest.

In the larger context, Bilichukki Hallihakki is less about a man with vitiligo and more about a society that confuses normalcy with sameness. It questions how we perceive attraction, compassion, and purity. In a culture that often demands flawless heroes, Mahesh Gowda emerges as cinema's brave man, wearing truth on his skin and courage in his storytelling.

Mahesh Gowda through his story in Bilichukki Hallihakki, doesn't seek to move you through sentiment. He wants you to sit with the discomfort and re-examine the way you look at others. And in doing so, he makes the white spots of life glow with meaning.
